Agreement Reached In Airlines Strike

Accord Subject To Workers' OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A settlement agreement in the 39-day airlines strike was announced today, subject to a vote of approval by 35,400 strikers against five major airlines.

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said in announcing the tentative contract agreement that a vote by the striking members of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists would be held "possibly and hopefully tomorrow."

Union President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller said meetings of the strikers around the country would be called as soon as possible to explain the terms of the agreement and take a vote.

Terms of the contract agreement were kept secret pending the vote but informed estimates placed the total three-year cost at some $90 million, or about 8 per cent per year. Top mechanics now make $3.52 per hour, plus fringe benefits that bring a total to around $4 per hour.

Asked how he felt about the settlement, reached after nearly 20 straight hours of Labor Department talks that began at 10:30 a.m. EDT Sunday, Siemiller said: "I'm tired. Let's go home."

Reynolds called the agreement a "memorandum of understanding" and emphasized it was not final until approved by the strikers who voted down a previous agreement negotiated in the White House.

If approved by the striking mechanics, it would bring to an end the longest, biggest and most costly strike in the history of the airlines industry.

While Siemiller declined to predict the outcome of the vote, the settlement in addition to reportedly containing considerably higher wages and benefits than the rejected White House package also contained a cost of living wage escalator clause.

The wge escalator had been one of the union's most vital demands from the beginning of the long dispute and its absence in the earlier agreement was a reason given by strikers in many areas for turning down the White House agreement July 31.

Reynolds said "it is an agreement reached by the parties. It was not in any way forced upon them."

He said the agreement covered all the major issues affecting strikers on the five airlines — United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World — plus all local issues on the individual lines.

The agreement also provided for "orderly return to work procedures."

The strike so far has cost the airlines an estimated $300 million in revenue losses. The 35,400 strikers and another 30,000 employes who were laid off have lost upwards of $60 million in wages.

Asked whether he viewed the agreement as noninflationary Reynolds declined to comment "in any way at all."

The agreement shattered the White House wage guideline figure of 3.2 per cent which the Johnson administration had emphasized in the past as a weapon against inflation.

Government officials have cited the high productivity of workers and high profits in the airline industry to indicate no hike in fares should be necessary.

If approved by the strikers, the agreement also will relieve Congress and the Johnson administration of the distasteful necessity of acting to order the strikers back to work.

A bill to halt the strike by law has been cleared by the Senate and is due to go to the House Rules Committee today. But members of Congress had made it clear they did not want to act on such a measure, especially in this election year.

Siemiller said that before working out details for meetings to explain the terms of the agreement to the strikers, it would be necessary for the union negotiators "to stop for an hour or two and get a rest."

As Rights Supporters March

Whites 'Bombard' Police In New Unrest At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Club-swinging police were bombarded with curses, bottles and rocks as they clashed Sunday night with hundreds of whites protesting marches by civil rights supporters. At least 16 persons were injured and 21 arrested.

The outbreaks followed three separate parades earlier by some 1,000 civil rights advocates protesting alleged discrimination by real estate firms.

One march was held on the Northwest Side and two within blocks of Marquette Park, an expanse of grass and playgrounds where whites, spurred by an American Nazi party rally, baited police with chants of "nigger lover," and stoned automobiles occupied by Negroes.

Police arrested 21 persons at the three marches and Marquette Park riot. At least 16 persons were injured during the four separate incidents. Five of the injured were policemen.

The white hostility was evident among the thousands of spectators at the protest marches, but police, numbering almost one per demonstrator, restrained the jeering, stone- and bottle-tossing crowds.

The demonstration on the Northwest Side was held at Jefferson Park. The two marches near Marquette Park were staged in the Bogan and Gage Park areas.

The parade of 300 civil rights workers at Gage Park had barely ended when the trouble began at Marquette Park.

Some 70 motorcycles, adorned with American flags, streamed into the park and were applauded by more than a thousand persons who had gathered to protest the demonstration at Gage Park and to hear a representative of the American Nazi party.

Fewer than a dozen policemen were stationed at the park. They were taunted by the crowd.

John Patler of the American Nazi party stood on a park bench urging the white crowd to assert itself.

"Japan is controlled by the Japanese, Israel is controlled by the Jews and America should be controlled by the whites," Patler shouted.

With each reference to Negroes by Patler, the crowd screamed: "White power! White power! White power!"

As Patler ended his talk, a busload of police arrived. They were greeted by hoots and profanities. A barrage of beer bottles came from the crowd. Several struck the bus and one smashed a window, showering the police with glass.

Police made several arrests, returned to the bus, were taunted once more, and the scene repeated itself.

2 'Friendly' Villages Hit In Fighting

Erroneous Attacks Reported; U.S. Unit Clashes With Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military spokesmen reported today two more apparently mistaken attacks on friendly villages in South Viet Nam.

In the first, five villagers were reported killed and 15 wounded in the Mekong Delta Friday. In the second, four civilians were killed and 35 wounded Saturday in the southern part of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Two other erroneous attacks last week had been reported earlier.

The circumstances of the attack in the Mekong Delta were not clear. A U.S. military spokesman said it had not been detemined whether the casualties were caused by aircraft or artillery. He said the villagers were caught in an action involving South Vietnamese ground forces and supporting aircraft and artillery.

One unconfirmed report said a helicopter gunship was involved. South Vietnamese authorities are investigating.

The attack in the demilitarized zone was carried out by unidentified aircraft. A U.S. spokesman said a preliminary investigation showed no U.S. planes in the area at the time.

In ground fighting, the U.S. command reported that a battalion of the 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Divison clashed in heavy action with a battalion of North Vietnamese troops in the Chu Pong Mountains near the Cambodian border 18 miles southwest of Plei Me.

The fighting erupted Sunday and broke off at noon today. A U.S. spokesman said American casualties were light, and North Vietnamese casualties were not known.

The air offensive over North Viet Nam continued without letup. U.S. Air Force, Marine and Navy planes flew 108 missions Sunday striking against 14 petroleum depots, antiaircraft gun positions, cargo barges and rail traffic.

Two U.S. planes were shot down by Communist gunfire, and both pilots were reported missing. North Viet Nam's official news agency said four U.S. planes were brought down Sunday.

A U.S. spokesman said both planes were F105 Thunderchiefs. One went down 50 miles north of Hanoi and the other 60

'Takeover' By Foe Held Impossible

President Reviews Viet Situation After Talks With General

A Communist takeover "is no longer just improbable. It is impossible," the President said after he and Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam concluded a review of the status of the war.

Talking with newsmen on the front lawn of the LBJ Ranch, Johnson tempered his statement with these words: "No one can say how many men will be needed or how long we must persevere. The American people must know there will be no quick victory, but the world must know that we will not quit."

Westmoreland, fielding a flurry of questions from reporters, said additional troops will be needed in Viet Nam before the end of the year. He said it was impossible to determine now the extent of the increase.

The general arrived at the ranch Saturday evening but his presence remained secret until he and his wife attended church services Sunday with President and Mrs. Johnson. Westmoreland spent about 18 hours at the ranch before heading back for Viet Nam.

As the war conference was held in Texas, there were these developments elsewhere:

—The Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, said he will ask roving U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman to cancel his planned trip to Cambodia next month. Sihanouk also said he sees no sign the Viet Nam war will end in the foreseeable future.

—Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., renewed his call for a selective blockade of North Vietnamese ports aimed at cutting off Communist oil supplies even at the risk of sinking Soviet tankers. He appeared on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation."

—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., told interviewers on the New York WNBC-TV program "Searchlight" that the United States must "get over the idea we can bludgeon North Viet Nam to the conference table" because "we're just not going to do that."

It's Picture-Taking Time As Craft Orbits The Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A short snort from a little rocket has pushed America's Lunar Orbiter into ar orbit around the Moon — a perfect spot, scientists say, from which to take close-up portraits of the pock-marked lunar surface.

The 850-pound spacecraft, carrying cameras and other experiments, attained lunar orbit at 11:34 a.m. Sunday when the 100-pound-thrust rocket fired for 10 minutes.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the blast slowed the shiny craft by 1,510 miles an hour, allowing lunar gravity to trap the Orbiter and swing it into orbit.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Orbiter swings in an orbit ranging from 119 miles to 1,160 miles above the moon, every 3 hours, 37 minutes and 36 seconds.

"It has passed its first goal, attaining orbit around the moon," said retired Navy Capt. Lee R. Scherer, program director for NASA, Sunday. "Its next task is to take the pictures. We're confident it will."

The spacecraft orbit differed only slightly from the planned, or ideal, course scientists controlling the device said.

"That orbit is well within the spacecraft's capability to complete the mission," said project director Clifford H. Nelson.

Completing the mission will require Orbiter to fire the rocket once again, but only briefly, to bring it closer to the lunar surface.

"On Aug. 18 (Thursday) we'll shoot the pictures of the east limb (east edge) of the moon and they'll be transmitted back the next day," Boyer said.

"Then, we'll transfer Orbiter down to its (low) photo orbit on Aug. 21, and we'll start taking the main pictures on Aug. 22. We should be through with those by Aug. 29, and they should all be transmitted back by Sept. 15."

The first pictures — those taken before Orbiter descends to its low orbit — probably will be televised to the public as they come in from the spacecraft, the scientists said.

Although the scientists were cheering their success, Orbiter isn't the first vehicle to orbit the moon. The Soviet Union's Luna 10 beat them to the punch last

50,000 Cross Border

North Viet Cleanup Aided By Red Chinese Laborers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The American bombing of North Viet Nam has drawn an estimated 50,000 Red Chinese laborers across the border to keep road and rail supply lines operating, U. S. authorities say.

More are probably available if needed. Whether they are called upon depends on political considerations as well as military necessity.

The historical antagonism between Viet Nam and China is a factor that already must be troubling the Hanoi regime, the sources said. Any influx of Chinese poses a political problem for the North Vietnamese leaders.

Authorities also assume that, in addition to the Chinese laborers in North Viet Nam, more may be working to keep the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos in operation.

Unknown thousands of Vietnamese laborers are involved in maintaining the trail. This is particularly true of those segments of the sprawling jungle-covered route that have been provided surfaces hard enough for trucks.

"We estimate that at any given moment they have between 30,000 to 50,000 Chinese laborers available," one officer said.

At one time, almost 20,000 Chinese and North Vietnamese were being used to keep the Mu Gia Pass open. The pass, some 50 miles above the 17th Parallel, is a key point in the supply line into Laos and South Viet Nam, and the North Vietnamese have kept it open despite intensive bombing.

The Communists frequently employ tactics learned in North Korea where the U. S. Air Force daily pounded the railroads — and never kept them out of action for very long.

The Reds stretch a labor force along the rails with sandbags and crude tools. Restoration work starts within minutes after the bombers leave. If the bombers come back, the process begins again.

Most of the Chinese now employed in North Viet Nam are believed to be strung out along the two major rail lines leading north from Hanoi.

Couple Hurt Seriously In Train Crash

A 42-year-old city area man and his wife were in "guarded" condition in the intensive care unit of a Canton hospital today with injuries suffered when their car rammed a moving passenger train on a Stark County road Sunday afternoon.

Worthie Varner Jr., and his wife, Jackie, 36, suffered multiple bruises and lacerations when their station wagon hit the Pennsylvania Railroad train on Paris Ave. about two miles northeast of Louisville yesterday at 1:45 p. m.

Their son, John, 12, and daughter, Kathy, 3, were shaken and bruised, and were treated at Alliance City Hospital and released.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Massillon said Varner was headed north in his 1952 station wagon and drove into the train between the first and second passenger cars. Robert Caine 61, of Pittsburgh was the engineer of the westbound train. Officers said Varner apparently did not see the train in time to stop.

The couple was taken to Alliance City Hospital, then transferred to Aultman Hospital at Canton. Varner is a trucker for the Duquesne Distributing Co. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blinn of near Wellsville.

During Cleveland Appearance

Beatles Race For Cover To Escape Being Mobbed

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Beatles barely missed being mobbed Sunday night as nearly 3,000 screaming teenage fans surged to the stage at Cleveland Municipal Stadium.

The show was halted for about half an hour as the Beatles raced to a trailer behind the stage set up on second base. The crowd milled around the stage for about 15 minutes before returning to their seats at the prompting of police and a disc jockey.

"We'll stop the concert unless you move back," the disc jockey yelled into a microphone on the stage. "Hold it, move back."

Stadium officials said the onslaught of the screaming fans caused extensive damage to the Indians' infield.

They crushed a small fence police used to try to hold them back. About 100 of the 150 policemen on duty at the stadium to control the crowd of more than 24,000, rushed to the field to restore order.

The fans squealed their usual comments about the quartet, particularly about John Lennon, center of the recent controversy about a statement he made that the Beatles are more popular than Jesus.

"I love them all, especially John — he's the brainy Beatle, you know," said one fan.

Beatle Paul McCartney's rendition of "Yesterday" was the only time during the concert that the fans remained quiet.

Lennon said earlier in the day that his controversial statement

Following up on an earlier announcement from Washington, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien today officially disclosed plans for the new post office to be erected here on Dresden Ave.

He said the building will be constructed under the department's lease construction program, thus keeping it on the local tax rolls. The government's capital investment will be limited to postal equipment.

Plans and specifications for the building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the department will advertise for bids.

Agreement Reached In Airlines Strike

Accord Subject To Workers' OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A settlement agreement in the 39-day airlines strike was announced today, subject to a vote of approval by 35,400 strikers against five major airlines.

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds said in announcing the tentative contract agreement that a vote by the striking members of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists would be held "possibly and hopefully tomorrow."

Union President P. L. (Roy) Siemiller said meetings of the strikers around the country would be called as soon as possible to explain the terms of the agreement and take a vote.

Terms of the contract agreement were kept secret pending the vote but informed estimates placed the total three-year cost at some $90 million, or about 8 per cent per year. Top mechanics now make $3.52 per hour, plus fringe benefits that bring a total to around $4 per hour.

Asked how he felt about the settlement, reached after nearly 20 straight hours of Labor Department talks that began at 10:30 a.m. EDT Sunday, Siemiller said: "I'm tired. Let's go home."

Reynolds called the agreement a "memorandum of understanding" and emphasized it was not final until approved by the strikers who voted down a previous agreement negotiated in the White House.

If approved by the striking mechanics, it would bring to an end the longest, biggest and most costly strike in the history of the airlines industry.

While Siemiller declined to predict the outcome of the vote, the settlement in addition to reportedly containing considerably higher wages and benefits than the rejected White House package also contained a cost of living wage escalator clause.

The wge escalator had been one of the union's most vital demands from the beginning of the long dispute and its absence in the earlier agreement was a reason given by strikers in many areas for turning down the White House agreement July 31.

Reynolds said "it is an agreement reached by the parties. It was not in any way forced upon them."

He said the agreement covered all the major issues affecting strikers on the five airlines — United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World — plus all local issues on the individual lines.

The agreement also provided for "orderly return to work procedures."

The strike so far has cost the airlines an estimated $300 million in revenue losses. The 35,400 strikers and another 30,000 employes who were laid off have lost upwards of $60 million in wages.

Asked whether he viewed the agreement as noninflationary Reynolds declined to comment "in any way at all."

The agreement shattered the White House wage guideline figure of 3.2 per cent which the Johnson administration had emphasized in the past as a weapon against inflation.

Government officials have cited the high productivity of workers and high profits in the airline industry to indicate no hike in fares should be necessary.

If approved by the strikers, the agreement also will relieve Congress and the Johnson administration of the distasteful necessity of acting to order the strikers back to work.

A bill to halt the strike by law has been cleared by the Senate and is due to go to the House Rules Committee today. But members of Congress had made it clear they did not want to act on such a measure, especially in this election year.

Siemiller said that before working out details for meetings to explain the terms of the agreement to the strikers, it would be necessary for the union negotiators "to stop for an hour or two and get a rest."

Whites 'Bombard' Police In New Unrest At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Club-swinging police were bombarded with curses, bottles and rocks as they clashed Sunday night with hundreds of whites protesting marches by civil rights supporters. At least 16 persons were injured and 21 arrested.

The outbreaks followed three separate parades earlier by some 1,000 civil rights advocates protesting alleged discrimination by real estate firms.

One march was held on the Northwest Side and two within blocks of Marquette Park, an expanse of grass and playgrounds where whites, spurred by an American Nazi party rally, baited police with chants of "nigger lover," and stoned automobiles occupied by Negroes.

Police arrested 21 persons at the three marches and Marquette Park riot. At least 16 persons were injured during the four separate incidents. Five of the injured were policemen.

The white hostility was evident among the thousands of spectators at the protest marches, but police, numbering almost one per demonstrator, restrained the jeering, stone- and bottle-tossing crowds.

The demonstration on the Northwest Side was held at Jefferson Park. The two marches near Marquette Park were staged in the Bogan and Gage Park areas.

The parade of 300 civil rights workers at Gage Park had barely ended when the trouble began at Marquette Park.

Some 70 motorcycles, adorned with American flags, streamed into the park and were applauded by more than a thousand persons who had gathered to protest the demonstration at Gage Park and to hear a representative of the American Nazi party.

With each reference to Negroes by Patler, the crowd screamed: "White power! White power! White power!"

As Patler ended his talk, a busload of police arrived. They were greeted by hoots and profanities. A barrage of beer bottles came from the crowd. Several struck the bus and one smashed a window, showering the police with glass.

Police made several arrests, returned to the bus, were taunted once more, and the scene repeated itself.

2 'Friendly' Villages Hit In Fighting

Erroneous Attacks Reported; U.S. Unit Clashes With Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Military spokesmen reported today two more apparently mistaken attacks on friendly villages in South Viet Nam.

In the first, five villagers were reported killed and 15 wounded in the Mekong Delta Friday. In the second, four civilians were killed and 35 wounded Saturday in the southern part of the demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam.

Two other erroneous attacks last week had been reported earlier.

The circumstances of the attack in the Mekong Delta were not clear. A U.S. military spokesman said it had not been detemined whether the casualties were caused by aircraft or artillery. He said the villagers were caught in an action involving South Vietnamese ground forces and supporting aircraft and artillery.

President Reviews Viet Situation After Talks With General

A Communist takeover "is no longer just improbable. It is impossible," the President said after he and Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Viet Nam concluded a review of the status of the war.

It's Picture-Taking Time As Craft Orbits The Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A short snort from a little rocket has pushed America's Lunar Orbiter into ar orbit around the Moon — a perfect spot, scientists say, from which to take close-up portraits of the pock-marked lunar surface.

The 850-pound spacecraft, carrying cameras and other experiments, attained lunar orbit at 11:34 a.m. Sunday when the 100-pound-thrust rocket fired for 10 minutes.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said the blast slowed the shiny craft by 1,510 miles an hour, allowing lunar gravity to trap the Orbiter and swing it into orbit.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Orbiter swings in an orbit ranging from 119 miles to 1,160 miles above the moon, every 3 hours, 37 minutes and 36 seconds.

"It has passed its first goal, attaining orbit around the moon," said retired Navy Capt. Lee R. Scherer, program director for NASA, Sunday. "Its next task is to take the pictures. We're confident it will."

The spacecraft orbit differed only slightly from the planned, or ideal, course scientists controlling the device said.

"That orbit is well within the spacecraft's capability to complete the mission," said project director Clifford H. Nelson.

Completing the mission will require Orbiter to fire the rocket once again, but only briefly, to bring it closer to the lunar surface.

"On Aug. 18 (Thursday) we'll shoot the pictures of the east limb (east edge) of the moon and they'll be transmitted back the next day," Boyer said.

"Then, we'll transfer Orbiter down to its (low) photo orbit on Aug. 21, and we'll start taking the main pictures on Aug. 22. We should be through with those by Aug. 29, and they should all be transmitted back by Sept. 15."

The first pictures — those taken before Orbiter descends to its low orbit — probably will be televised to the public as they come in from the spacecraft, the scientists said.

Although the scientists were cheering their success, Orbiter isn't the first vehicle to orbit the moon. The Soviet Union's Luna 10 beat them to the punch last

North Viet Cleanup Aided By Red Chinese Laborers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The American bombing of North Viet Nam has drawn an estimated 50,000 Red Chinese laborers across the border to keep road and rail supply lines operating, U. S. authorities say.

More are probably available if needed. Whether they are called upon depends on political considerations as well as military necessity.

The historical antagonism between Viet Nam and China is a factor that already must be troubling the Hanoi regime, the sources said. Any influx of Chinese poses a political problem for the North Vietnamese leaders.

Authorities also assume that, in addition to the Chinese laborers in North Viet Nam, more may be working to keep the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos in operation.

Unknown thousands of Vietnamese laborers are involved in maintaining the trail. This is particularly true of those segments of the sprawling jungle-covered route that have been provided surfaces hard enough for trucks.

"We estimate that at any given moment they have between 30,000 to 50,000 Chinese laborers available," one officer said.

At one time, almost 20,000 Chinese and North Vietnamese were being used to keep the Mu Gia Pass open. The pass, some 50 miles above the 17th Parallel, is a key point in the supply line into Laos and South Viet Nam, and the North Vietnamese have kept it open despite intensive bombing.

The Communists frequently employ tactics learned in North Korea where the U. S. Air Force daily pounded the railroads — and never kept them out of action for very long.

The Reds stretch a labor force along the rails with sandbags and crude tools. Restoration work starts within minutes after the bombers leave. If the bombers come back, the process begins again.

Most of the Chinese now employed in North Viet Nam are believed to be strung out along the two major rail lines leading north from Hanoi.

Couple Hurt Seriously In Train Crash

A 42-year-old city area man and his wife were in "guarded" condition in the intensive care unit of a Canton hospital today with injuries suffered when their car rammed a moving passenger train on a Stark County road Sunday afternoon.

Worthie Varner Jr., and his wife, Jackie, 36, suffered multiple bruises and lacerations when their station wagon hit the Pennsylvania Railroad train on Paris Ave. about two miles northeast of Louisville yesterday at 1:45 p. m.

Their son, John, 12, and daughter, Kathy, 3, were shaken and bruised, and were treated at Alliance City Hospital and released.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Massillon said Varner was headed north in his 1962 station wagon and drove into the train between the first and second passenger cars. Robert Caine 61, of Pittsburgh was the engineer of the westbound train. Officers said Varner apparently did not see the train in time to stop.

The couple was taken to Alliance City Hospital, then transferred to Aultman Hospital at Canton. Varner is a trucker for the Duquesne Distributing Co. His wife is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blinn of near Wellsville.

Beatles Race For Cover To Escape Being Mobbed

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Beatles barely missed being mobbed Sunday night as nearly 3,000 screaming teenage fans surged to the stage at Cleveland Municipal Stadium.

The show was halted for about half an hour as the Beatles raced to a trailer behind the stage set up on second base. The crowd milled around the stage for about 15 minutes before returning to their seats at the prompting of police and a disc jockey.

"We'll stop the concert unless you move back," the disc jockey yelled into a microphone on the stage. "Hold it, move back."

Stadium officials said the onslaught of the screaming fans caused extensive damage to the Indians' infield.

They crushed a small fence police used to try to hold them back. About 100 of the 150 policemen on duty at the stadium to control the crowd of more than 24,000, rushed to the field to restore order.

The fans squealed their usual comments about the quartet, particularly about John Lennon, center of the recent controversy about a statement he made that the Beatles are more popular than Jesus.

"I love them all, especially John — he's the brainy Beatle, you know," said one fan.

Beatle Paul McCartney's rendition of "Yesterday" was the only time during the concert that the fans remained quiet.

Lennon said earlier in the day that his controversial statement

O'Brien Tells Of Post Office Project Here

Following up on an earlier announcement from Washington, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien today officially disclosed plans for the new post office to be erected here on Dresden Ave.

He said the building will be constructed under the department's lease construction program, thus keeping it on the local tax rolls. The government's capital investment will be limited to postal equipment.

Plans and specifications for the building, as well as bidding forms and other pertinent data, will be made available to prospective bidders at an early date, at which time the department will advertise for bids.

The site option will be assigned to the successful bidder, who will purchase the land, construct

Youths Hurt In Car-Bike Road Mishap

Two Lisbon youths were injured when their car was struck by a skidding auto operated by a Chester youth near Salem Sunday, one of nine area mishaps investigated yesterday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

John T. Ludovici, 16, of 101 Railroad St., Chester, was cited for speeding after the mishap on County Rd. 410 in which his 1963 convertible struck an oncoming motorbike operated by Ronald Eugene Tafini, 19, of 233 W. Maple St., Lisbon.

Tafini and a passenger on the motorbike — Bud David Hall, 17, of E. Lincoln Way, Lisbon—were taken to Salem City Hospital, officers said.

The patrol said Ludovici was headed north, following another vehicle which slowed. Ludovici braked his car, but it skidded sideways and went left of center, colliding with the motorbike. The mishap was timed at 3:15 p. m.

Ludovici and four passengers —Frank Amedeo, 15, of 561 Carolina Ave., Chester, James Murray, 15, of Warren, James Williams, 16, of 931 Plutus Ave., Chester, and Ronald Cornell, 14, of 546 River St., Chester—were unhurt, officers said.

Gary Lee Crowl, 19, of Lisbon R.D. 2 was cited on two charges after a collision on Route 164 about 4½ miles south of Lisbon at 1:15 p.m.

Crowl's 1962 convertible struck the rear of a slow-moving tractor-trailer truck operated by James Harvey Gamble, 26, of 772 Dresden Ave., East Liverpool, who was ascending a steep grade. Crowl was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance and lack of a drivers license.

Ronald J. Purdie, 20, of Warrensville Heights escaped serious injury when his 1966 hardtop rammed a tree along Route 7 about 1½ miles north of East Fairfield Sunday morning at 4:25. He lost control on a curve, the patrol said.

Anthony Charles Holzer, 16, of Negley R.D. 1 and Edward Zalick, 17, of Lincoln Ave., East Palestine, were unhurt when their compact auto struck a wire fence along Route 170 about two miles south of East Palestine yesterday at 5:20 p. m. Holzer, headed south, lost control on a curve, officers reported.

Emergency Livestock Feed Promised For West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — Emergency livestock feed has been promised West Virginia farmers, who say they're suffering their worst drought in history.

State and federal officials announced the emergency steps during the weekend and ordered the director of disaster and defense service for the U. S. Department of Agriculture to visit West Virginia today.

Meanwhile, State Agriculture Commissioner Gus R. Douglass reports that West Virginia's hay crop is only half its normal size this year and that farmers are "in dire need" of corn to supplement livestock feed through the winter.

Charles Cox, assistant administrator of the U. S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said, "There is a distressing situation in West Virginia. We recognize we must provide some assistance. Our only question is when or where it will go."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said in Washington that "farmers in West Virginia say they are experiencing their worst drought in history and are selling their dairy cattle at a rate 25 per cent above last year because they can't keep them."

"Git 'em, get 'em!" the crowd yelled. Rocks and bottles rained on the car. The woman and children crouched to the floor, screaming in fright. A plainclothes policeman braved the missile debris and rescued the young boy. Several police arrived and pulled the sobbing woman and her daughter to safety.

Within minutes a hundred police were at the park. Cmdr. Robert Lynskey spoke to the sullen throng:

"The people of the state of Illinois order you to leave this intersection and return to your homes. Anyone remaining on the streets after this order has been given will be arrested."

The sporadic bark of firecrackers, and the endless taunts, continued for more than two hours.

The three-pronged demonstrations originated from the Greater Mt. Hope Baptist church. Albert A. Raby, convenor of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, led more than 400 marchers to Gage Park.

Hundreds of signs bearing a swastika and the legend, "Symbol of White Power," were held by hecklers. The marchers walked to two real estate firms where their prayers and hymns were drowned out by screams of teen-age spectators. The parade moved through rocks, exploding cherry bombs, eggs and rotten vegetables.

The hostile crowd numbered 1,000 residents but their actions were limited to shouts and threats during the march.

When the marchers returned to their cars at the end of the march, the rock-throwing began but police quickly cleared the area.

The march to the Bogan area, where a quiet demonstration was held Friday, was led by the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

There were some 300 marchers.

A police force of 400 moved the procession without incident to the target real estate offices but tension and the crowd increased when Jackson decided to continue the march into residential areas.

The other line runs almost due north to the Chinese border just above Lang Son, one of the first vital points wrested from the French by the Viet Minh during the French effort to hold Indochina. It is also paralleled by a highway.

Both rail lines undergo daily poundings from the Air Force but there evidently has been no systematic effort to wreck them completely. The effort, as Korea showed, is not worth the trouble.

The amount of traffic on these lines is also questionable. Most supplies for Hanoi come in through the port of Haiphong.

The strikes against the supply routes have evolved into a sort of game of chance with each side playing percentages.

The United States has never claimed that its Air Force could cut all supplies coming south. It simply says it can raise the cost of moving supplies — in terms of money and military muscle that the Reds could use elsewhere.

sional testimony released during the weekend that he has no idea how long the war will last. He also estimated the United States will lose 580 attack aircraft worth $1.2 billion in Vietnamese operations during the current fiscal year. He said 406 attack aircraft were lost in the fiscal year ending June 30, 42 less than estimated.

The defense secretary, vacationing in Oregon, was not on hand for the Johnson-Westmoreland talks which the President said ranged over more than three dozen subjects and continued into the early morning hours.

Westmoreland, who described the conference as "officially profitable," left with instructions from Johnson to tell his men that "their determination and their courage in Viet Nam will be matched by a dedicated resolve and support here at home."

Like Johnson, Westmoreland praised U.S. troops.

"They are a credit to America and our society," the four-star gneeral said.

Westmoreland was asked about the constituent assembly elections coming next month in South Viet Nam. He replied that while he is a military man rather than a politician, "we do feel the election has high prospects of being successful."

Westmoreland had been in Hawaii since Wednesday conferring with Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, commander in chief of Pacific forces. Johnson asked Westmoreland to come to Texas for what he said is one of a series of meetings he intends to hold with the general and the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, in the months ahead.

The testimony made public by the Senate Appropriations Committee during the weekend showed McNamara was asked by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., whether the United States is prepared to confront Red China if Peking decides to enter the war.

"I think the short answer is 'yes'," McNamara replied. He later said, "If Red China comes in, it is a much different kind of question. We would have to consider use of different weapons."

miles north of the Communist capital.

The two losses raised to 17 the number of American planes shot down in eight days and to 339 the number announced lost in the two-year-old air war over North Viet Nam. Last week's toll — 15 planes — was a record for a one-week period.

American forces were beefed up over the weekend by the arrival of the 196th Light Infantry Brigade, 3,800 men trained at Ft. Devens, Mass., in antiguerrilla warfare. The arrival pushed the total of U.S. fighting men in South Viet Nam to 292,000.

In Johnson City, Tex., President Johnson said after a surprise weekend meeting at his ranch with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American military commander in Viet Nam, that a Communist takeover in South Viet Nam is "no longer just improbable, it is impossible."

The ground fighting in the Ia Drang Valley southwest of Plei Me, part of operation Paul Revere II, was the only significant action reported today by the U.S. Command.

It began Sunday afternoon when a company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division engaged a North Vietnamese force of unknown size. The cavalrymen airlifted several companies of reinforcements into the area by helicopter, and the reinforcements were hit immediately by heavy enemy fire, a spokesman reported.

By nightfall, he said, the cavalrymen reported almost surrounding a North Vietnamese force, by then estimated at a battalion totaling perhaps 500 men. The U.S. force threw in tactical air strikes, rocket-firing helicopters and artillery in an attempt to keep the North Vietnamese pinned down through the night.

At daybreak, the cavalrymen launched a ground sweep and for a time this morning, were heavily engaged against the enemy.

In Saturday's air strikes over North Viet Nam, U.S. pilots reported damaging or destroying 39 barges, 18 bridges, 33 trucks and five antiaircraft sites. Pilots also claimed numerous hits on oil storage areas and supply dumps but said smoke, dust and darkness prevented an accurate damage assessment.

Warden Harold Flowers is searching with unflagging energy to locate a dog missing since Saturday — his own boxer, "Mugs," stolen from the front yard at his home on Ohio Ave. in Little England.

"He vanished as though the earth had swallowed him up," Flowers said. "We searched everywhere." The thief also took the dog's collar and chain, he said.

Emergency Livestock Feed Promised For West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — Emergency livestock feed has been promised West Virginia farmers, who say they're suffering their worst drought in history.

State and federal officials announced the emergency steps during the weekend and ordered the director of disaster and defense service for the U. S. Department of Agriculture to visit West Virginia today.

Meanwhile, State Agriculture Commissioner Gus R. Douglass reports that West Virginia's hay crop is only half its normal size this year and that farmers are "in dire need" of corn to supplement livestock feed through the winter.

Charles Cox, assistant administrator of the U. S. Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said, "There is a distressing situation in West Virginia. We recognize we must provide some assistance. Our only question is when or where it will go."

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said in Washington that "farmers in West Virginia say they are experiencing their worst drought in history and are selling their dairy cattle at a rate 25 per cent above last year because they can't keep them."

"Git 'em, get 'em!" the crowd yelled. Rocks and bottles rained on the car. The woman and children crouched to the floor, screaming in fright. A plain-clothes policeman braved the missile debris and rescued the young boy. Several police arrived and pulled the sobbing woman and her daughter to safety.

Within minutes a hundred police were at the park. Cmdr. Robert Lynskey spoke to the sullen throng:

"The people of the state of Illinois order you to leave this intersection and return to your homes. Anyone remaining on the streets after this order has been given will be arrested."

When no one moved, police charged and raised nightsticks to prod the ill-tempered mob.

More cars were stoned by rock throwers. Again and again squads of police rushed down side streets in pursuit.

The sporadic bark of firecrackers, and the endless taunts, continued for more than two hours.

The three-pronged demonstrations originated from the Greater Mt. Hope Baptist church. Albert A. Raby, convenor of the Coordinating Council of Community Organizations, led more than 400 marchers to Gage Park.

Hundreds of signs bearing a swastika and the legend, "Symbol of White Power," were held by hecklers. The marchers walked to two real estate firms where their prayers and hymns were drowned out by screams of teen-age spectators. The parade moved through rocks, exploding cherry bombs, eggs and rotten vegetables.

The hostile crowd numbered 1,000 residents but their actions were limited to shouts and threats during the march.

When the marchers returned to their cars at the end of the march, the rock-throwing began but police quickly cleared the area.

The march to the Bogan area, where a quiet demonstration was held Friday, was led by the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

There were some 300 marchers.

A police force of 400 moved the procession without incident to the target real estate offices but tension and the crowd increased when Jackson decided to continue the march into residential areas.

ming, the Chinese terminus of the old Burma route used by the allies in World War II. Alongside runs a highway.

The other line runs almost due north to the Chinese border just above Lang Son, one of the first vital points wrested from the French by the Viet Minh during the French effort to hold Indochina. It is also paralleled by a highway.

Both rail lines undergo daily poundings from the Air Force but there evidently has been no systematic effort to wreck them completely. The effort, as Korea showed, is not worth the trouble.

The amount of traffic on these lines is also questionable. Most supplies for Hanoi come in through the port of Haiphong.

The strikes against the supply routes have evolved into a sort of game of chance with each side playing percentages.

The United States has never claimed that its Air Force could cut all supplies coming south. It simply says it can raise the cost of moving supplies — in terms of money and military muscle that the Reds could use elsewhere.

sional testimony released during the weekend that he has no idea how long the war will last. He also estimated the United States will lose 580 attack aircraft worth $1.2 billion in Vietnamese operations during the current fiscal year. He said 406 attack aircraft were lost in the fiscal year ending June 30, 42 less than estimated.

The defense secretary, vacationing in Oregon, was not on hand for the Johnson-Westmoreland talks which the President said ranged over more than three dozen subjects and continued into the early morning hours.

Westmoreland, who described the conference as "officially profitable," left with instructions from Johnson to tell his men that "their determination and their courage in Viet Nam will be matched by a dedicated resolve and support here at home."

Like Johnson, Westmoreland praised U.S. troops.

"They are a credit to America and our society," the four-star gneeral said.

Westmoreland was asked about the constituent assembly elections coming next month in South Viet Nam. He replied that while he is a military man rather than a politician, "we do feel the election has high prospects of being successful."

Westmoreland had been in Hawaii since Wednesday conferring with Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, commander in chief of Pacific forces. Johnson asked Westmoreland to come to Texas for what he said is one of a series of meetings he intends to hold with the general and the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, in the months ahead.

The testimony made public by the Senate Appropriations Committee during the weekend showed McNamara was asked by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., whether the United States is prepared to confront Red China if Peking decides to enter the war.

"I think the short answer is 'yes'," McNamara replied. He later said, "If Red China comes in, it is a much different kind of question. We would have to consider use of different weapons."

miles north of the Communist capital.

The two losses raised to 17 the number of American planes shot down in eight days and to 339 the number announced lost in the two-year-old air war over North Viet Nam. Last week's toll — 15 planes — was a record for a one-week period.

American forces were beefed up over the weekend by the arrival of the 196th Light Infantry Brigade, 3,800 men trained at Ft. Devens, Mass., in antiguerrilla warfare. The arrival pushed the total of U.S. fighting men in South Viet Nam to 292,000.

In Johnson City, Tex., President Johnson said after a surprise weekend meeting at his ranch with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American military commander in Viet Nam, that a Communist takeover in South Viet Nam is "no longer just improbable, it is impossible."

The ground fighting in the Ia Drang Valley southwest of Plei Me, part of operation Paul Revere II, was the only significant action reported today by the U.S. Command.

It began Sunday afternoon when a company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry (Airmobile) Division engaged a North Vietnamese force of unknown size. The cavalrymen airlifted several companies of reinforcements into the area by helicopter, and the reinforcements were hit immediately by heavy enemy fire, a spokesman reported.

By nightfall, he said, the cavalrymen reported almost surrounding a North Vietnamese force, by then estimated at a battalion totaling perhaps 500 men. The U.S. force threw in tactical air strikes, rocket-firing helicopters and artillery in an attempt to keep the North Vietnamese pinned down through the night.

At daybreak, the cavalrymen launched a ground sweep and for a time this morning, were heavily engaged against the enemy.

In Saturday's air strikes over North Viet Nam, U.S. pilots reported damaging or destroying 39 barges, 18 bridges, 33 trucks and five antiaircraft sites. Pilots also claimed numerous hits on oil storage areas and supply dumps but said smoke, dust and darkness prevented an accurate damage assessment.

Warden's Boxer Dog Still Sought In Theft

Warden Harold Flowers is searching with unflagging energy to locate a dog missing since Saturday — his own boxer, "Mugs," stolen from the front yard at his home on Ohio Ave. in Little England.

Flowers said the 3-year-old male was tied in the yard when he vanished sometime between 4:45 and 5 p. m. He said 15 children helped him search the neighborhood Sunday, but to no avail.

"He vanished as though the earth had swallowed him up," Flowers said. "We searched everywhere." The thief also took the dog's collar and chain, he said.

Cadillac owners are practical people.

It's true that a new Cadillac is a most impressive motor car—unequaled for its quiet performance and its many outstanding comforts. Yet owners find Cadillac's ability to hold its value is one of the great personal satisfactions.

More new car buyers have selected the 1966 Standard of the World than any other luxury automobile ever built. The reasons are varied. Many owners maintain that Cadillac's impressive styling, comfort and quietness of operation caused them to make their decision. Others point to Cadillac's long and distinguished leadership in engineering and quality manufacture. There is also genuine approval of Cadillac's unexcelled safety and convenience benefits. Such features as its highly efficient triple braking system, cornering lights, three-speed windshield wipers and padded instrument panel give a unique sense of driving security and confidence. Most important, the Cadillac owner finds his car the finest of all automobile investments. For he knows that traditionally a Cadillac provides the highest return on his original purchase price when he chooses to trade. Visit your authorized dealer soon. He will be very pleased to introduce you to one of the world's most practical luxuries.

Municipal Riot Prevention

A Cuyahoga County grand jury's finding that the Cleveland Hough area rioting was "organized, precipitated and exploited" by professionals does not satisfy the need for a full explanation.

Undoubtedly, the grand jury's finding is correct.

But equally correct is the belief the Cleveland riots had been seen coming by Clevelanders for a long time, because the Hough area was ripe for the disorders that occurred. It had been going downhill for more than a generation. Its police problems, sanitation problems, health problems all had been multiplying.

The professionals who showed up in Cleveland, according to the grand jury's findings, could not have carried out their nefarious project anywhere else but the Hough area, or some other Cleveland area comparably ripe for rioting possibly Glenville. They could not have done it in Lakewood, Cleveland Heights, on Cleveland's west side, nor the city's south side.

When fire inspectors are looking for hazards, they order property owners to clean up the premises lest someone throw a match into the debris. They prevent fires by cleaning up the combustible material.

The fires had not quit smoldering before Clevelanders of good conscience were talking about cleaning up. Hough. Their finding was just as conclusive as the grand jury's finding: That Hough was a civic shame.

Always A Touchy Situation

Time magazine analyzed that now-familiar Yangtze River swimming picture of Mao Tse-tung and his political companions to show their heads were floating on the surface of the water. Official efforts to dispel rumors of the chairman's physical and-or political deterioration will be subject to critical scrutiny from now on. Something is rotten in Peking.

The scrutinizers are wondering currently about deletion of a story from the People's Daily. It ran on at length to give a reader the impression Mao had been elevated to the living deity.

What gave the story its punch, however, was the fact it was taken out of the paper, either because Mao thought it went too far, or because someone else thought it had taken Mao too far.

This is always a touchy situation. It is easier to be aware of it, of course, when it happens far enough away to be in perspective.

When it happened in the United Kingdom, after the once-insuperable Winston Churchill had lost his grip and his friend were concealing his condition, it was hard to comprehend. People wanted to believe Mister Britain was undiminished in stature.

When it happened in the United States, during the physical decline of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was even harder to comprehend. Up to the very last, it was officially denied that FDR had lost his health as well as the political domination that had carried him into a fourth term. His admirers believed the denials.

It is a sure bet that Mao Tse-tung will have been politically destroyed and perhaps physically terminated long before the Chinese people and the world in general will know about it.

Sukarnoed

It is beginning to look as if the fate that has befallen President Sukarno of Indonesia might give rise to a new word—Sukarnoed.

A leader is Sukarnoed when his associates rob him of his power though letting him retain his title and all of his prerogatives that can be exercised safely.

It is the same thing that happens in enterprise when an associate has lost his "clout" but still must be permitted to keep up appearances, so he is elevated to a position with a resounding title but empty authority.

It is what happens to "lame duck" presidents of the United States.

It is evidence of developing political sophistication, as opposed to political primitives who feel it is necessary to murder deposed leaders, or, as in the case of the Soviet Union, to humiliate them publicly by retiring them to distant pastures.

President Sukarno is still talking, still strutting, still telling what he intends to do. Like Fidel Castro in Cuba, he is full of sound and fury.

But like Castro, he is empty of power to decide what is going to be done. Both men have been Sukarnoed.

Letter From Max

By Truman Twill

Dear Truman Twill:

It had been many years since we picked up a hitchhiker, but this seemed to be a special case, so we gave it a little extra thought and gave the guy a ride.

First of all, he was in an Army uniform without a head covering.

Second, he was on a turnpike, which in itself is illegal, I believe.

Third, his story sounded as phony as a three-dollar bill, which is what they say down at the poolroom. He said $60 had been stolen from him by some new guys in his company at his base in France.

Put all those bits of information together and you couldn't ask for a more preposterous story. Any old police reporter wouldn't have touched this guy with a rubber glove.

But his story had a way of sticking together.

He said he came from a small farm, and his accent never varied.

His father drove a bulldozer for a living and farmed 40 acres, which harbored a few hogs and a few head of cattle, along with fields of corn.

"I tried to phone Mom from New York but my little brother got scalded and was in the hospital and the whole family was there visiting him," he said. "I wanted them to wire me money."

You couldn't have made up a better story yourself Twill.

Always in the back of my mind were headlines about eight nurses murdered in Chicago and 16 other persons shot to death by a veteran in Texas.

"I used to do quite a bit of hitchhiking many years ago, but times have changed," I allowed.

"Yeah," he said, "a few can spoil it for everybody."

"Help yourself to some breakfast," we suggested.

"No thanks very much, I have already eaten," he said.

"How much leave do you have?"

"Thirty days," he said. "Here is my return air ticket to France." He showed us an official looking carbon copy of an intricate airline ticket with all the right names on it.

That was a mighty stride in his favor. If you are going to get murdered by a hitchhiker, there is nothing like having a hitchhiker with all the right credentials.

Then the women-folk came out of the Howard Johnson's. I waited for the bombshell as I said, "We are going to have another passenger for the rest of the way home."

Much to my surprise, the only response was, "Well, good. Hope we can do him a favor."

The clincher is that when the GI got out of our car in our hometown he refused to take bus fare for home.

"I'd rather not do it that way," he said. "But if there is ever anything I can do for you, I sure hope I can do it."

Later, the lady of the house said, "I just don't think a man in military uniform should have to beg for a ride in America!"

Sometime I'll have to have another talk with her about the facts of life in America.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Our Worry Warts

By Truman Twill

The United States and United Kingdom are sharing an unusual problem.

This isn't the first time these two old foe-friends have had a common concern about salvation. But it is the first time their common concern had to do with too much prosperity.

That's their problem — prosperity.

The French and West Germans have this problem, too.

Italians, Dutchmen, Belgians, Scandinavians and the Japanese have it.

People are doing so well they are forgetting to be miserable.

They have heard so much about living high on the hog they are finding out for themselves.

Just as old Henry Ford said when he raised wages to $5 a day, there would be prosperity when people who worked earned enough to buy what they made.

That was how Tin Lizzies introduced the era of mass consumption. It now has spread to other industrial societies. But is everybody happy?

Our head worry warts are wrinkled up with misgivings because people are buying too much, bidding up prices, bidding up wage rates, going into debt, living as though there always would be a tomorrow.

It is highly irregular. The warts say something must be done to destroy this confidence in the future of mankind.

These are the same warts who used to worry because there was no faith in the future of mankind and no matter how they whooped and hollered the dumb people just stood like lumps and solicited one another to take in washings.

Our warts panted that something must be done to get more people employed so the output of the widgit works would be snapped up at high prices.

So, through no fault of the warts, something was done. Everything now is being snapped up at high prices. Prosperity is running out of people's ears. In Britain, the natives are talking about their right to enjoy central heating. People are buying autos and kicking up their heels.

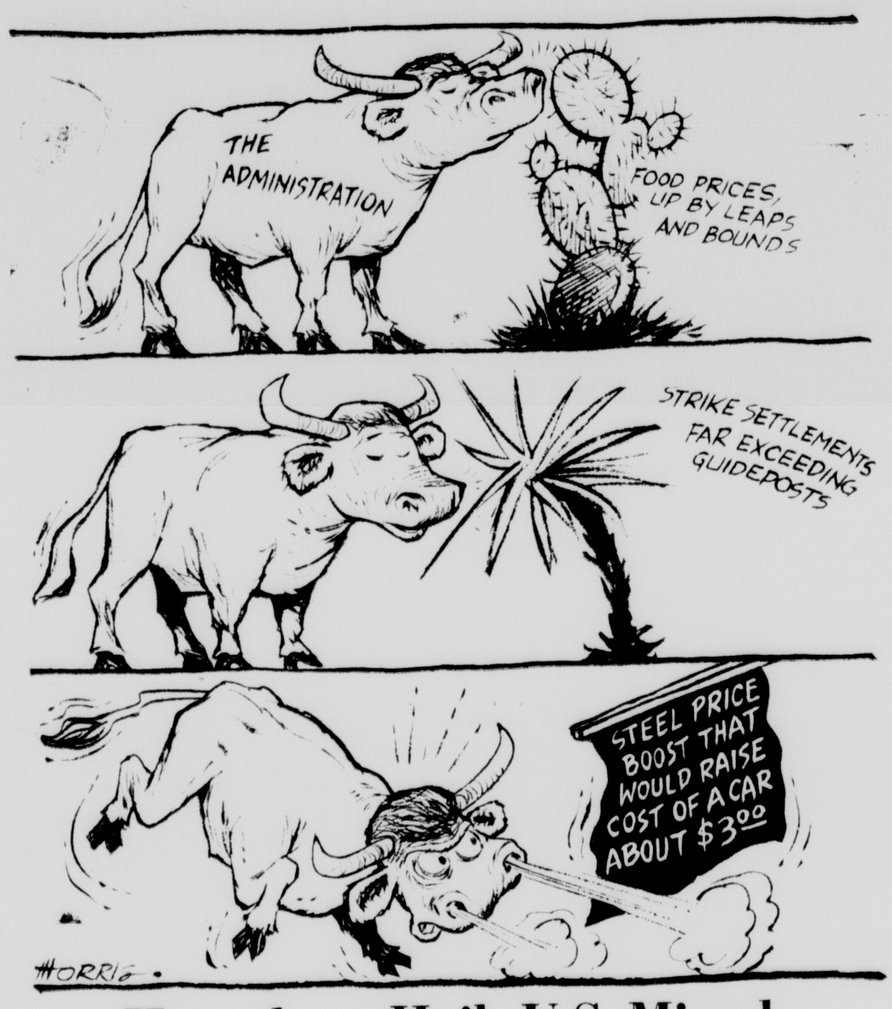

In the United States they're looking at multiple - digit statistics of industrial activity and cutting in on the big numbers. They can think of nothing nicer than helping to overheat the national economy.

For the first time in history people are worrying because things are too good. Crazy, isn't it?

The average educated man or woman uses from 3,000 to 5,000 different words, but a person can manage very well with just a few hundred. Even some famous authors have used a comparatively small number of words. Milton, for example, used only 8,000, and Shakespeare used 15,000.

The Republic of South Africa at the southern tip of the African continent, encompassing 472,494 square miles, is about twice the size of Texas.

Humphrey Hails U.S. Miracle

While Victor Riesel is off on a series of foreign news fronts in search of a new kind of labor coverage, a number of national leaders will serve as substitute columnists for him. Today's column by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is the first in the series.

By HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
Vice President of the U.S.

WASHINGTON — The world's great success story today is our American economic miracle.

It was only a generation ago that we still heard all too often the Communist propaganda claim that the United States was teetering on the brink of economic chaos . . . that it was just a matter of time until our production lines would grind to a halt . . . until an army of unemployed would seize the state . . . and until economic warfare among the Western nations would open the door to international communism.

Now some of the Communist doctrinists have come to realize that Lord Keynes was speaking to them as well as others when he wrote: "Practical men, who believe themselves quite exempt from intellectual influences, are usually the slaves of some defunct economist."

OUR AMERICAN ECONOMY is strong and free and well able to sustain our efforts both at home and in the world.

Last year alone we Americans increased our GNP—the total of all our goods and services—by $47 billion, increased our total personal income by $39 billion, and increased our federal cash receipts by $8.5 billion.

All this did not happen by accident.

Part of it was certainly due to the influence of the so-called New Economics. But I believe the basic, underlying reason behind our American economic success is this: There is today a creative partnership for prosperity among those in our society who used to think of themselves as natural antagonists.

It has been years since we heard empty labels being thrown around — labels such as "labor boss" and "economic royalist."

The fact is that American government, business and labor are increasingly united in the knowledge that a stronger and better America is to the benefit of all—that it is far better to create a bigger economic pie, for all to share, than it is to worry about how a smaller pie is to be split up.

THERE HAVE BEEN STRIKES, and labor-management-government disagreements, during the last several years. None of them has approached the violence, or caused the public harm, that we had come to expect as a matter of course during days of less economic maturity.

I saw a news photograph recently of the chief labor and management negotiators in a nationwide strike in a major industry. These men were in disagreement, and there was a lot of unsettled ground between them, but they were smiling openly and shaking hands. For, although they disagreed, they disagreed honestly and without anger or recrimination.

For six straight years less than two-tenths of one per cent of total American working time has been lost in strikes. Almost twice as much time has been lost because of work injuries. Almost 10 times as much time has been lost because of acute illness.

THE GOOD NEWS is that almost all Americans, regardless of how they earn their living, are united on four basic economic goals for America: Maximum employment; steady economic growth; price stability and equilibrium in our balance of payments.

We are united, too, beyond purely economic goals.

I had occasion recently to read again the words spoken 20 years ago by an American statesman who called on his labor union to act not only in its own interests, but in the interests of fellow man.

"What we do in concert with other Americans," Sidney Hillman told the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, "will decide the future of this nation . . . will determine what kind of America we are going to leave to our children and the generations to come. . . . It's within the power of America to provide for our people conditions beyond the dreams of generations past. . . . This earth can be made a place where men and women can walk together in peace and friendship and enjoy all that this world can provide for us. . . .

"We want a better America, an America that will give its citizens, first of all, a higher and higher standard of living, so that no child will cry for food in the midst of plenty. We want to have an America where the inventions of science will be at the disposal of every American family, not merely for the few who can afford them; an America that will have no sense of insecurity and which will make it possible for all groups, regardless of race, creed or color to live in friendship, to be real neighbors; an America that will carry its great mission of helping other countries to help themselves. . . .

THOSE HUMAN CONCERNS, and those human goals, are today the concerns and goals of the plant manager and corporation president just as much as those of the shop steward and union leader—or, for that matter, the government official.

It has taken leadership and tolerance, by many Americans, to help bring us to the realization that we are, in fact, all in the same boat. Our job now is to stay in it and keep it moving forward.

Fairy Tale

By James Marlow

Chinese Reds Write One

WASHINGTON

No group in history ever faced a more gruesome, gigantic or frustrating task than tthe Chinese Reds when they took over their country in 1949 and had to rush it and 700 million people out of antiquity in a hurry.

They have made tremendous progress, led by men like Mao Tze-tung, who for years were fanatic in their zeal to do what they finally had a chance to do.

Now they are old but still fanatic, for this was the only way of life they knew and it is too late for change. This has been the history of others, like Stalin.

OTHERS IN China realized rigidity is the condition of a corpse and change a condition of life: that in time through the evolutionary process political parties change to adjust like bananas, crocodiles and people.

They have seen Communist parties around the world change — as in Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union — surrendering dogma to necessities and ideology to reality, but the critics of Mao's regime were purged.

Early this month the Chinese Communist party's Central Committee met for 12 days and then issued a communique which sounded in part like something from another world.

The fairy tale was in the euphoria about economic, agricultural and industrial successes. No doubt Red China was moving forward. But you would never guess it had any setbacks, made any mistakes. It had to have had them, with its vast problems. It simply did not admit them.

There was one thing you would guess: it is being careful about trying a second "great leap forward." It tried a "great leap" in 1958—under Mao's prodding, a radical collectivization of farm and factory — that turned into a great disaster.

This weekend's communique did not promise a great leap. It may have hinted at one.

The bitter break with the Soviet Union looks deeper than ever. The communique not only accused the Soviets of betraying communism and safeguarding capitalism but even of trying to restore capitalism.

YET, THERE was a pathetic sense of loneliness and reaction about the communique for more reasons than one:

1. — Red China set itself up as the leader of the world Communist movement, knowing as it did so, that one by one other countries, Communist or non-Communist, are beginning to look on her dubiously or breaking away.

2. — The whole communique, while its purpose may be to assure internal discipline, is a groveling, cringing, deification of a man, Mao, which makes an obscenity of all other intellects in China because, compared with his, all others look like trash.

In effect the Chinese people are being taken down the most reactionary of all roads. Instead of being urged to seek new values, insights and understandings, they are being told the answers are all in and that in all history only three men have had them: Mao, Marx and Lenin.

Wiring grizzlies for sound in Yellowstone National Park has enabled scientists to learn life-and-death details of an entire grizzly population.

Naturalists John and Frank Craighead have been outfitting drugged grizzlies with tiny radio transmitters attached to plastic collars as part of a seven - year ecological project supported by the National Geographic Society.

The pulsating "beep - beep" of the radios helps trackers to keep tabs on the comings and goings of a species that is active both day and night, wanders over hundreds of square miles of rough terrain, and curls up each fall in remote dens to snooze away half the year.

Grizzlies once roamed the whole western half of North America, but they have fought a losing battle for survival south of Canada since the advent of the repeating rifle in the 1850's.

Municipal Riot Prevention

A Cuyahoga County grand jury's finding that the Cleveland Hough area rioting was "organized, precipitated and exploited" by professionals does not satisfy the need for a full explanation.

Undoubtedly, the grand jury's finding is correct.

But equally correct is the belief the Cleveland riots had been seen coming by Clevelanders for a long time, because the Hough area was ripe for the disorders that occurred. It had been going downhill for more than a generation. Its police problems, sanitation problems, health problems all had been multiplying.

The professionals who showed up in Cleveland, according to the grand jury's findings, could not have carried out their nefarious project anywhere else but the Hough area, or some other Cleveland area comparably ripe for rioting possibly Glenville. They could not have done it in Lakewood, Cleveland Heights, on Cleveland's west side, nor the city's south side.

When fire inspectors are looking for hazards, they order property owners to clean up the premises lest someone throw a match into the debris. They prevent fires by cleaning up the combustible material.

The fires had not quit smoldering before Clevelanders of good conscience were talking about cleaning up. Hough. Their finding was just as conclusive as the grand jury's finding. That Hough was a civic shame.

Always A Touchy Situation

Time magazine analyzed that now-familiar Yangtze River swimming picture of Mao Tse-tung and his political companions to show their heads were floating on the surface of the water. Official efforts to dispel rumors of the chairman's physical and-or political deterioration will be subject to critical scrutiny from now on. Something is rotten in Peking.

The scrutinizers are wondering currently about deletion of a story from the People's Daily. It ran on at length to give a reader the impression Mao had been elevated to the living deity.

What gave the story its punch, however, was the fact it was taken out of the paper, either because Mao thought it went too far, or because someone else thought it had taken Mao too far.

This is always a touchy situation. It is easier to be aware of it, of course, when it happens far enough away to be in perspective.

When it happened in the United Kingdom, after the once-insuperable Winston Churchill had lost his grip and his friend were concealing his condition, it was hard to comprehend. People wanted to believe Mister Britain was undiminished in stature.

When it happened in the United States, during the physical decline of Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was even harder to comprehend. Up to the very last, it was officially denied that FDR had lost his health as well as the political domination that had carried him into a fourth term. His admirers believed the denials.

It is a sure bet that Mao Tse-tung will have been politically destroyed and perhaps physically terminated long before the Chinese people and the world in general will know about it.

Sukarnoed

It is beginning to look as if the fate that has befallen President Sukarno of Indonesia might give rise to a new word—Sukarnoed.

A leader is Sukarnoed when his associates rob him of his power though letting him retain his title and all of his prerogatives that can be exercised safely.

It is the same thing that happens in enterprise when an associate has lost his "clout" but still must be permitted to keep up appearances, so he is elevated to a position with a resounding title but empty authority.

It is what happens to "lame duck" presidents of the United States.

It is evidence of developing political sophistication, as opposed to political primitives who feel it is necessary to murder deposed leaders, or, as in the case of the Soviet Union, to humiliate them publicly by retiring them to distant pastures.

President Sukarno is still talking, still strutting, still telling what he intends to do. Like Fidel Castro in Cuba, he is full of sound and fury.

But like Castro, he is empty of power to decide what is going to be done. Both men have been Sukarnoed.

Letter From Max

By Truman Twill

Dear Truman Twill:

It had been many years since we picked up a hitchhiker, but this seemed to be a special case, so we gave it a little extra thought and gave the guy a ride.

First of all, he was in an Army uniform without a head covering.

Second, he was on a turnpike, which in itself is illegal, I believe.

Third, his story sounded as phony as a three-dollar bill, which is what they say down at the poolroom. He said $60 had been stolen from him by some new guys in his company at his base in France.

Put all those bits of information together and you couldn't ask for a more preposterous story. Any old police reporter wouldn't have touched this guy with a rubber glove.

But his story had a way of sticking together.

He said he came from a small farm, and his accent never varied.

His father drove a bulldozer for a living and farmed 40 acres, which harbored a few hogs and a few head of cattle, along with fields of corn.

"I tried to phone Mom from New York but my little brother got scalded and was in the hospital and the whole family was there visiting him," he said. "I wanted them to wire me money."

You couldn't have made up a better story yourself Twill.

Always in the back of my mind were headlines about eight nurses murdered in Chicago and 16 other persons shot to death by a veteran in Texas.

"I used to do quite a bit of hitchhiking many years ago, but times have changed," I allowed.

"Yeah," he said, "a few can spoil it for everybody."

"Help yourself to some breakfast," we suggested.

"No thanks very much, I have already eaten," he said.

"How much leave do you have?"

"Thirty days," he said. "Here is my return air ticket to France." He showed us an official looking carbon copy of an intricate airline ticket with all the right names on it.

That was a mighty stride in his favor. If you are going to get murdered by a hitchhiker, there is nothing like having a hitchhiker with all the right credentials.

Then the women-folk came out of the Howard Johnson's. I waited for the bombshell as I said, "We are going to have another passenger for the rest of the way home."

Much to my surprise, the only response was, "Well, good. Hope we can do him a favor."

The clincher is that when the GI got out of our car in our hometown he refused to take bus fare for home.

"I'd rather not do it that way," he said. "But if there is ever anything I can do for you, I sure hope I can do it."

Later, the lady of the house said, "I just don't think a man in military uniform should have to beg for a ride in America!"

Sometime I'll have to have another talk with her about the facts of life in America.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

Our Worry Warts

By Truman Twill

The United States and United Kingdom are sharing an unusual problem.

This isn't the first time these two old foe-friends have had a common concern about salvation. But it is the first time their common concern had to do with too much prosperity.

That's their problem — prosperity.

The French and West Germans have this problem, too.

Italians, Dutchmen, Belgians, Scandinavians and the Japanese have it.

People are doing so well they are forgetting to be miserable.

They have heard so much about living high on the hog they are finding out for themselves.

Just as old Henry Ford said when he raised wages to $5 a day, there would be prosperity when people who worked earned enough to buy what they made.

That was how Tin Lizzies introduced the era of mass consumption. It now has spread to other industrial societies. But is everybody happy?

Our head worry warts are wrinkled up with misgivings because people are buying too much, bidding up prices, bidding up wage rates, going into debt, living as though there always would be a tomorrow.

It is highly irregular. The warts say something must be done to destroy this confidence in the future of mankind.

These are the same warts who used to worry because there was no faith in the future of mankind and no matter how they whooped and hollered the dumb people just stood like lumps and solicited one another to take in washings.

Our warts panted that something must be done to get more people employed so the output of the widgit works would be snapped up at high prices.

So, through no fault of the warts, something was done. Everything now is being snapped up at high prices. Prosperity is running out of people's ears. In Britain, the natives are talking about their right to enjoy central heating. People are buying autos and kicking up their heels.

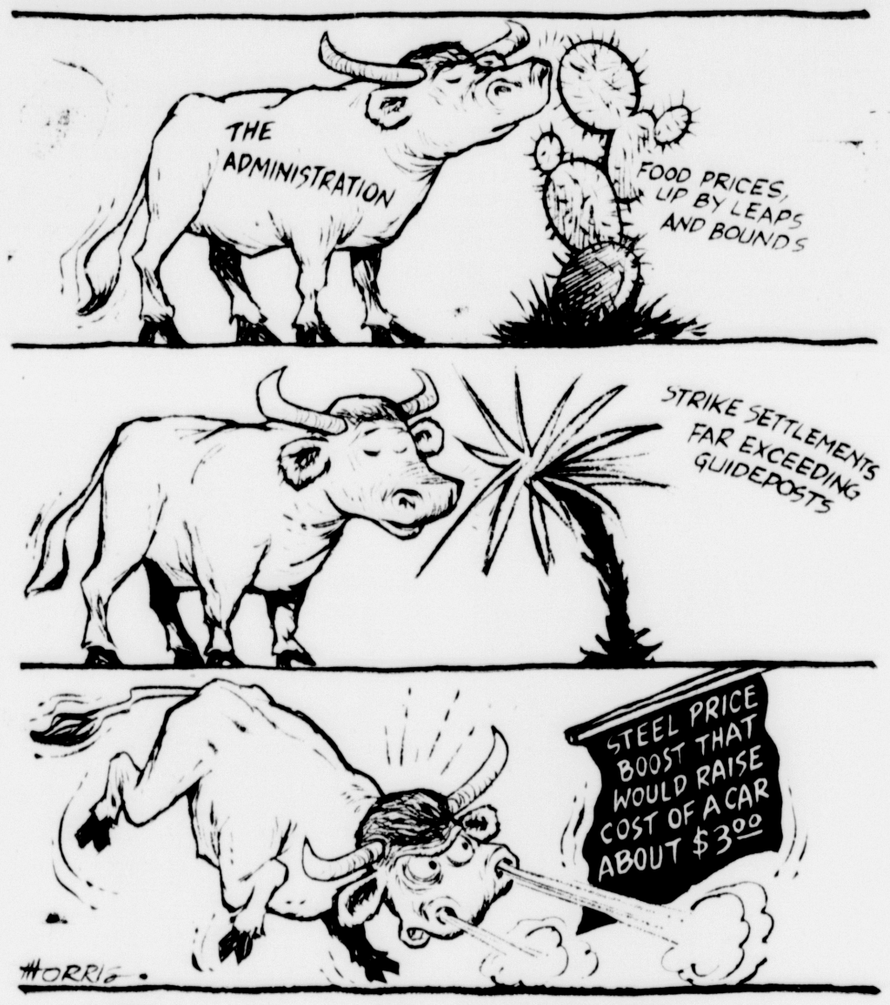

In the United States they're looking at multiple - digit statistics of industrial activity and cutting in on the big numbers. They can think of nothing nicer than helping to overheat the national economy.

For the first time in history people are worrying because things are too good. Crazy, isn't it?

The average educated man or woman uses from 3,000 to 5,000 different words, but a person can manage very well with just a few hundred. Even some famous authors have used a comparatively small number of words. Milton, for example, used only 8,000, and Shakespeare used 15,000.

The Republic of South Africa at the southern tip of the African continent, encompassing 472,494 square miles, is about twice the size of Texas.

So Sensitive About Some Things!

Humphrey Hails U.S. Miracle

While Victor Riesel is off on a series of foreign news fronts in search of a new kind of labor coverage, a number of national leaders will serve as substitute columnists for him. Today's column by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is the first in the series.

By HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
Vice President of the U.S.

WASHINGTON — The world's great success story today is our American economic miracle.

It was only a generation ago that we still heard all too often the Communist propaganda claim that the United States was teetering on the brink of economic chaos . . . that it was just a matter of time until our production lines would grind to a halt . . . until an army of unemployed would seize the state . . . and until economic warfare among the Western nations would open the door to international communism.

Now some of the Communist doctrinists have come to realize that Lord Keynes was speaking to them as well as others when he wrote: "Practical men, who believe themselves quite exempt from intellectual influences, are usually the slaves of some defunct economist."

OUR AMERICAN ECONOMY is strong and free and well able to sustain our efforts both at home and in the world.

Last year alone we Americans increased our GNP—the total of all our goods and services—by $47 billion, increased our total personal income by $39 billion, and increased our federal cash receipts by $8.5 billion.

All this did not happen by accident.

Part of it was certainly due to the influence of the so-called New Economics. But I believe the basic, underlying reason behind our American economic success is this: There is today a creative partnership for prosperity among those in our society who used to think of themselves as natural antagonists.

It has been years since we heard empty labels being thrown around — labels such as "labor boss" and "economic royalist."

The fact is that American government, business and labor are increasingly united in the knowledge that a stronger and better America is to the benefit of all—that it is far better to create a bigger economic pie, for all to share, than it is to worry about how a smaller pie is to be split up.

THERE HAVE BEEN STRIKES, and labor-management-government disagreements, during the last several years. None of them has approached the violence, or caused the public harm, that we had come to expect as a matter of course during days of less economic maturity.

I saw a news photograph recently of the chief labor and management negotiators in a nationwide strike in a major industry. These men were in disagreement, and there was a lot of unsettled ground between them, but they were smiling openly and shaking hands. For, although they disagreed, they disagreed honestly and without anger or recrimination.

For six straight years less than two-tenths of one per cent of total American working time has been lost in strikes. Almost twice as much time has been lost because of work injuries. Almost 10 times as much time has been lost because of acute illness.

THE GOOD NEWS is that almost all Americans, regardless of how they earn their living, are united on four basic economic goals for America: Maximum employment; steady economic growth; price stability and equilibrium in our balance of payments.

We are united, too, beyond purely economic goals.

I had occasion recently to read again the words spoken 20 years ago by an American statesman who called on his labor union to act not only in its own interests, but in the interests of fellow man.

"What we do in concert with other Americans," Sidney Hillman told the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, "will decide the future of this nation . . . will determine what kind of America we are going to leave to our children and the generations to come. . . . It's within the power of America to provide for our people conditions beyond the dreams of generations past. . . . This earth can be made a place where men and women can walk together in peace and friendship and enjoy all that this world can provide for us. . . .

"We want a better America, an America that will give its citizens, first of all, a higher and higher standard of living, so that no child will cry for food in the midst of plenty. We want to have an America where the inventions of science will be at the disposal of every American family, not merely for the few who can afford them; an America that will have no sense of insecurity and which will make it possible for all groups, regardless of race, creed or color to live in friendship, to be real neighbors; an America that will carry its great mission of helping other countries to help themselves. . . .

THOSE HUMAN CONCERNS, and those human goals, are today the concerns and goals of the plant manager and corporation president just as much as those of the shop steward and union leader—or, for that matter, the government official.

It has taken leadership and tolerance, by many Americans, to help bring us to the realization that we are, in fact, all in the same boat. Our job now is to stay in it and keep it moving forward.

Odd Facts

One of the oldest and longest canals in the world is the Grand Canal, which was begun by the Chinese about 500 B.C., and whose 1,000-mile waterway connects Hangchou and Tientsin.

Although according to the 1960 census, Los Angeles was listed as the city with the largest area — 454.8 square miles — Oklahoma City, Okla., now claims an area of 631.163 square miles, as the result of some 300 separate annexation ordinances.

Fairy Tale

By James Marlow

Chinese Reds Write One

WASHINGTON

No group in history ever faced a more gruesome, gigantic or frustrating task than tthe Chinese Reds when they took over their country in 1949 and had to rush it and 700 million people out of antiquity in a hurry.

They have made tremendous progress, led by men like Mao Tze-tung, who for years were fanatic in their zeal to do what they finally had a chance to do.

Now they are old but still fanatic, for this was the only way of life they knew and it is too late for change. This has been the history of others, like Stalin.

OTHERS IN China realized rigidity is the condition of a corpse and change a condition of life: that in time through the evolutionary process political parties change to adjust like bananas, crocodiles and people.

They have seen Communist parties around the world change — as in Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union — surrendering dogma to necessities and ideology to reality, but the critics of Mao's regime were purged.

Early this month the Chinese Communist party's Central Committee met for 12 days and then issued a communique which sounded in part like something from another world.

The fairy tale was in the euphoria about economic, agricultural and industrial successes. No doubt Red China was moving forward. But you would never guess it had any setbacks, made any mistakes. It had to have had them, with its vast problems. It simply did not admit them.

There was one thing you would guess: it is being careful about trying a second "great leap forward." It tried a "great leap" in 1958—under Mao's prodding, a radical collectivization of farm and factory — that turned into a great disaster.

This weekend's communique did not promise a great leap. It may have hinted at one.

The bitter break with the Soviet Union looks deeper than ever. The communique not only accused the Soviets of betraying communism and safeguarding capitalism but even of trying to restore capitalism.

YET, THERE was a pathetic sense of loneliness and reaction about the communique for more reasons than one:

1. — Red China set itself up as the leader of the world Communist movement, knowing as it did so, that one by one other countries, Communist or non-Communist, are beginning to look on her dubiously or breaking away.

2. — The whole communique, while its purpose may be to assure internal discipline, is a groveling, cringing, deification of a man, Mao, which makes an obscenity of all other intellects in China because, compared with his, all others look like trash.

In effect the Chinese people are being taken down the most reactionary of all roads. Instead of being urged to seek new values, insights and understandings, they are being told the answers are all in and that in all history only three men have had them: Mao, Marx and Lenin.

Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — John Huff of Glenmoor, C. E. Hughes of Toronto and John Kiel of East Liverpool were named judges for the second annual gladioli show at the Standard Garage in Wellsville.

The annual reunion of the Hobbs family was held at the home of Sen. W. S. Wilkin near Wellsburg. Dr. W. A. Hobbs of East Liverpool, president, headed the committee in charge.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — The annual reunion of the Dixon - Bartley families was held at Rock Springs Park, with E. C. Bartley of East Liverpool re - elected president.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Wilson of Park Blvd. were hosts at their home to a group of attorneys from the Youngstown College of Law.

TEN YEARS AGO — Jay P. Smith of Fredericktown was elected president during the 17th annual reunion of the W. R. Thomas family at Thompson Park.

Police Seek Identity Of Decomposed Body

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—Whoever he was, and investigators took further steps today to find out, the dead man found in a nearby quarry last week evidently died by means other than gunfire.

Sheriff W. L. Clay disclosed Sunday night that no bullet holes had been found in the decomposed body.

He reported on Ohio Bureau of Identification and Investigation findings to date while the bureau prepared to run a fingerprint check of the mystery victim today.

Police Seek Identity Of Decomposed Body

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—Whoever he was, and investigators took further steps today to find out, the dead man found in a nearby quarry last week evidently died by means other than gunfire.

Sheriff W. L. Clay disclosed Sunday night that no bullet holes had been found in the decomposed body.

He reported on Ohio Bureau of Identification and Investigation findings to date while the bureau prepared to run a fingerprint check of the mystery victim today.

Committee Gives Report On Oral Contraceptives

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-appointed medical advisory committee says the use of oral contraceptives should continue while studies of possible harmful effects are expanded.

The committee noted "certain very infrequent but serious side effects," but it said in a report released Sunday night that it found "no adequate scientific data, at this time, proving these compounds unsafe for human use."

The Food and Drug Administration appointed the 10-member committee last year and FDA Commissioner James L. Goddard said steps are planned or already have been taken to implement its recommendations.

The recommendations include a requirement that all oral contraceptives be uniformly labeled with warnings of possible serious side effects, and elimination of restrictions on the length of time women may take the pills regularly.

Goddard also announced expansion of some present studies of possible adverse effects and said other studies are being planned.

At a briefing for newsmen, doctors said it would take at least 10 years to determine whether there is a relationship between the pills and the development of cancer, and an unknown number of years to determine whether use of the pills induces development of diabetes.

The doctors said the pills are regarded as 99 per cent effective in conception control.

The committee, after saying in its 21-page report that it found no adequate scientific data at this time to prove the pills unsafe, added:

"It has nevertheless taken full cognizance of certain very infrequent but serious side effects and of possible theoretic risks suggested by animal experimental data and by some of the metabolic changes in human beings.

"In the final analysis, each physician must evaluate the advantages and the risks this method of contraception in comparison with other available methods or with no contraception at all. He can do this wisely only when there is presented to him dispassionate scientific knowledge of the available data."

It was brought out the manufacturers of the drugs have had 110 deaths reported to them which allegedly could have been associated with taking of the oral contraceptives.

But the committee emphasized that the conditions which caused the deaths also occur normally in women who have never had the pills.

Paint Cleaned From Water, Pool Reopens

The municipal swimming pool at Thompson Park was due to reopen this afternoon after a crew completed a weekend cleanup of two quarts of paint that were hurled into the water by vandals Friday night or Saturday, forcing a temporary suspension of operations.

Joseph Walters, park superintendent, said evidence at the scene showed the vandal stood on the high embankment opposite the bathhouse and hurled the cans of paint in a high arc so that they fell into the water. The lids of the two cans were found at the spot where they had been opened.

Walters made his usual morning inspection of the pool Saturday and saw what he thought was some dust on the water. But when a swimming party began later, some of the bathers emerged from the water smeared with paint.

Walters and his crew used window screening and other improvised devices to "skim" the paint off the surface of the water, as most of it floated.

Two quarts of paint — one brown and one black — had been hurled into the pool.

One of the cans dropped directly into the water. The other splashed paint on the grass, the walk, benches and other equipment in its flight, struck the edge of the pool and then bounded into the water. Both cans were found in the pool.

When the paint was discovered, the filtering system was shut down and the cleanup was started. The paint was removed without the necessity of draining the pool, Walters said.

Smith Warns Democrats Of 'Squabbling'

WHEELING (AP) — West Virginia Democrats heard a pep talk from Gov. Hulett Smith here this morning in which he advised:

"If anything can defeat our party in 1966, it is intra-party squabbling.

"Ours will not be a name-calling campaign, but rather a truth - telling crusade.

"This administration is meeting its goals . . ."

Smith told the "unity conference" at Oglebay Park, "in too many counties across this state, there have been too many party quarrels, too many party problems, and too many party factions created after the primary."

He emphasized to the Democratic leaders and candidates that there is a need "to watch for those who want to divide our forces."

Smith assigned all Democrats to become "more familiar with our record of accomplishment so you can pass the word of our achievements."

"After these few months in office, I say to you that this administration is meeting its goals," declared the governor.

Then he added, "We will never be satisfied with our achievements because we know the future progress of this state is unlimited."

Ohio's Traffic Kills 16 More

By The Associated Press

Ohio's traffic toll the past weekend amounted to at least 16 dead, virtually cut in half from the slaughter of the previous Friday night through Sunday night period.

Four pedestrians were among those killed during the latest 54 - hour period surveyed, during which just one accident was reported involving more than one death -- two young people perishing in a colission near Defiance.

Tests Seen 'Skirted' By Driving Examiner

Shimmin, who is just retiring at 61 after 27 years of testing drivers on the island, said miniskirts were an extra peril for the examiners.

Anti-U.S. Outburst Assailed In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia's Prime Minister Abdul Rahman has denounced anti-American demonstrations here as Communist-inspired, and pledged his government will deal sternly with the leftists responsible for the outbreaks.

Rahman's statement followed an anti-U.S. outburst Sunday by some 200 Chinese youths who clashed with riot police and had to be dispersed with tear gas.

The United States Weather Bureau has been in existence for almost 100 years; it was established by an act of Congress on February 9, 1872.

West Virginia Okays 'Studs' For Retreads

But that ruling was amended last week to permit the studs in retreads from Nov. 1 to April 1. The studs are intended for use in icy weather driving.

A cup of nutmeats usually weighs about one-quarter pound.

Slaying At Cincinnati Seen Clue To Others

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 31-year-old woman was killed Sunday—run over by a stolen taxicab and brutally slashed on the throat. An attempt also was made to strangle her.

Police said it's a possibility Miss Barbara Bowman may have hired the cab to take her home, not knowing it had been stolen from a Yellow Cab Co. lot. She was found about a block from her Price Hill apartment where she lived alone.

Detective Chief Jacob Schott said the killing may lead police to a clue in the recent slayings of three other Cincinnati women, who were raped and strangled.

"This could be it," Schott said when asked if there was any connection with the other killings.

Smith Warns Democrats Of 'Squabbling'

WHEELING (AP) — West Virginia Democrats heard a pep talk from Gov. Hulett Smith here this morning in which he advised:

"If anything can defeat our party in 1966, it is intra-party squabbling.

"Ours will not be a name-calling campaign, but rather a truth - telling crusade.

"This administration is meeting its goals . . ."

Smith told the "unity conference" at Oglebay Park, "in too many counties across this state, there have been too many party quarrels, too many party problems, and too many party factions created after the primary."

He emphasized to the Democratic leaders and candidates that there is a need "to watch for those who want to divide our forces."

Smith assigned all Democrats to become "more familiar with our record of accomplishment so you can pass the word of our achievements."

"After these few months in office, I say to you that this administration is meeting its goals," declared the governor.

Then he added, "We will never be satisfied with our achievements because we know the future progress of this state is unlimited."

Ohio's Traffic Kills 16 More

By The Associated Press

Ohio's traffic toll the past weekend amounted to at least 16 dead, virtually cut in half from the slaughter of the previous Friday night through Sunday night period.

Four pedestrians were among those killed during the latest 54 - hour period surveyed, during which just one accident was reported involving more than one death -- two young people perishing in a colission near Defiance.

Deaths reported since noon Saturday.

Saturday

Miss Rosemary Booher, 19, and James Manley, 18, both of Defiance, when the auto driven by Miss Booher collided with another car on the U.S. 24 bypass near Defiance.

Hugh Price, 53, Greenfield, of injuries suffered Friday night when two small nephews, age 5 and 3, got into a car parked in a driveway next to his house and traveling in reverse it struck him and dragged him across the street.

Jefferson D. Morrow, 50, Huber Heights near Dayton, in a two - car collision at the Ohio 4 - Ohio 69 intersection near Fairborn.

Sunday

Tests Seen 'Skirted' By Driving Examiner

Shimmin, who is just retiring at 61 after 27 years of testing drivers on the island, said miniskirts were an extra peril for the examiners.

Anti-U.S. Outburst Assailed In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia's Prime Minister Abdul Rahman has denounced anti-American demonstrations here as Communist-inspired, and pledged his government will deal sternly with the leftists responsible for the outbreaks.

Rahman's statement followed an anti-U.S. outburst Sunday by some 200 Chinese youths who clashed with riot police and had to be dispersed with tear gas.

The United States Weather Bureau has been in existence for almost 100 years; it was established by an act of Congress on February 9, 1872.

West Virginia Okays 'Studs' For Retreads

But that ruling was amended last week to permit the studs in retreads from Nov. 1 to April 1. The studs are intended for use in icy weather driving.

A cup of nutmeats usually weighs about one-quarter pound.

Slaying At Cincinnati Seen Clue To Others

CINCINNATI (AP) — A 31-year-old woman was killed Sunday—run over by a stolen taxicab and brutally slashed on the throat. An attempt also was made to strangle her.

Police said it's a possibility Miss Barbara Bowman may have hired the cab to take her home, not knowing it had been stolen from a Yellow Cab Co. lot. She was found about a block from her Price Hill apartment where she lived alone.

Detective Chief Jacob Schott said the killing may lead police to a clue in the recent slayings of three other Cincinnati women, who were raped and strangled.

"This could be it," Schott said when asked if there was any connection with the other killings.

Economy Bid By GOP Lags

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican economy campaign is floundering in Congress but Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen says it will continue.

Not since Dirksen led the successful fight to cut the foreign aid authorization by $250 million have the Republicans been able to enlist enough Democratic allies to make any substantial spending reductions.

Last Friday they even fell off the economy wagon in voting almost to a man to add new authority for $900 million in college dormitory loans to an omnibus housing bill.

In this instance the GOP members could claim that this wasn't really an expenditure, since such loans eventually will be repaid. But the money comes out of the hide of President Johnson's current spending budget and the administration fought the move.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who contends that new construction projects only add to the inflationary pressures about which Republicans have been complaining loudly, was the only member of his party to oppose the amendment.

Dirksen said in an interview he recognizes the difficulty of cutting back on projects which promise local benefits for states and communities.

"So many of these programs operate almost automatically so that it's like getting plums off a tree without even reaching for them," he said. "And even Republicans like plums."

When debate begins today on the administration's mass transit bill, Dirksen said there will be efforts to reduce the first year's proposed outlays from $150 million to $100 million. He said these will be linked with moves to pare second-year outlays from $225 million to $150 million.

In this instance the Republican economizers will be fighting only a rear guard action. They will be for mass transit aid but at a slower pace than the Democrats.

Another core measure of the Johnson Great Society program, to put $900 million into "demonstration cities" over a two-year period, seems likely to face a frontal assault from the Republicans.

Deputies Probe Tavern Looting

LISBON — Two men from Atwater stopped at the State Highway Patrol post here Sunday noon to report an apparent burglary at the Cloverleaf Tavern on Route 30, six miles southeast of Lisbon.

They reported they found the door standing open when they stopped about 12:30 p. m.

Sheriff's Deputy James (Ronnie) Gause said someone got in by breaking a window on the east side of the building. "Everything was pretty well torn up inside," Gause said.

Owner Sam Sowards of Lisbon said the loot included perhaps five cases of beer from the cooler, an undetermined amount of change from the cash register and cigarette machine, cigarettes and several cards of cigarette lighters.

Not since Dirksen led the successful fight to cut the foreign aid authorization by $250 million have the Republicans been able to enlist enough Democratic allies to make any substantial spending reductions.

Last Friday they even fell off the economy wagon in voting almost to a man to add new authority for $900 million in college dormitory loans to an omnibus housing bill.

In this instance the GOP members could claim that this wasn't really an expenditure, since such loans eventually will be repaid. But the money comes out of the hide of President Johnson's current spending budget and the administration fought the move.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who contends that new construction projects only add to the inflationary pressures about which Republicans have been complaining loudly, was the only member of his party to oppose the amendment.

Dirksen said in an interview he recognizes the difficulty of cutting back on projects which promise local benefits for states and communities.

"So many of these programs operate almost automatically so that it's like getting plums off a tree without even reaching for them," he said. "And even Republicans like plums."

When debate begins today on the administration's mass transit bill, Dirksen said there will be efforts to reduce the first year's proposed outlays from $150 million to $100 million. He said these will be linked with moves to pare second-year outlays from $225 million to $150 million.

In this instance the Republican economizers will be fighting only a rear guard action. They will be for mass transit aid but at a slower pace than the Democrats.

Another core measure of the Johnson Great Society program, to put $900 million into "demonstration cities" over a two-year period, seems likely to face a frontal assault from the Republicans.

Deputies Probe Tavern Looting

LISBON — Two men from Atwater stopped at the State Highway Patrol post here Sunday noon to report an apparent burglary at the Cloverleaf Tavern on Route 30, six miles southeast of Lisbon.

They reported they found the door standing open when they stopped about 12:30 p. m.

Sheriff's Deputy James (Ronnie) Gause said someone got in by breaking a window on the east side of the building. "Everything was pretty well torn up inside," Gause said.

Owner Sam Sowards of Lisbon said the loot included perhaps five cases of beer from the cooler, an undetermined amount of change from the cash register and cigarette machine, cigarettes and several cards of cigarette lighters.

Automatic SOS

Electronic Gadget Aids Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of a pilot's best friends in Viet Nam may be an electronic gadget the size of two cigarette packs — a pulsating device that beams an automatic SOS in case of trouble.

This is the emergency radio beacon, a $75 device that automatically begins sending a distress signal if a pilot is forced to parachute from his plane.

It goes to work whether the airman is conscious or not.

The beacon continues emitting its signal at 243 megacycles — the international distress frequency — until the pilot shuts it off upon landing. He might find this desirable to avoid leading enemy troops to his location.

The other is a 2½ pound "transistorized miniature transceiver" —two-way radio — with which he can communicate by voice with rescue aircraft. An airman carries the $150 radio in his flight suit on combat missions.

During the Korean war airmen were outfitted with the two-way radio, but Pentagon officials say the automatic beacon is something new. Its ultra high frequency alarm carries 80 miles while an airman floats to earth. Upon landing this range is reduced somewhat by terrain and jungle.

The voice radio has about a 50-mile range.

Over 200 Air Force and Navy pilots have been rescued after going down over North or South Viet Nam, and Pentagon spokesmen credit the electronic gear with aiding recovery operations.

There seems to be some concern, however, that the enemy might be able to lure rescue craft into an antiaircraft fire trap by beaming a decoy signal. This could be done by using ultra high frequency equipment or the survival pack taken from a dead or captured American flier.

One former pilot, however, downgrades the likelihood of such an enemy tactic.

The very use of a decoy signal necessarily means that the Communists would give way their position, he said. Besides, rescue planes are accompanied by heavily armed aircraft to defend them.

Food Poisoning Hits 58 At Firm's Picnic

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Some 58 persons were sent to three Sandusky hospitals Sunday from a company picnic at nearby Cedar Point for treatment of food poisoning.

Nine persons were admitted to the hospitals, the others were treated and released.

William Denton, meat supervisor for the company, said the meat which they brought to the picnic was supplied by a meat parking firm, not the store or Cedar Point.

The meat – had–was believed to have been the cause of the illness.

Plans Are Set In Heifer Sale

LISBON — The recently - organized Northeastern Ohio Dairy Sales Association is planning Ohio's first graded heifer sale this fall.

President Earl Alsworth of Shreve R. D. 1 says the purpose of the association is to sell cattle on a graded basis. He said the sales will enable dairymen to get more money for higher quality heifers and provide a place for buyers to obtain replacement cattle with confidence in quality.

The first sale is scheduled for 7 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Sugarcreek Livestock Market in Tuscarawas County.

Joe D. Pittman, Columbiana County extension agent for agriculture, said the following grades will be used:

Registered supreme, registered superior, DHIA, superior DHIA, superior, preferred DHIA, preferred standard and utility. Weight, size, type and production will determine the grade.

"Registered" means registration papers must accompany the animal, Pittman explained. Non-registered or grade animals can be sold in any other of the classifications.

"DHIA" means records must be available on the animal if she has completed a lacation. DHIR, DHIA, and owner sample records can be used to verify production.

Consignment of breed heifers, both grade and registered, are needed for the sale. Dairy heifers four months of age to cows in milk are eligible for the sale, according to John Parker, area agent at the state agricultural research and development center at Wooster. The program is designed primarily for heifers, however.

Pittman said animals must not show crossbreeding nor be altered or misrepresented in any way. They will be identified by an official state tag or registration papers and they must be on the farm of the consignor at least four months prior to the sale.

Area milk producers may obtain additional information from Alsworth, the Sugarcreek livestock auction, the county extension office in Lisbon of the area center at Wooster.

2,000 See Final Show Of Calcutta Firemen's Event

Pat Lawton and Dick Smith jumped from 6,200 feet Friday night, free falling 1,500 feet. The two along with P. J. Eddy jumped from 8,000 feet Saturday night.

Proceeds from the festival will be used toward payment of a new 1,000-gallon tanker which costs $10,000 and is to be delivered as soon as the valve system is intallsed.

Nineteen firemen and 15 women aided in the fete. The St. Clair Township Civil Defense fire protection unit operated a concession which will provide money for fire coats and boots.

8 Cars Damaged In Local Traffic

Eight cars were damaged in five East Liverpool traffic mishaps over the weekend, but no one was injured, police reported.

Pavement made wet by intermittent weekend rains was blamed for a collision Sunday at 5:35 p.m. on Cadmus St. near Avondale St.

It involved a 1957 sedan driven by James M. Williamson, 20, of 737 Sophia St. and a parked 1959 model station wagon owned by Melvina Dorrell of 810 Cadmus St., officers said.

Williamson said he was turning off Avondale St. onto Cadmus St. when he lost control on the slippery pavement and slid into the parked auto. The collision damaged the left front fender of Williamson's car and the left front of the hood and the bumper of the Dorrell auto, police said. Patrolman Leonard E. Richard investigated.

Another parked car was damaged in a similar mishap this morning at 3:50 at Jefferson and W. 3rd Sts.

Custer reported he was driving east on W. 3rd St. and making a left turn onto Jefferson St. when he hit the parked car. Patrolman Howard E. Frontz investigated.

A Youngstown man's car was damaged slightly in a collision at W. 3rd St. and Persimmon Alley Saturday at 6:50 p. m.

The mishap involved a 1966 model station wagon operated by Anthony Gallo, 49, of Youngstown and a 1965 two-door sedan operated by Michael Spanik, 49, of 72 Midland Ave., Midland, officers said.

Gallo was halted in a traffic lane on W. 3rd and Spanik was backing out of Persimmon Alley after learning he was headed the wrong way on a one-way throughfare, officers said. Spanik halted his auto, but it drifted backward slightly and struck the left rear door of the Gallo car, causing minor damage. The report was filed by Lt. Charles E. (Bill) Tice.

A mishap Saturday at 12:40 p. m. on W. 6th St. 30 feet west of Dresden Ave. involved a 1958 driven by Charles Fletcher, 16, of the Westfield Rd. and a 1963 model two-door sedan operated by Wilma B. Mason, 59, of 831 McKinnon Ave., officers said.

Fletcher was maneuvering into a parking place when his car bumped the Mason auto, which was halted in a traffic lane. There was damage to the left rear of the Mason auto. Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. investigated.

Two cars were damaged in another mishap on St. Clair Ave. 20 feet north of Webber St. Saturday at 2:58 p. m., police reported.

It involved a 1965 model car operated by Miss Helen M. Capehart of 221 W. 4th St. and a 1966 model auto driven by Joseph E. Rice of Calcutta, officers said.

Both cars were southbound when Miss Capehart slowed to change gears, officers said. Her car then was hit from the rear by Rice's auto. Officer Burson investigated.

Radiological Program Will Be Initiated Here

The East Liverpool Health Department's radiological program will be initiated Aug. 19 and continued on Aug. 24, 25 and 26 by Steve Horvath of the Ohio Department of Radiological Health.

He will be assisted by Ben Weber of the local health department, who will conduct the program after the initial survey.

The object will be to::

1. — Assess all X-ray and radium installation and facilities in the city in terms of national standards as to the extent of unnecessary radiation exposure.

2. — To reduce unneccessary exposure.

3. — To eliminate serious radiation hazards resulting from improper use, defective equipment, material or protective facilities.

All persons owning X- ray equipment must be registered by the state. They will be contacted by Weber relative to the dates, with a schedule for visiting the installation to be arranged.

On the basis of the findings, and if agreed to by the owner of the equipment, appropriate corrections of collimation and filtration will be made by the survey man, Weber said.

A written report will be mailed to the owner of the equipment within a few days after the survey.

Computers Playing Key Role In Taft And Gillian Contest

Both U.S. Rep. John J. Gillian and Taft are using computers to help locate their strong and weak points in the 1st Congressional District, which covers half of Cincinnati and ranges from pockets of poor to swank suburbs.

Each man claims to be the underdog.

"No one with the Taft name running in this community can be the underdog," say Gilligan's campaign directors.

"Bob's the underdog," say Taft's campaigners, noting that Gilligan won his seat by beating a Republican who had never lost an election.

Gilligan, 45, is running on the record of his first term in Congress, a record that Taft, 49, calls a "rubber stamp" of President Johnson's proposals.

Their campaigns, while confined mainly to statements and visits to Viet Nam so far, still may be the most elaborate ever put on for a congressional seat here.

The Taft forces have divided the district into 15 areas, marked ir. color on a map to indicate whether they are Republican, Democratic or "swing" sections.

All previous voting data has been computerized to provide a profile of the political moods and trends of each of the district's 642 precincts.

Taft's campaign manager, Cal Rubin, has 1,000 or more volunteers for house-to-house canvassing to gather more data for the computer.

Gilligan's computer operation is similar.

"We have had a computerized list of all the registered voters in the district for some time," says his campaign manager, John G. Ruppenhoff.

Gilligan expects to use more than 2,000 volunteer campaign workers, nearly three times the number he used two years ago in defeating Republican Carl Rich.

Democrats are making a close study of 161 key precincts where they hope to get 75 to 80 per cent of the votes.

Gilligan, a graduate of Notre Dame with a master's degree from the University of Cincinnati, was a literature instructor at Xavier University until 1953, when he won the first of six straight terms on the City Council.

He failed to win Democratic nomination for Ohio congressman-at-large in 1962 but two years later was nominated in the 1st District and became the third Democrat in 105 years to win the seat.

Taft, son of the late Robert A. Taft and grandson of President William Howard Taft, was elected to the Ohio House in 1955. He was its majority leader in 1962 when he was elected congressman-at-large.

Two years ago he ran for his father's old seat in the U.S. Senate against incumbent Democrat Sen. Stephen Young. Taft lost by 16,000 votes in a major upset.

Man Charged In Wire Theft

An man identified as Harold Russell of 13th St., Wellsville, pleaded not guilty today in Municipal Court on a charge he knowingly had in his possession about 250 pounds of wire which had been stolen from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. right-of-way.

Arrested Saturday by Patrolman Orin C. Smith and Pennsylvania Railroad detectives, Russell entered the denial before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff. The judge continued the preliminary hearing until Wednesday morning to allow the defendant to obtain counsel. He set bond at $1,500.

The copper signal wire is approximately 7,500 feet long, authorities said. The Pennsy detectives declined to discuss the case until after the preliminary hearing. The affidavit was signed by Sgt. Harry F. McCaskey of the railroad's detective detachment in Canton

Meanwhile, Russell was sentenced to a 30-day County Jail term when he pleaded guilty to operating an auto without a driver's license. The license charge also was filed at the time of his arrest Saturday.

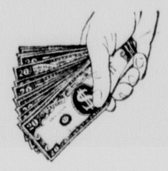

Queried by the court, Russell said he has not had a driver's license since 1956 and never had an Ohio permit. The judge commented the record showed that Russell was jailed in 1962, also for driving without a license.

There are about 6,000 dealers nationwide in the camper and camping equipment business now, and the number is increasing by about 10 per cent a year.

8 Cars Damaged In Local Traffic

Eight cars were damaged in five East Liverpool traffic mishaps over the weekend, but no one was injured, police reported.

Pavement made wet by intermittent weekend rains was blamed for a collision Sunday at 5:35 p.m. on Cadmus St. near Avondale St.

It involved a 1957 sedan driven by James M. Williamson, 20, of 737 Sophia St. and a parked 1959 model station wagon owned by Melvina Dorrell of 810 Cadmus St., officers said.

Williamson said he was turning off Avondale St. onto Cadmus St. when he lost control on the slippery pavement and slid into the parked auto. The collision damaged the left front fender of Williamson's car and the left front of the hood and the bumper of the Dorrell auto, police said. Patrolman Leonard E. Richard investigated.

Another parked car was damaged in a similar mishap this morning at 3:50 at Jefferson and W. 3rd Sts.

Custer reported he was driving east on W. 3rd St. and making a left turn onto Jefferson St. when he hit the parked car. Patrolman Howard E. Frontz investigated.

A Youngstown man's car was damaged slightly in a collision at W. 3rd St. and Persimmon Alley Saturday at 6:50 p. m.

The mishap involved a 1966 model station wagon operated by Anthony Gallo, 49, of Youngstown and a 1965 two-door sedan operated by Michael Spanik, 49, of 72 Midland Ave., Midland, officers said.

Gallo was halted in a traffic lane on W. 3rd and Spanik was backing out of Persimmon Alley after learning he was headed the wrong way on a one-way throughfare, officers said. Spanik halted his auto, but it drifted backward slightly and struck the left rear door of the Gallo car, causing minor damage. The report was filed by Lt. Charles E. (Bill) Tice.

A mishap Saturday at 12:40 p. m. on W. 6th St. 30 feet west of Dresden Ave. involved a 1958 driven by Charles Fletcher, 16, of the Westfield Rd. and a 1963 model two-door sedan operated by Wilma B. Mason, 59, of 831 McKinnon Ave., officers said.

Fletcher was maneuvering into a parking place when his car bumped the Mason auto, which was halted in a traffic lane. There was damage to the left rear of the Mason auto. Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. investigated.

Two cars were damaged in another mishap on St. Clair Ave. 20 feet north of Webber St. Saturday at 2:58 p. m., police reported.

It involved a 1965 model car operated by Miss Helen M. Capehart of 221 W. 4th St. and a 1966 model auto driven by Joseph E. Rice of Calcutta, officers said.

Both cars were southbound when Miss Capehart slowed to change gears, officers said. Her car then was hit from the rear by Rice's auto. Officer Burson investigated.

1,186 Given X-Rays At Palestine's Fair

The unit's next assignment is a general public survey Aug. 25-26 on Broadway in Salem. Hours will be 10 a. m. to noon and 2 to 5 and 6 to 8 Thursday and 10 a. m. to noon and 1 to 5 p. m. Friday.

Radiological Program Will Be Initiated Here

The East Liverpool Health Department's radiological program will be initiated Aug. 19 and continued on Aug. 24, 25 and 26 by Steve Horvath of the Ohio Department of Radiological Health.

He will be assisted by Ben Weber of the local health department, who will conduct the program after the initial survey.

The object will be to::

1. — Assess all X-ray and radium installation and facilities in the city in terms of national standards as to the extent of unnecessary radiation exposure.

2. — To reduce unneccessary exposure.

3. — To eliminate serious radiation hazards resulting from improper use, defective equipment, material or protective facilities.

All persons owning X- ray equipment must be registered by the state. They will be contacted by Weber relative to the dates, with a schedule for visiting the installation to be arranged.

On the basis of the findings, and if agreed to by the owner of the equipment, appropriate corrections of collimation and filtration will be made by the survey man, Weber said.

A written report will be mailed to the owner of the equipment within a few days after the survey.

Computers Playing Key Role In Taft And Gillian Contest

Both U.S. Rep. John J. Gillian and Taft are using computers to help locate their strong and weak points in the 1st Congressional District, which covers half of Cincinnati and ranges from pockets of poor to swank suburbs.

Each man claims to be the underdog.

"No one with the Taft name running in this community can be the underdog," say Gilligan's campaign directors.

"Bob's the underdog," say Taft's campaigners, noting that Gilligan won his seat by beating a Republican who had never lost an election.

Gilligan, 45, is running on the record of his first term in Congress, a record that Taft, 49, calls a "rubber stamp" of President Johnson's proposals.

Their campaigns, while confined mainly to statements and visits to Viet Nam so far, still may be the most elaborate ever put on for a congressional seat here.

The Taft forces have divided the district into 15 areas, marked in color on a map to indicate whether they are Republican, Democratic or "swing" sections.

All previous voting data has been computerized to provide a profile of the political moods and trends of each of the district's 642 precincts.

Taft's campaign manager, Cal Rubin, has 1,000 or more volunteers for house-to-house canvassing to gather more data for the computer.

Gilligan's computer operation is similar.

"We have had a computerized list of all the registered voters in the district for some time," says his campaign manager, John G. Ruppenhoff.

Civil Rights Aide Renews 'Discrimination' Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus civil rights advocate says he has a letter from the U.S. Labor Department supporting his charge that the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation practices racial discrimination.

The bureau administrator, Willard P. Dudley, says the federal department has never informed him if it found any specific instances of bias, and if it had it would be his office's business—not the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's.

David G. McConnell, labor and industry chairman of the Columbus NAACP chapter, leveled the charge over the weekend and demanded Dudley's resignation or firing by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes' executive assistant, John McElroy, commented:

"I can tell you this. The governor is not about to ask for Dudley's resignation."

McConnell, said Dudley, is "a confused individual who has a fixation and for some reason has picked me as his target."

McConnell made the demand in person during a governor's mansion conference at which some 80 representatives of industry, education, commerce, civic and antipoverty groups were discussing means of finding jobs for youths.

He reiterated it in a Sunday news release.

He charged that Dudley had "blocked efforts by the U.S. Department of Labor, and also by his own staff members, to stop racially discriminatory practices in the Ohio State Employmen Service."

The NAACP spokesman said his organization took charges of racial bias in the employment service's Columbus Youth Opportunities Center to U. S. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz five months ago. He said Wirtz sent an investigating team here and that it wrote him confirming the OSES accepts and fills discriminatory job orders from employers.

Dudley said there had been correspondence and conversation between his bureau and the Labor Department but no specific charges of discrimination.

"If there is discrimination," he added, "that would be between my office and the Department of Labor — not McConnell and the NAACP."

Hospital officials said Mrs. Kennedy had a room across the hall from John, 5, and stayed with him as Dr. Edward Weymueller of New York performed the routine surgery Saturday.

CHARLESTOWN, R.I. (AP) — A brother-in-law combo won the war dance competition Sunday at the 293rd annual meeting of the Narragansett Indian tribe.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — The H. J. Rottman family of Decatur couldn't get a plane reservation in New York because of the strike by mechanics against five major airlines. So they took a cab.

The family made the 1,100-mile auto trip home nonstop, from 10 a.m. Friday to 5 p.m. Saturday. At the wheel was Leo Silverstein, who owns his own taxi. He charged $300 for the haul.

Said Mrs. Rottman: "You should have seen those stares we got coming through Ohio and Indiana in a New York City cab."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Undersecretary of Commerce LeRoy Collins and a host of dignitaries sat on the deck of the vessel Oceanographer Saturday, waiting for a huge reception cake to be served.

It was, but not in the usual manner. A strong breeze knocked the cake into Collins' lap.

How Much Paint?

Here's Mathematical Formula

Although paint leftovers from your last interior redecorating job can be put to beautiful use on accent pieces and such—most home owners would like to be able to estimate how much paint to buy within a few pints.

Th National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association at Washington, D. C., has a fairly accurate formula for you to use in these pre-painting mathematics.

Most paint container labels will have a "spreading - rate" table which shows how many square feet each gallon of paint will cover. In order to determine the area of the surface to be painted, simply multiply the length times the width, and you'll have your answer.

IN MEASURING the walls in a room, one method is to measure the perimeter of the room, and multiply that figure by the height of the walls. It is unnecessary to subtract anything from this total in allowance for windows and doors, unless their total area is more than 100 square feet.

The next step is simple. Take the total number of square feet to be painted and divide that figure by the total number of square feet a gallon of your paint will cover. The result is a number of gallons, or fractions of a gallon, you will need for the job.

The same formula applies, of course, in determining how much varnish you'll need for floors and how much paint you'll need for ceilings. If you are planning to paint one or two walls in a different color, of course, figure their requirements seperately, or you'll end up with too much paint.

These rules apply to only flat surfaces, and all surfaces in the home are not flat. Irregular surfaces can be measured as follows: First, measure the front area and multiply this figure by the following key numbers: Balustrades 4; cabinets 5; cornices 2; grills 2; radiators 7; stairs — count the risers and multiply by eight.

When it comes to calculating how much paint you need for exterior jobs, much the same procedure is followed. Multiply the length of each wall by the height from foundation to eaves. Add the four figures to get the number of square feet to be covered.

If there are gable ends, take the length of the gable and multiply this by one-half its height, measured from the eave line to the very top. Double this figure to get the area of the two gabled ends and add this to the wall area. Divide this total by the coverage per gallon to get the number of gallons you need.

Again, do not allow for windows unless they measure more than 100 square feet.

THE AREA of the sash and frame of a window is generally thirty - five feet. Multiply this figure by the number of windows to get the area that has to be covered with trim enamel. Divide this product by the coverage, and you'll know how much trim enamel to buy.

The amount of paint needed for eaves depends on their construction. Where plain eaves are to be painted the same color as the walls, measure the area of the eaves and multiply by 1½. Where they are to be painted a different color multiply by 2. With eaves that have rafters running through, measure the area and multiply by three. The same rule applies for eaves over brick or masonry walls.

To calculate paint necessary for gutters and downspouts, measure the front area and multiply by two.

Caution Should Be Key If Working On Roof

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Every year we have the usual stories of fatalities and injuries which arise from amateurs attempting roof work on their houses. But it is difficult to resist the temptation to go up the ladder because of all house repairs, roof work and repairs are the most expensive.

Never stand upright on a roof! Never venture out on a wet roof, regardless of rubber-soled shoes or anything else!

The reasons for not standing or moving around on a roof in an upright position are plain common sense. A strong gust of wind, a dizzy spell or tripping, may send you to the ground.

When you are standing you have two points of contact with the roof. When you move around on hands and knees you have six points of contact and you are not affected by the wind as much; you cannot trip. A dizzy spell might cause you to collapse flat, but you would hardly slide off the roof when in that position unless the roof had more than average pitch.

In checking the causes of roof accidents, it appears that most of them come from standing and walking instead of crawling. Many accidents are caused by sudden movements, such as grabbing for a tool or piece of material which had started to slide off.

Not a few of the fatal accidents were caused by a wet roof, even when the victim had been in a prone position. And a fair percentage of them were caused by badly - placed or insecure ladders.

Of the ladder accidents, more than half were caused by excessive reaching, indulged in to save the trouble of getting down and replacing the ladder.

New Names Assigned 2 Township Precincts

The County Election Board announced today it has assigned new names to two Washington Township precincts to avoid possible confusion of voters.

The two polling places originally were designated as Washington Township" and "Highlandtown" in the action last Thursday night in which the board created a second polling place. In the new designation, the Washington Township Precinct will be known as the West Precinct and the Highlandtown Precinct will be called the East Precinct.

Miss Rebecca Resnick, director of elections, said the board decided upon the new designations to avoid the possibility of confusing the voters. Prior to the change, all of Washington Township voted in one precinct.

Against Ohio's BUC

Civil Rights Aide Renews 'Discrimination' Charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus civil rights advocate says he has a letter from the U.S. Labor Department supporting his charge that the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation practices racial discrimination.

The bureau administrator, Willard P. Dudley, says the federal department has never informed him if it found any specific instances of bias, and if it had it would be his office's business—not the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's.

David G. McConnell, labor and industry chairman of the Columbus NAACP chapter, leveled the charge over the weekend and demanded Dudley's resignation or firing by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Rhodes' executive assistant, John McElroy, commented:

"I can tell you this. The governor is not about to ask for Dudley's resignation."

McConnell, said Dudley, is "a confused individual who has a fixation and for some reason has picked me as his target."

McConnell made the demand in person during a governor's mansion conference at which some 80 representatives of industry, education, commerce, civic and antipoverty groups were discussing means of finding jobs for youths.

He reiterated it in a Sunday news release.

He charged that Dudley had "blocked efforts by the U.S. Department of Labor, and also by his own staff members, to stop racially discriminatory practices in the Ohio State Employmen Service."

The NAACP spokesman said his organization took charges of racial bias in the employment service's Columbus Youth Opportunities Center to U. S. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz five months ago. He said Wirtz sent an investigating team here and that it wrote him confirming the OSES accepts and fills discriminatory job orders from employers.

Dudley said there had been correspondence and conversation between his bureau and the Labor Department but no specific charges of discrimination.

"If there is discrimination," he added, "that would be between my office and the Department of Labor — not McConnell and the NAACP."

Hospital officials said Mrs. Kennedy had a room across the hall from John, 5, and stayed with him as Dr. Edward Weymueller of New York performed the routine surgery Saturday.

First prize went to Dancing Cloud, 28, and second prize to Red Squirrel, 13, both of Bradford, R.I.

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — The H. J. Rottman family of Decatur couldn't get a plane reservation in New York because of the strike by mechanics against five major airlines. So they took a cab.

The family made the 1,100-mile auto trip home nonstop, from 10 a.m. Friday to 5 p.m. Saturday. At the wheel was Leo Silverstein, who owns his own taxi. He charged $300 for the haul.

Said Mrs. Rottman: "You should have seen those stares we got coming through Ohio and Indiana in a New York City cab."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Undersecretary of Commerce LeRoy Collins and a host of dignitaries sat on the deck of the vessel Oceanographer Saturday, waiting for a huge reception cake to be served.

It was, but not in the usual manner. A strong breeze knocked the cake into Collins' lap.

How Much Paint?

Here's Mathematical Formula

Although paint leftovers from your last interior redecorating job can be put to beautiful use on accent pieces and such—most home owners would like to be able to estimate how much paint to buy within a few pints.

Th National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association at Washington, D. C., has a fairly accurate formula for you to use in these pre-painting mathematics.

Most paint container labels will have a "spreading - rate" table which shows how many square feet each gallon of paint will cover. In order to determine the area of the surface to be painted, simply multiply the length times the width, and you'll have your answer.

IN MEASURING the walls in a room, one method is to measure the perimeter of the room, and multiply that figure by the height of the walls. It is unnecessary to subtract anything from this total in allowance for windows and doors, unless their total area is more than 100 square feet.

The next step is simple. Take the total number of square feet to be painted and divide that figure by the total number of square feet a gallon of your paint will cover. The result is a number of gallons, or fractions of a gallon, you will need for the job.

The same formula applies, of course, in determining how much varnish you'll need for floors and how much paint you'll need for ceilings. If you are planning to paint one or two walls in a different color, of course, figure their requirements seperately, or you'll end up with too much paint.

These rules apply to only flat surfaces, and all surfaces in the home are not flat. Irregular surfaces can be measured as follows: First, measure the front area and multiply this figure by the following key numbers: Balustrades 4; cabinets 5; cornices 2; grills 2; radiators 7; stairs — count the risers and multiply by eight.

When it comes to calculating how much paint you need for exterior jobs, much the same procedure is followed. Multiply the length of each wall by the height from foundation to eaves. Add the four figures to get the number of square feet to be covered.

If there are gable ends, take the length of the gable and multiply this by one-half its height, measured from the eave line to the very top. Double this figure to get the area of the two gabled ends and add this to the wall area. Divide this total by the coverage per gallon to get the number of gallons you need.

Again, do not allow for windows unless they measure more than 100 square feet.

THE AREA of the sash and frame of a window is generally thirty - five feet. Multiply this figure by the number of windows to get the area that has to be covered with trim enamel. Divide this product by the coverage, and you'll know how much trim enamel to buy.

The amount of paint needed for eaves depends on their construction. Where plain eaves are to be painted the same color as the walls, measure the area of the eaves and multiply by 1½. Where they are to be painted a different color multiply by 2. With eaves that have rafters running through, measure the area and multiply by three. The same rule applies for eaves over brick or masonry walls.

To calculate paint necessary for gutters and downspouts, measure the front area and multiply by two.

Caution Should Be Key If Working On Roof

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

Every year we have the usual stories of fatalities and injuries which arise from amateurs attempting roof work on their houses. But it is difficult to resist the temptation to go up the ladder because of all house repairs, roof work and repairs are the most expensive.

Never stand upright on a roof! Never venture out on a wet roof, regardless of rubber-soled shoes or anything else!

The reasons for not standing or moving around on a roof in an upright position are plain common sense. A strong gust of wind, a dizzy spell or tripping, may send you to the ground.

When you are standing you have two points of contact with the roof. When you move around on hands and knees you have six points of contact and you are not affected by the wind as much; you cannot trip. A dizzy spell might cause you to collapse flat, but you would hardly slide off the roof when in that position unless the roof had more than average pitch.

In checking the causes of roof accidents, it appears that most of them come from standing and walking instead of crawling. Many accidents are caused by sudden movements, such as grabbing for a tool or piece of material which had started to slide off.

Not a few of the fatal accidents were caused by a wet roof, even when the victim had been in a prone position. And a fair percentage of them were caused by badly - placed or insecure ladders.

Of the ladder accidents, more than half were caused by excessive reaching, indulged in to save the trouble of getting down and replacing the ladder.

New Names Assigned 2 Township Precincts

The County Election Board announced today it has assigned new names to two Washington Township precincts to avoid possible confusion of voters.

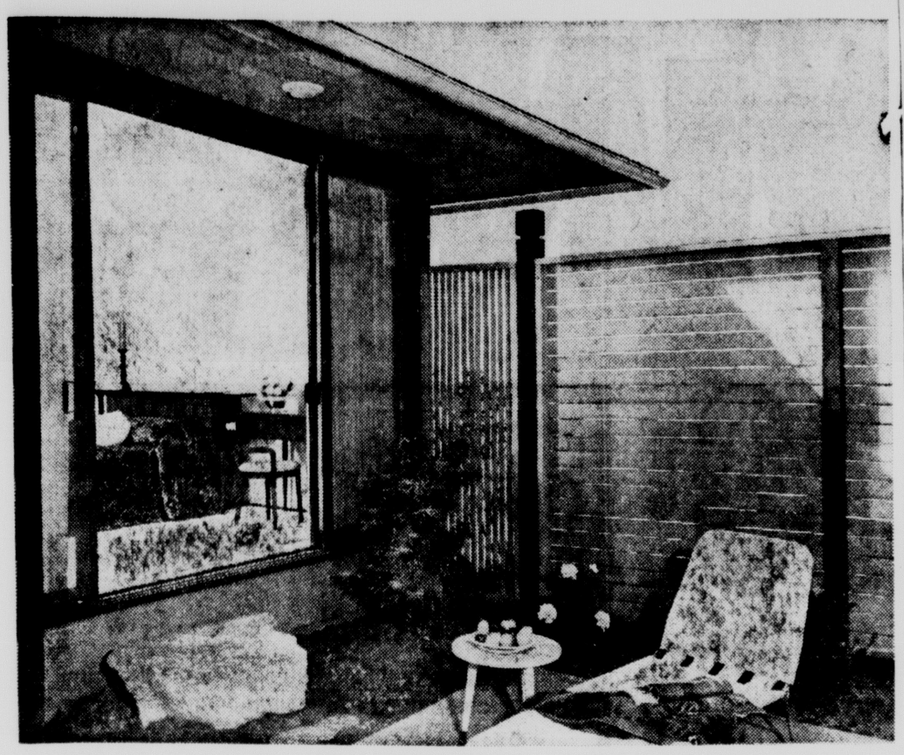

The two polling places originally were designated as Washington Township" and "Highlandtown" in the action last Thursday night in which the board created a second polling place. In the new designation, the Washington Township Precinct will be known as the West Precinct and the Highlandtown Precinct will be called the East Precinct.

Miss Rebecca Resnick, director of elections, said the board decided upon the new designations to avoid the possibility of confusing the voters. Prior to the change, all of Washington Township voted in one precinct.

Plan For Walled Garden

DESIGNING A MASTER SUITE? Add the luxury of a secluded, walled garden with a simple fence of 1x4-inch resawn cedar boards set horizontally between dark-stained, treated 4x4 posts. Tubbed greens and flowers are easily maintained, can change with season.

When parents discovered the practicality and enjoyment of having a suite separate from the children's rooms, they immediately set about improving on a good thing.

While a bedroom - bath combination suffices nicely, adding a den, walled patio, or maybe even a tiny kitchen corner is better yet.

What seems vital to one couple may hold little interest for another, of course, but most everyone agrees that expanding the plan to include a walled garden is a superb idea.

AGAIN there are many practical aspects to the walled patio. Enclosed by a tall but handsome fence, this area allows opening the bedroom walls with glass to expand space visually, as well as physically.

Further, it's pleasant to sun bathe in the relative seclusion of a bedroom patio and to be able to escape to a private outdoor sitting room when teen-agers have taken over the main yard for a barbecue party.

Often it's possible to arrange entrance to the patio from both bedroom and bath, with another entrance to the yard outside. If so, the plan lets the gardener - parents go directly from flower beds to the shower, without tracking up other areas of the house.

For the master suite garden, the wall needs to be solid enough to insure privacy but open enough to let the breezes through, and a plain board design works nicely. If the house siding style is a horizontal pattern — bevel, tongue - and-groove, or drop — make the wall horizontal, too, running western red cedar 1x4s between 4x4 cedar posts. A quarter inch spacing is left between boards.

A 2-BY-4 cap board finishes the horizontal board pattern crisply, and post tops may be extended above the cap board and cut decoratively for a touch of ornamentation.

The patio can be a simple pad of paving or decking centered within the enclosure, leaving a border all around for plantings. A few green shrubs with an ornamental tree or two can be used for the main plantings. Color is easily introduced and changed seasonally with tubbed annuals.

Summer Lull In Steel Ends

CLEVELAND (AP) — Six straight weeks of steel production decline have ended, and output has risen in the last two weeks, marking an end to the summer lull in the industry, Steel Magazine said today.

Estimated ingot tonnage last week was 2.54 million tons—up 86,000 tons from the preceding week and 127,000 tons from the week ended July 30, the weekly journal of metalworking said.

The automobile industry expects to set production records in September and October, Steel said, adding that this will come on top of present good demand from other steel-consuming industries.

Leadtime on wide carbon plates are shorter, in spite of active steel buying by the construction industry and freight car builders, Steel said. Mill deliveries take four to six weeks, compared to eight to ten weeks a few months ago.

"Demand is strong for galvanized sheets and aluminum-coated sheets and orders for them must be placed at least seven to eight weeks before the desired delivery date," Steel reported.

"Large sizes of merchant bars (particularly rounds three inches and over in diameter) are in strong demand for the production of shells for the defense department. Delivery dates extend into October and November.

Scrap steel prices were weak in most areas, Steel said, and the magazine's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting dropped 66 cents a gross ton last week to $30.17.

Food Prices Seen At Peak, Drop Of 1 To 2 Pct. Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department predicts that rising food prices reached their peak last month and will drop by 1 to 2 per cent by the end of the year.

"Prices received by farmers and wholesale prices of food products on the average are expected to decline during the last half of the year despite prospects for strong demand for certain products," the department said Sunday night.

It explained that lower prices would result from increases in food supplies after this summer and fall harvests. Foods in increased supply, it said, are expected to include meat, milk, potatoes, processed fruits and vegetables.

In the second quarter of this year, the department said, food prices were 5 per cent above those of the same period last year and 1 per cent above prices of the first quarter of 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff called on Congress today to hammer out a "clear, constructive strategy" for improving living conditions in the nation's cities.

The Connecticut Democrat said a Senate Government Operations subcommittee he heads is seeking answers to the violence and crime that he said has made women and children fear for their safety in big city streets.

"Our cities are in trouble," he said. "But we discovered long ago that our nation is indivisible; that the interests of one are the interests of all. Omaha, Neb., may be 1,200 miles from Harlem, but Harlem's riots affect the resident of Omaha as surely as the family in Scarsdale.

"And if a crisis is a national concern — and it is — then it is a concern to the Congress."

Ribicoff said one step will be to learn whether urban aid programs are too diffused and uncoordinated to guide the process of urban development.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Park Service has proposed a $5 million World Bridge over the Washington Channel that would be studded with 120 shops, stores, cafes, galleries and exhibit spaces.

Thief Takes 4 Chairs From East End Home

Four chairs were stolen Sunday night or early today from the lawn of an East End home, where the thief also broke a flowering crab apple tree, police were told.

The theft and vandalism was reported at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunsicker of 507 Wedgweood St. The incident took place between 9 p. m. Sunday and 7 this morning, officers said.

In a simitar incident in the same neighborhood, vandals destroyed a flower garden and fence at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Allison of 1534 Globe St. and stole an orange tree about 15 inches tall, leaving the pot behind, officers said. The incident was timed between 12:30 and 6 a. m. today.

"Demand is strong for galvanized sheets and aluminum-coated sheets and orders for them must be placed at least seven to eight weeks before the desired delivery date," Steel reported.

"Large sizes of merchant bars (particularly rounds three inches and over in diameter) are in strong demand for the production of shells for the defense department. Delivery dates extend into October and November.

Scrap steel prices were weak in most areas, Steel said, and the magazine's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting dropped 66 cents a gross ton last week to $30.17.

Food Prices Seen At Peak, Drop Of 1 To 2 Pct. Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department predicts that rising food prices reached their peak last month and will drop by 1 to 2 per cent by the end of the year.

"Prices received by farmers and wholesale prices of food products on the average are expected to decline during the last half of the year despite prospects for strong demand for certain products," the department said Sunday night.

It explained that lower prices would result from increases in food supplies after this summer and fall harvests. Foods in increased supply, it said, are expected to include meat, milk, potatoes, processed fruits and vegetables.

In the second quarter of this year, the department said, food prices were 5 per cent above those of the same period last year and 1 per cent above prices of the first quarter of 1966.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff called on Congress today to hammer out a "clear, constructive strategy" for improving living conditions in the nation's cities.

The Connecticut Democrat said a Senate Government Operations subcommittee he heads is seeking answers to the violence and crime that he said has made women and children fear for their safety in big city streets.

"Our cities are in trouble," he said. "But we discovered long ago that our nation is indivisible; that the interests of one are the interests of all. Omaha, Neb., may be 1,200 miles from Harlem, but Harlem's riots affect the resident of Omaha as surely as the family in Scarsdale.

"And if a crisis is a national concern — and it is — then it is a concern to the Congress."

Ribicoff said one step will be to learn whether urban aid programs are too diffused and uncoordinated to guide the process of urban development.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Park Service has proposed a $5 million World Bridge over the Washington Channel that would be studded with 120 shops, stores, cafes, galleries and exhibit spaces.

CAPITAL FOOTNOTES

U.S. servicemen overseas will get up to 10 per cent interest on savings deposited with the government under terms of a bill signed Sunday by President Johnson.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz says the big city poor — especially Negroes — are being hurt by a trend toward suburban construction of new business, industrial plants, hospitals and educational institutions.

Thief Takes 4 Chairs From East End Home

Four chairs were stolen Sunday night or early today from the lawn of an East End home, where the thief also broke a flowering crab apple tree, police were told.

The theft and vandalism was reported at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunsicker of 507 Wedgewood St. The incident took place between 9 p. m. Sunday and 7 this morning, officers said.

In a simitar incident in the same neighborhood, vandals destroyed a flower garden and fence at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Allison of 1534 Globe St. and stole an orange tree about 15 inches tall, leaving the pot behind, officers said. The incident was timed between 12:30 and 6 a. m. today.

Pension Benefits Listed

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you are a totally and permanently disabled veteran you may be entitled to a pension even though your disability is in no way connected with your military service.

To be eligible, you must have had 90 days of service in World War I or II or Korea. You're excused from the 90-day requirement if you were discharged because of disability.

Your discharge cannot have been dishonorable.

A VETERAN with no dependents is not eligible if his income is greater than $1,800 a year. A veteran with dependents loses his eligibility if his income exceeds $3,000 a year.

Under the current system, the less income the veteran has, the more pension he will draw.

Income not in excess of $600 per year, $100 per month; income between $600 and $1,200 per year, $75; income between $1,200 and $1,800 per year, $43; over $1,800 per year, nothing.

A veteran with dependents may receive: Income not in excess of $1,000 per year and 1 dependent $105, 2 dependents $110 and 3 dependents or more $115; income between $1,000 and $2,000 per year, any number of dependents, $80; income between $2,000 and $3,000 per year, any number of dependents, $48, and more than $3,000 per year, nothing.

The Veterans Administration says that each case "will be judged on its individual merits and consideration (will be) given to the type of property owned by the veteran, the amount of his income, the number of his dependents, his age and state of health."

Veterans disabled by injury or disease in line of duty while on active service are eligible for monthly compensation payments.

You are also eligible if an old disability was aggravated by active service.

VETERANS OF the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, Korea and Viet Nam receive the top rate of compensation. This ranges from $21 a month to a maximum of about $680 a month, the amount determined by the type and extent of disability.

Disabled veterans with only peacetime service are eligible for compensation, but their rate is usually 20 per cent less.

However, if the disability of a peacetime veteran resulted from extra - hazardous service —such as simulated warfare— the veteran or six-month enlistee in the reserves may be entitled to the wartime rate of compensation.

Generally a chronic disease afflicting a Spanish - American War, World War I or II, Korea or Viet Nam veteran may be presumed to be service - connected for disability compensation if it has caused the veteran 10 per cent or more disability within one year after he leaves active duty.

In addition to compensation paid the disabled veteran, allowances for wife, minor children and dependent parents sometimes are available.

Application for disability compensation and more detailed information may be obtained at any VA office.

Legislator Cites 'Big Profit Gains' By Milk Dealers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Milk dealers in the Pittsburgh district are reaping a "fabulous profit gain," says state Rep. P. Otto. He says there is no need for dealers to hike prices.

The Penn Hills Republican said Sunday a report compiled by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission shows that 36 selected milk dealers in the Pittsburgh marketing area doubled their profits from 1962 to 1965.

He said profits went up from $878,000 to $1,758,000 during the period, while at the same time sales increased only 1 per cent.

"In view of this fabulous profit gain by the area milk dealers during the last three years, there is no need for the milk commission to act as Santa Claus by granting higher minimum prices at this time," Otto declared. "In fact, the present minimum milk prices should be changed to the maximum price permitted until the 1966 dealer profit picture can be analyzed."

The furor over milk prices flared anew in Western Pennsylvania last week after some dealers hiked prices two to three cents a quart.

Some of the dealers temporarily rescinded the increases after Pittsburgh officials and state lawmakers asked the dealers to hold the price line until the commission holds public hearings.

Hearings will be held in Pittsburgh Friday and the following Tuesday. Another will be held in Erie.

Automobile travel in the United States reached about 880 billion vehicle miles in 1965, an increase of more than five per cent over 1964.

Her mother, Mrs. Gladys Hetick, told police she last saw her daughter, Tuesday when Miss Reigard went to meet an unknown date.

Police said a rag was knotted around the neck of the body and the throat was cut. They said she had not been molested sexually.

Miss Reigard had worked off and on as a "go-go" dancer in suburban Pittsburgh night spots the last eight months, police said.

Several Are Injured As Grandstand Falls

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — The auto thrill show went on afterward, but the daredevil maneuvers must have seemed tame compared to the unexpected—and unwanted—excitement that interrupted it.

Four persons were hospitalized and more were due back for X rays today as the result of last night's collapse of a section of grandstand at the Mercer County Fair.

A box seat section came crashing down some 10-15 feet, giving way under the weight of about 50 people among the capacity crowd watching an auto thrill show.

No critical injuries were reported.

Columbus Youth Slain In Pursuit By Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus youth, slain by police gunfire early Sunday, had reached into his coat pocket while being pursued on foot for suspected auto theft, the officers involved in the case said.

Police said that a .22-caliber pistol was found in the pocket of the victim, John Frank McCauley, 16, who died a short distance frm his home.

It was loaded with blanks, they added.

Ballistics tests were being made to determine whether the fatal shot was fired by Patrolman Kenneth Fleischer or his auxiliary, Thomas Blevins.

Horse-Pitality

With a knight mounted on his back, the horse on duty meets customers near the gateway and escorts them to the door of the restaurant.

Pension Benefits Listed

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If you are a totally and permanently disabled veteran you may be entitled to a pension even though your disability is in no way connected with your military service.

To be eligible, you must have had 90 days of service in World War I or II or Korea. You're excused from the 90-day requirement if you were discharged because of disability.

Your discharge cannot have been dishonorable.

A VETERAN with no dependents is not eligible if his income is greater than $1,800 a year. A veteran with dependents loses his eligibility if his income exceeds $3,000 a year.

Under the current system, the less income the veteran has, the more pension he will draw.

Income not in excess of $600 per year, $100 per month; income between $600 and $1,200 per year, $75; income between $1,200 and $1,800 per year, $43; over $1,800 per year, nothing.

A veteran with dependents may receive: Income not in excess of $1,000 per year and 1 dependent $105, 2 dependents $110 and 3 dependents or more $115; income between $1,000 and $2,000 per year, any number of dependents, $80; income between $2,000 and $3,000 per year, any number of dependents, $48, and more than $3,000 per year, nothing.

The Veterans Administration says that each case "will be judged on its individual merits and consideration (will be) given to the type of property owned by the veteran, the amount of his income, the number of his dependents, his age and state of health."

Veterans disabled by injury or disease in line of duty while on active service are eligible for monthly compensation payments.

You are also eligible if an old disability was aggravated by active service.

VETERANS OF the Spanish-American War, World Wars I and II, Korea and Viet Nam receive the top rate of compensation. This ranges from $21 a month to a maximum of about $680 a month, the amount determined by the type and extent of disability.

Disabled veterans with only peacetime service are eligible for compensation, but their rate is usually 20 per cent less.

However, if the disability of a peacetime veteran resulted from extra - hazardous service —such as simulated warfare— the veteran or six-month enlistee in the reserves may be entitled to the wartime rate of compensation.

Generally a chronic disease afflicting a Spanish - American War, World War I or II, Korea or Viet Nam veteran may be presumed to be service - connected for disability compensation if it has caused the veteran 10 per cent or more disability within one year after he leaves active duty.

In addition to compensation paid the disabled veteran, allowances for wife, minor children and dependent parents sometimes are available.

Application for disability compensation and more detailed information may be obtained at any VA office.

Legislator Cites 'Big Profit Gains' By Milk Dealers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Milk dealers in the Pittsburgh district are reaping a "fabulous profit gain," says state Rep. P. Otto. He says there is no need for dealers to hike prices.

The Penn Hills Republican said Sunday a report compiled by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission shows that 36 selected milk dealers in the Pittsburgh marketing area doubled their profits from 1962 to 1965.

He said profits went up from $878,000 to $1,758,000 during the period, while at the same time sales increased only 1 per cent.

"In view of this fabulous profit gain by the area milk dealers during the last three years, there is no need for the milk commission to act as Santa Claus by granting higher minimum prices at this time," Otto declared. "In fact, the present minimum milk prices should be changed to the maximum price permitted until the 1966 dealer profit picture can be analyzed."

The furor over milk prices flared anew in Western Pennsylvania last week after some dealers hiked prices two to three cents a quart.

Some of the dealers temporarily rescinded the increases after Pittsburgh officials and state lawmakers asked the dealers to hold the price line until the commission holds public hearings.

Hearings will be held in Pittsburgh Friday and the following Tuesday. Another will be held in Erie.

Automobile travel in the United States reached about 880 billion vehicle miles in 1965, an increase of more than five per cent over 1964.

Several Are Injured As Grandstand Falls

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — The auto thrill show went on afterward, but the daredevil maneuvers must have seemed tame compared to the unexpected—and unwanted—excitement that interrupted it.

Four persons were hospitalized and more were due back for X rays today as the result of last night's collapse of a section of grandstand at the Mercer County Fair.

A box seat section came crashing down some 10-15 feet, giving way under the weight of about 50 people among the capacity crowd watching an auto thrill show.

No critical injuries were reported.

Columbus Youth Slain In Pursuit By Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus youth, slain by police gunfire early Sunday, had reached into his coat pocket while being pursued on foot for suspected auto theft, the officers involved in the case said.

Police said that a .22-caliber pistol was found in the pocket of the victim, John Frank McCauley, 16, who died a short distance frm his home.

It was loaded with blanks, they added.

Ballistics tests were being made to determine whether the fatal shot was fired by Patrolman Kenneth Fleischer or his auxiliary, Thomas Blevins.

Mota's 9th-Inning Clout Gives Bucs 'Rubber Match'

THE REAL HERO of the Pirate-Reds game Sunday was Manny Mota whom is shown scoring after walloping a two-run homer sending Gene Alley (14) home in front of him. Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 4-2, to hold a lead of 1½ games in the National League. (UPI Telephoto)

Mays 2 Belts Away From 2nd Spot

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays may be only two trips to the plate away from becoming the second greatest home run hitter of all time, but Manny Mota is closer to 200 trips away from becoming the top hitter in the National League this season.

Mays hit the 533rd homer of his brilliant career Sunday in the first game of San Francisco's 5-2, 5-3 sweep of Houston.

Mota increased his average to .360, best in the league, by rapping three hits, including a two-run homer in the ninth inning that pushed first-place Pittsburgh past Cincinnati 4-2. But Mota has virtually no chance of winning the batting title because he lags far behind in times at bat.

Mays' homer placed him one away from tying Jimmy Foxx's 534 and two away from trailing only Babe Ruth on the all-time list. Willie, however, wasn't saying much about the impending historical occasion.

"Don't ask me that," he replied to a question about No. 534. "Why is it every time I get close to something, you guys come around and ask me that?"

The only question Mota is asked these days is how does he feel about not having a chance to win the batting title despite his lofty average.

"It doesn't bother me at all," he replies. "We play to win the pennant. You can't play as individuals."

The reason Mota has only 236 at-bats is that he shares center field with Matt Alou. Alou, however, has 375 at-bats and almost certainly will reach the 502 total plate appearances needed to qualify for the title. Alou currently leads the league with a .344 mark.

Mota's problem is that even if he plays every inning of the Pirates' remaining 46 games, he almost certainly will not reach 502.

Despite Mays' reluctance to talk about 534, he'll certainly reach it.

In other NL games, Los Angeles edged Chicago 4-3 in 14 innings, then lost 12-10 in 10, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 7-1 and New York downed St. Louis 5-4 before losing 4-3.

In the American League, Baltimore whipped Washington 6-0, Boston swept Detroit 8-5 and 5-3, New York took Cleveland 7-3 and 6-4, Chicago and California traded 4-0 decisions and Kansas City swept Minnesota 5-0 and 4-3.

Mota doubled in the Pirates' first run, then snapped a 2-2 tie with his ninth-inning homer. Art Shamsky had sent the Reds ahead 2-1 in the seventh when he hit his fourth homer, a two-run blast, in four consecutive times at bat, tying a major league record.

Mays' homer, his 28th of the season, triggered the Giants to their first-game victory. Bob Bolin and Tom Haller also homered for the Giants, and Bolin pitched a five-hitter.

Len Gabrielson's three-run double in the seventh inning broke a 2-2 deadlock in the second game. Houston's Claude Raymond was the victim of the winning attack.

The Dodgers and Cubs battled to a draw in a marathon doubleheader, the opener taking 4:27 and the second game 3:38. The Dodgers won the first game on Wes Covington's two-run single in the 14th. The Cubs had gone ahead 3-2 in the top of the inning with the help of pitcher Bob Miller's error.

Chicago lost an 8-2 nightcap lead but pulled it out in the 10th, scoring two runs on Ron Santo's sacrifice fly and Phil Regan's wild pitch. Jim Lefebvre, who hit a two-run homer for Los Angeles in the opener, rapped three singles and a double in a losing cause.

Atlanta's Denny Lemaster stopped Philadelphia on five hits while striking out 14. Lemaster also contributed a run-scoring triple to an attack that featured home runs by Hank Aaron, Joe Torre and Rico Carty. Rich Allen connected for the Phillies' run.

Ron Swoboda brought New York the first-game decision with a two-run single in the seventh inning. The hit snapped a 3-3 tie. Mike Shannon hit a two-run Cardinal homer.

St. Louis struck back in the nightcap, winning with a two-out, three-run rally in the ninth. Shannon tied the game 3-3 with a two-run single, and Charlie Smith followed with a game-winning single.

Coates Back On 4-0 Win; Tribe Drops 2

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox convinced Jim Coates he was a major league pitcher seven years ago.

They proved it again Sunday — the hard way.

Coates, rescued from the minors last week by the California Angels, beat Chicago 4-0 with a brilliant four-hitter in his first appearance of the season and first major league start in three years.

In 1959, when Coates broke in with the New York Yankees, the White Sox were the victims in the first pivotal victory of his stormy career. "I knew I could pitch in the big leagues after that one," he recalls. "I gave them only three hits, all singles, and we beat Early Wynn 3-1."

Coates won 15 of his first 16 big league decisions in 1959-60 but began to slip the following year and eventually was traded to Washington. He drifted to Cincinnati, then to the Angels, who sent him to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last spring.

There, he won 11 games and was involved in one of baseball's wildest brawls. On May 11 he hit Vancouver's Richardo Joseph with a pitch and the ensuing free-for-all resulted in serious injury to Seattle catcher Merritt Ranew and the suspension of Vancouver pitcher Rosario Santiago.

The next day, Joseph encountered Coates in a hotel lobby and punched him in the face, breaking four teeth.

Coates would like to forget the incidents. He is determined to start a new career in the majors. "I'm back again, and I'm going to stay as long as I can," he said.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, Kansas City, New York and Boston swept doubleheaders while Baltimore blanked Washington 6-0 in a single game. The Athletics trimmed Minnesota 5-0 and 4-3; the Yankees beat Cleveland 7-3 and 6-4, and the Red Sox upended Detroit 8-5 and 5-3.

In National League play, Pittsburgh topped Cincinnati 4-2, San Francisco swept Houston 5-2 and 5-3, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 7-1, St. Louis beat New York 4-3 after bowing 5-4 and Chicago outlasted Los Angeles 12-10 in 10 innings after the Dodgers won the 14-inning opener 4-3.

Coates held the White Sox hitless until the fifth and never was in serious trouble in launching his comeback bid.

"He pitched like a man who wants to stay in the majors," marveled Chicago pilot Eddie Stanky. "I hate to see that kind of performance against my team but I have to admire the man. More power to him."

Rookie Jay Johnstone collected three hits and scored three runs, pacing the Angels' attack.

In the first game, Peters retired 21 straight hitters in one stretch while breezing to his 10th victory. Tommie Agee provided the offensive spark with a two-run homer in the sixth.

Jim Nash, Kansas City's unbeaten rookie, scattered three hits before being replaced by Jack Aker in the ninth and won his seventh in a row since coming up from the minors last month as the A's ended a four-game losing string in the opener at Minnesota.

Phil Roof's two-run single climaxed a three-run rally in the seventh inning that pulled the A's from behind in the second game.

The Yankees capitalized on six Cleveland errors — all in the fourth inning — for four unearned runs and the nightcap victory after taking the first game behind Dooley Womack's one-hit relief pitching over the last five innings.

Tony Conigliaro socked a three-run homer, then singled and scored the deciding run as Boston completed its sweep behind right-hander Lee Stange. Homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Don Demeter paced the Red Sox in the opener.

The Orioles increased their league lead to 13½ games over Detroit as Frank Robinson hit a pair of homers — his 35th and 36th. Boog Powell and pitcher Eddie Watt also homered, and Watt allowed only two hits before giving way to Gene Brabender in the ninth.

Torres, Cotton Battle For Title

The 30-year-old Torres can demolish an opponent with either hand, is a notorious body punisher, and remains a solid 7-2 favorite over the skilled Cotton, who at 40 is the oldest ranked fighter in the ring today.

The match will be home-televised around the country by Sports Network, Inc., starting at 10 p.m. EDT from the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Frank Robinson, Orioles, drove in three runs with a pair of homers — his 35th and 36th of the season — and a sacrifice fly in a 6-0 victory over Washington.

PITCHING — Denny Lemaster, Braves, scattered five hits and struck out 14 — one short of the club record — in beating Philadelphia 7-1.

WHEN ART SHAMSKY rounded third and touched the hand of coach Vern Benson in the seventh inning he seemed destined to be the game's hero as the Reds took a 2-1 lead over the Pirates but Manny Mota won it for the Bucs with a two run homer in the ninth. (UPI Telephoto)

Ernie Ladd, defensive lineman for the Houston Oilers, lost 18 pounds the first day of training this summer. He went to camp at 323 pounds.

Rudolph Is Long Between Pay Days

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Just when Mason Rudolph was going to pot, Pott came to him and it paid off to the tune of $20,000.

That was the amount Rudolph pocketed Sunday by winning the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic, the first tournament victory in two years for the soft-spoken 32-year-old pro from Clarksville, Tenn.

"Last week at the Cleveland Open I missed the money for the first time in a long while," Rudolph said. "But Johnny Pott, who's just about my closest friend, spotted on the practice tee before the final round that I was bringing the club through with my hands way too far behind the ball."

The subsequent adjustment resulted in the largest paycheck since Rudolph turned pro in 1958 and his first triumph since the 1964 Greater New Orleans Open.

Rudolph outplayed defending champion Jack Nicklaus in a head-to-head duel down the nationally televised stretch run and finished with a three-under-par 69 for the day and a total of 278, 10 under for the four rounds. Nicklaus was a stroke back and won $12,000. He needs less than $10,000 to become the third golfer ever to win a half-million dollars. Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper are the others.

Billy Martindale, the 27-year-old Texan who led Rudolph, Nicklaus and Tommy Aaron by two shots after three rounds, faded to a 74 Sunday and finished third, three strokes behind Rudolph and one ahead of Aaron.

Gary Player of South Africa, bidding to regain his 1965 form, tied for seventh at 285. Arnold Palmer, plagued on-and-off by bursitis in his left shoulder, finished in a tie for 11th at 286 and Billy Casper, the U.S. Open Champ who led the Thunderbird after two rounds, tied for 17th at 287.

Pott, Rudolph's benefactor, tied for 25th at 289.

Nicklaus shot ahead by a stroke on the second hole but Rudolph caught him on the fifth. A three-foot putt gave Nicklaus an eagle on seven, which Rudolph birdied. They both birdied 11 and bogeyed 12.

"After the 11th we looked at each other and said it was just the two of us," Nicklaus said. "Then we proceeded to make a bogey."

They were tied again when Nicklaus took another bogey on 13. The turning point came on 15, where Rudolph drove a six-iron to the green and sank a 15-foot putt for a birdie.

"That was a big putt," Rudolph admitted. "It looked like 50 feet long. It was so long since I'd been ahead in a tournament I wasn't sure I could hold it. Jack helped me a little bit on 17, though, when he three-putted from 35 feet for a bogey. This was the first tournament I ever won where I had to come from behind in the final round."

Buckpasser Can Become First Millionaire At 3

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ogden Phipps' mighty colt will try for his ninth straight victory in the historic $75,000 Travers Stakes at Saratoga. If he makes it, and it's odds-on that he will, he will become the first 3-year-old millionaire in thoroughbred history.

Other feature races this weekend include the $50,000 Arlington Matron Handicap at Arlington Park, the $25,000 Philadelphia Turf Handicap at Atlantic City and the $15,000 Bing Crosby Handicap at Del Mar.

Nominees for the Arlington Matron include Swoonalong, Margarethen and Summer Scandal. The latter two, however, may stay at Atlantic City, where Margarethen won the Margate Handicap last Saturday and Summer Scandal was disqualified from fourth to last for losing a lead pad in the stretch.

Zapata, who made it three in a row at Atlantic City last Wednesday, is considered a sure starter in the Philadelphia Turf Handicap. Assagai, winner of the Long Branch at Monmouth, the Tidal Handicap at Aqueduct and the Bernard Baruch at Saratoga in his last three outings, is another top candidate for the Philadelphia along with Portsmouth.

Lady Pitt finished first in the Alabama Stakes at Saratoga, last Saturday but was disqualified to second with Natashka being declared the winner.

Mota's 9th-Inning Clout Gives Bucs 'Rubber Match'

Mays 2 Belts Away From 2nd Spot

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays may be only two trips to the plate away from becoming the second greatest home run hitter of all time, but Manny Mota is closer to 200 trips away from becoming the top hitter in the National League this season.

Mays hit the 533rd homer of his brilliant career Sunday in the first game of San Francisco's 5-2, 5-3 sweep of Houston.

Mota increased his average to .360, best in the league, by rapping three hits, including a two-run homer in the ninth inning that pushed first-place Pittsburgh past Cincinnati 4-2. But Mota has virtually no chance of winning the batting title because he lags far behind in times at bat.

Mays' homer placed him one away from tying Jimmy Foxx's 534 and two away from trailing only Babe Ruth on the all-time list. Willie, however, wasn't saying much about the impending historical occasion.

"Don't ask me that," he replied to a question about No. 534. "Why is it every time I get close to something, you guys come around and ask me that?"

"It doesn't bother me at all," he replies. "We play to win the pennant. You can't play as individuals."

The reason Mota has only 236 at-bats is that he shares center field with Matt Alou. Alou, however, has 375 at-bats and almost certainly will reach the 502 total plate appearances needed to qualify for the title. Alou currently leads the league with a .344 mark.

Mota's problem is that even if he plays every inning of the Pirates' remaining 46 games, he almost certainly will not reach 502.

Despite Mays' reluctance to talk about 534, he'll certainly reach it.

In other NL games, Los Angeles edged Chicago 4-3 in 14 innings, then lost 12-10 in 10, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 7-1 and New York downed St. Louis 5-4 before losing 4-3.

In the American League, Baltimore whipped Washington 6-0, Boston swept Detroit 8-5 and 5-3, New York took Cleveland 7-3 and 6-4, Chicago and California traded 4-0 decisions and Kansas City swept Minnesota 5-0 and 4-3.

Mota doubled in the Pirates' first run, then snapped a 2-2 tie with his ninth-inning homer. Art Shamsky had sent the Reds ahead 2-1 in the seventh when he hit his fourth homer, a two-run blast, in four consecutive times at bat, tying a major league record.

Mays' homer, his 28th of the season, triggered the Giants to their first-game victory. Bob Bolin and Tom Haller also homered for the Giants, and Bolin pitched a five-hitter.

Len Gabrielson's three-run double in the seventh inning broke a 2-2 deadlock in the second game. Houston's Claude Raymond was the victim of the winning attack.

The Dodgers and Cubs battled to a draw in a marathon doubleheader, the opener taking 4:27 and the second game 3:38. The Dodgers won the first game on Wes Covington's two-run single in the 14th. The Cubs had gone ahead 3-2 in the top of the inning with the help of pitcher Bob Miller's error.

Chicago lost an 8-2 nightcap lead but pulled it out in the 10th, scoring two runs on Ron Santo's sacrifice fly and Phil Regan's wild pitch. Jim Lefebvre, who hit a two-run homer for Los Angeles in the opener, rapped three singles and a double in a losing cause.

Atlanta's Denny Lemaster stopped Philadelphia on five hits while striking out 14. Lemaster also contributed a run-scoring triple to an attack that featured home runs by Hank Aaron, Joe Torre and Rico Carty. Rich Allen connected for the Phillies' run.

Ron Swoboda brought New York the first-game decision with a two-run single in the seventh inning. The hit snapped a 3-3 tie. Mike Shannon hit a two-run Cardinal homer.

St. Louis struck back in the nightcap, winning with a two-out, three-run rally in the ninth. Shannon tied the game 3-3 with a two-run single, and Charlie Smith followed with a game-winning single.

WHEN ART SHAMSKY rounded third and touched the hand of coach Vern Benson in the seventh inning he seemed destined to be the game's hero as the Reds took a 2-1 lead over the Pirates but Manny Mota won it for the Bucs with a two run homer in the ninth. (UPI Telephoto)

Coates Back On 4-0 Win; Tribe Drops 2

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox convinced Jim Coates he was a major league pitcher seven years ago.

They proved it again Sunday — the hard way.

Coates, rescued from the minors last week by the California Angels, beat Chicago 4-0 with a brilliant four-hitter in his first appearance of the season and first major league start in three years.

In 1959, when Coates broke in with the New York Yankees, the White Sox were the victims in the first pivotal victory of his stormy career. "I knew I could pitch in the big leagues after that one," he recalls. "I gave them only three hits, all singles, and we beat Early Wynn 3-1."

Coates won 15 of his first 16 big league decisions in 1959-60 but began to slip the following year and eventually was traded to Washington. He drifted to Cincinnati, then to the Angels, who sent him to Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last spring.

There, he won 11 games and was involved in one of baseball's wildest brawls. On May 11 he hit Vancouver's Richardo Joseph with a pitch and the ensuing free-for-all resulted in serious injury to Seattle catcher Merritt Ranew and the suspension of Vancouver pitcher Rosario Santiago.

The next day, Joseph encountered Coates in a hotel lobby and punched him in the face, breaking four teeth.

Coates would like to forget the incidents. He is determined to start a new career in the majors. "I'm back again, and I'm going to stay as long as I can," he said.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, Kansas City, New York and Boston swept doubleheaders while Baltimore blanked Washington 6-0 in a single game. The Athletics trimmed Minnesota 5-0 and 4-3; the Yankees beat Cleveland 7-3 and 6-4, and the Red Sox upended Detroit 8-5 and 5-3.

In National League play, Pittsburgh topped Cincinnati 4-2, San Francisco swept Houston 5-2 and 5-3, Atlanta whipped Philadelphia 7-1, St. Louis beat New York 4-3 after bowing 5-4 and Chicago outlasted Los Angeles 12-10 in 10 innings after the Dodgers won the 14-inning opener 4-3.

Coates held the White Sox hitless until the fifth and never was in serious trouble in launching his comeback bid.

"He pitched like a man who wants to stay in the majors," marveled Chicago pilot Eddie Stanky. "I hate to see that kind of performance against my team but I have to admire the man. More power to him."

Rookie Jay Johnstone collected three hits and scored three runs, pacing the Angels' attack.

In the first game, Peters retired 21 straight hitters in one stretch while breezing to his 10th victory. Tommie Agee provided the offensive spark with a two-run homer in the sixth.

Jim Nash, Kansas City's unbeaten rookie, scattered three hits before being replaced by Jack Aker in the ninth and won his seventh in a row since coming up from the minors last month as the A's ended a four-game losing string in the opener at Minnesota.

Phil Roof's two-run single climaxed a three-run rally in the seventh inning that pulled the A's from behind in the second game.

The Yankees capitalized on six Cleveland errors — all in the fourth inning — for four unearned runs and the nightcap victory after taking the first game behind Dooley Womack's one-hit relief pitching over the last five innings.

Tony Conigliaro socked a three-run homer, then singled and scored the deciding run as Boston completed its sweep behind right-hander Lee Stange. Homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Don Demeter paced the Red Sox in the opener.

The Orioles increased their league lead to 13½ games over Detroit as Frank Robinson hit a pair of homers — his 35th and 36th. Boog Powell and pitcher Eddie Watt also homered, and Watt allowed only two hits before giving way to Gene Brabender in the ninth.

Torres, Cotton Battle For Title

The 30-year-old Torres can demolish an opponent with either hand, is a notorious body punisher, and remains a solid 7-2 favorite over the skilled Cotton, who at 40 is the oldest ranked fighter in the ring today.

The match will be home-televised around the country by Sports Network, Inc., starting at 10 p.m. EDT from the Las Vegas Convention Center.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Frank Robinson, Orioles, drove in three runs with a pair of homers — his 35th and 36th of the season — and a sacrifice fly in a 6-0 victory over Washington.

PITCHING — Denny Lemaster, Braves, scattered five hits and struck out 14 — one short of the club record — in beating Philadelphia 7-1.

Rudolph Is Long Between Pay Days

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP) — Just when Mason Rudolph was going to pot, Pott came to him and it paid off to the tune of $20,000.

That was the amount Rudolph pocketed Sunday by winning the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic, the first tournament victory in two years for the soft-spoken 32-year-old pro from Clarksville, Tenn.

"Last week at the Cleveland Open I missed the money for the first time in a long while," Rudolph said. "But Johnny Pott, who's just about my closest friend, spotted on the practice tee before the final round that I was bringing the club through with my hands way too far behind the ball."

The subsequent adjustment resulted in the largest paycheck since Rudolph turned pro in 1958 and his first triumph since the 1964 Greater New Orleans Open.

Rudolph outplayed defending champion Jack Nicklaus in a head-to-head duel down the nationally televised stretch run and finished with a three-under-par 69 for the day and a total of 278, 10 under for the four rounds. Nicklaus was a stroke back and won $12,000. He needs less than $10,000 to become the third golfer ever to win a half-million dollars. Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper are the others.

Billy Martindale, the 27-year-old Texan who led Rudolph, Nicklaus and Tommy Aaron by two shots after three rounds, faded to a 74 Sunday and finished third, three strokes behind Rudolph and one ahead of Aaron.

Gary Player of South Africa, bidding to regain his 1965 form, tied for seventh at 285. Arnold Palmer, plagued on-and-off by bursitis in his left shoulder, finished in a tie for 11th at 286 and Billy Casper, the U.S. Open Champ who led the Thunderbird after two rounds, tied for 17th at 287.

Pott, Rudolph's benefactor, tied for 25th at 289.

Nicklaus shot ahead by a stroke on the second hole but Rudolph caught him on the fifth. A three-foot putt gave Nicklaus an eagle on seven, which Rudolph birdied. They both birdied 11 and bogeyed 12.

"After the 11th we looked at each other and said it was just the two of us," Nicklaus said. "Then we proceeded to make a bogey."

They were tied again when Nicklaus took another bogey on 13. The turning point came on 15, where Rudolph drove a six-iron to the green and sank a 15-foot putt for a birdie.

"That was a big putt," Rudolph admitted. "It looked like 50 feet long. It was so long since I'd been ahead in a tournament I wasn't sure I could hold it. Jack helped me a little bit on 17, though, when he three-putted from 35 feet for a bogey. This was the first tournament I ever won where I had to come from behind in the final round."

Namath Gives Jets Scare, But Knee Injury 'Minor'

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The metal brace that holds Joe Namath's right knee together works.

How well it works may have been fully established Saturday night under the worst of circumstances when the New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback was located underneath Don Floyd, Houston's 245-pound defensive end.

The action occured at Birmingham, Ala., one of Namath's stamping grounds when he was a collegian at Alabama. And a crowd of 57,205 — the largest in American Football League exhibition history — was on hand to watch last year's Rookie of the Year.

But Namath never survived the first quarter. He limped off after being hit by Floyd and will be lost to the Jets for two to three weeks, or until their final exhibition game a week before the regular season opens.

The brace, however, may have protected Namath's knee enough to avert a serious injury.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' team physician, called Namath's injury a minor strain behind the knee and said there was "no damage to the bony structure of the knee."

That was translated by a Jets' official to mean there was no cartilage or ligament damage, which would have been far more serious.

Mike Taliaferro took over at quarterback when Namath left, ran 10 yards for the Jets' only touchdown and in the fourth quarter twice moved them within field goal range. Jim Turner kicked a 38-yarder that broke a 10-10 tie, then added a 17-yarder.

In the only other AFL exhibition, Oakland defeated San Diego 14-7. In National League weekend action, Baltimore thumped Philadelphia 31-17, Minnesota crushed Pittsburgh 35-6, Dallas downed Los Angeles 20-10, New York edged Atlanta 14-7 and Cleveland whipped San Francisco 28-17.

The Raiders also won with a substitute quarterback as Tom Flores passed for two touchdowns including a 20-yarder to Art Powell with 54 seconds remaining. Flores took over for Cotton Davidson, who suffered a muscle spasm while recovering a fumble.

Johnny Unitas and his standin Garry Cuozzo, each passed for two Baltimore touchdowns. Unitas hit John Mackey with a 40-yarder and Butch Wilson with a 32-yarder. Cuozzo penetrated the Eagles' defense on a 21-yard flip to Jimmy Orr and a 30-yard heave to Willie Richardson.

Bob Berry, former Oregon quarterback, worked all the way for the Vikings in their game at Portland, Ore., and connected with Lance Rentzel and Jim Lindsey on touchdown passes covering 32 and 20 yards. Jim Marshall and John Kirby each ran back an interception for other Minnesota scores.

Don Meredith and fleet Bob Hayes collaborated on the big play for the Cowboys, a 63-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter that gave Dallas an insurmountable 14-3 lead. Meredith also passed 33 yards to Pete Gent for a touchdown.

Earl Morrall passed for both Giants' scores, a two-yarder to Joe Morrison and a four-yarder to Homer Jones. Ron Smith scored for the Falcons on a 68-yard run with an interception. It gave him two of the three touchdowns the new Atlanta club has scored in three games.

Cleveland rushed out to a 21-0 lead, then coasted in against the 49ers. San Francisco didn't get on the scoreboard until the last minute of the first half. Leroy Kelly returned a punt 87 yard for one Brown touchdown, and Walt Roberts set up another with a 42-yard return.

Texas Stars Jolt Penna. In '33 Tilt

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — "We planned from the start to throw the ball. When you can't run, you throw it."

This is how Bobby Layne, coach of the Texas High School All-Stars, summed up his team's 34-2 pasting of the Pennsylvania Big 33 Saturday night.

And the statistics bear him out.

Texas gained only 34 yards rushing in this third encounter between the two squads. But the Longhorns rolled up 414 yards in completing 19 of 42 passes, four of them good for touchdowns.

Texas thus holds a one-game edge in the series which began in 1964. The Lone Star defense also came into its share of plaudits.

"We got outcharged. The Texas blitz shattered our offense so badly that we just never got started," Pennsylvania coach Bill Murray said.

Layne, a former National Football League star quarterback, said Texas had not been able to move on the ground against Pennsylvania in the last two years. So he decided to take to the air.

Quarterbacks Joe Norwood and James Street connected on two TD passes each and Norwood scored on a two - yard plunge. Their favorite target was Don Burrell who snagged eight passes for 260 yards and two scores.

The only time Pennsylvania came on the scoreboard was in the first period when Rich Saul of Butler caught Norwood behind his own end zone.

Stouffer Is New Indian Chief; Signs Long Lease

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vernon Stouffer, president and chief executive of Stouffer Foods Corp., is putting $5.5 million with a $2.5 million bank loan to purchase all the stock of Cleveland Indians Baseball Club.

He also intends to tear up a year-to-year contract with the city to lease the Cleveland stadium and sign one for 10 years.

Stouffer, 65, took over as head of the Indians Saturday. Sunday he spent most of his afternoon listening to the team lose a doubleheader to the New York Yankees.

Stouffer, a staunch civic leader who proudly says "I'm also president of the zoo," said, "maybe we can find some ball players there."

He said he would be willing to sign a 10-year lease "if the city goes through with its promise to spend the money needed to modernize the stadium."

Asked about the status of Birdie Tebbetts as manager of the Indians, Stouffer said: "I know he's not popular with the fans. It's up to Gabe (Gabe Paul, president and general manager). He's giving the matter a lot of study and I know he'll make the right move at the right time."

Paul was among those who sold their stock to Stouffer. He will be able to purchase 100 shares and add to his holdings later.

Stouffer says he is buying all stock, paying nearly $300 a share, and he intends to purchase all debentures at a cost of $2.5 million.

U.S. Has American Zone Net Finals Wrapped Up

By RICHARD H. SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — A pair of 6-foot-2 power hitters, Dennis Ralston and Clark Graebner, already had the Davis Cup Tennis American Zone championship wrapped up for the United States going into the last two singles matches today against Mexico.

In just 59 minutes between showers Sunday afternoon, the Ralston-Graebner partnership overpowered veteran Rafael Osuna and 5-foot-6, left-handed Joaquin Loyo-Mayo 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

The Mexicans needed a doubles triumph to stay alive for the final day because they lost both singles matches Saturday in the best-of-five-point championship.

But they couldn't cope with the hard-hitting U.S. pair, especially the big serve. Graebner yielded only three points in the six games of the match that he served, winning three of those at love.

Ralston served to open the match, and that first game was deuced three times before he won it. In the next five games he served, Ralston dropped only six points, and he aced Loyo-Mayo to end the 13-minute final set.

"We got to most of the shots, but we couldn't do anything when we got there," Osuna said.

The 27-year-old Mexican said the match was "one of the worst I ever played." His service was broken five times, including the first and fifth games of the last set. In volleying, usually his strongest weapon, Osuna erred on a number of easy shots.

"It's not all Rafe's fault," Ralston said of his former college roommate. "Loyo-Mayo isn't very big at the net — it's easy to lob over him. But Rafe was a little slower than he was yesterday."

The bespectacled, 22-year-old Graebner, a Northwestern University student from Beachwood, Ohio, won a five-set struggle with Loyo-Mayo on Saturday 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Each, somewhat nervously, was playing Davis Cup singles for the first time.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif. and the No. 1 U.S. amateur, defeated Osuna Saturday 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1.

The U.S. team's next Davis Cup round is against Brazil in October. One more round of play remains for the winner of that one to get to Australia to challenge possession of the cup Dec. 26.

Injuries Run High For U.S. In Ski Event

PORTILLO, Chile (AP) — The French-dominated World Ski Championships are over, and the end didn't come a moment too soon for the hard luck U.S. team.

Jean Claude Killy led France's six-medal romp by capturing the men's combined Alpine title, stamping him as the top skier in the world. Another Frenchman, Leo Lacroix, finished second in the combined standings with West Germany's Ludwig Leitner third.

America's troubles started even before official competition got under way. One of the top U.S. hopes, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., broke his leg in two places during downhill training, touching off a series of injuries.

Even the lone U.S. medal winner, Penny McCoy of Bishop, Calif., couldn't escape the injury hex. Miss McCoy hit a rut while training for the giant slalom and sprained her ankle so severly that she had to withdraw from the event.

East Kentucky Nips West Virginia Stars

WILLIAMSON (AP) — The eastern Kentucky High School All Stars scored with less than two minutes remaining Saturday to beat the southern West Virginia all-stars, 6-0, in a charity football game here.

Belfry High School's Bob Burgett hit Franklin County's Bill Barrett with a pass for the only score in the 10th annual contest sponsored by the Williamson Kiwanians.

Some 4,000 saw the game, which was Kentucky's second win in the series.

Namath Gives Jets Scare, But Knee Injury 'Minor'

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The metal brace that holds Joe Namath's right knee together works.

How well it works may have been fully established Saturday night under the worst of circumstances when the New York Jets' $400,000 quarterback was located underneath Don Floyd, Houston's 245-pound defensive end.

The action occured at Birmingham, Ala., one of Namath's stamping grounds when he was a collegian at Alabama. And a crowd of 57,205 — the largest in American Football League exhibition history — was on hand to watch last year's Rookie of the Year.

But Namath never survived the first quarter. He limped off after being hit by Floyd and will be lost to the Jets for two to three weeks, or until their final exhibition game a week before the regular season opens.

The brace, however, may have protected Namath's knee enough to avert a serious injury.

Dr. James A. Nicholas, the Jets' team physician, called Namath's injury a minor strain behind the knee and said there was "no damage to the bony structure of the knee."

That was translated by a Jets' official to mean there was no cartilage or ligament damage, which would have been far more serious.

Mike Taliaferro took over at quarterback when Namath left, ran 10 yards for the Jets' only touchdown and in the fourth quarter twice moved them within field goal range. Jim Turner kicked a 38-yarder that broke a 10-10 tie, then added a 17-yarder.

In the only other AFL exhibition, Oakland defeated San Diego 14-7. In National League weekend action, Baltimore thumped Philadelphia 31-17, Minnesota crushed Pittsburgh 35-6, Dallas downed Los Angeles 20-10, New York edged Atlanta 14-7 and Cleveland whipped San Francisco 28-17.

The Raiders also won with a substitute quarterback as Tom Flores passed for two touchdowns including a 20-yarder to Art Powell with 54 seconds remaining. Flores took over for Cotton Davidson, who suffered a muscle spasm while recovering a fumble.

Johnny Unitas and his standin Garry Cuozzo, each passed for two Baltimore touchdowns. Unitas hit John Mackey with a 40-yarder and Butch Wilson with a 32-yarder. Cuozzo penetrated the Eagles' defense on a 21-yard flip to Jimmy Orr and a 30-yard heave to Willie Richardson.

Bob Berry, former Oregon quarterback, worked all the way for the Vikings in their game at Portland, Ore., and connected with Lance Rentzel and Jim Lindsey on touchdown passes covering 32 and 20 yards. Jim Marshall and John Kirby each ran back an interception for other Minnesota scores.

Don Meredith and fleet Bob Hayes collaborated on the big play for the Cowboys, a 63-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter that gave Dallas an insurmountable 14-3 lead. Meredith also passed 33 yards to Pete Gent for a touchdown.

Earl Morrall passed for both Giants' scores, a two-yarder to Joe Morrison and a four-yarder to Homer Jones. Ron Smith scored for the Falcons on a 68-yard run with an interception. It gave him two of the three touchdowns the new Atlanta club has scored in three games.

Cleveland rushed out to a 21-0 lead, then coasted in against the 49ers. San Francisco didn't get on the scoreboard until the last minute of the first half. Leroy Kelly returned a punt 87 yard for one Brown touchdown, and Walt Roberts set up another with a 42-yard return.

Texas Stars Jolt Penna. In '33 Tilt

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — "We planned from the start to throw the ball. When you can't run, you throw it."

And the statistics bear him out.

Texas gained only 34 yards rushing in this third encounter between the two squads. But the Longhorns rolled up 414 yards in completing 19 of 42 passes, four of them good for touchdowns.

Texas thus holds a one-game edge in the series which began in 1964. The Lone Star defense also came into its share of plaudits.

"We got outcharged. The Texas blitz shattered our offense so badly that we just never got started," Pennsylvania coach Bill Murray said.

Layne, a former National Football League star quarterback, said Texas had not been able to move on the ground against Pennsylvania in the last two years. So he decided to take to the air.

Quarterbacks Joe Norwood and James Street connected on two TD passes each and Norwood scored on a two - yard plunge. Their favorite target was Don Burrell who snagged eight passes for 260 yards and two scores.

The only time Pennsylvania came on the scoreboard was in the first period when Rich Saul of Butler caught Norwood behind his own end zone.

Stouffer Is New Indian Chief; Signs Long Lease

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vernon Stouffer, president and chief executive of Stouffer Foods Corp., is putting $5.5 million with a $2.5 million bank loan to purchase all the stock of Cleveland Indians Baseball Club.

He also intends to tear up a year-to-year contract with the city to lease the Cleveland stadium and sign one for 10 years.

Stouffer, 65, took over as head of the Indians Saturday. Sunday he spent most of his afternoon listening to the team lose a doubleheader to the New York Yankees.

Stouffer, a staunch civic leader who proudly says "I'm also president of the zoo," said, "maybe we can find some ball players there."

He said he would be willing to sign a 10-year lease "if the city goes through with its promise to spend the money needed to modernize the stadium."

Asked about the status of Birdie Tebbetts as manager of the Indians, Stouffer said: "I know he's not popular with the fans. It's up to Gabe (Gabe Paul, president and general manager). He's giving the matter a lot of study and I know he'll make the right move at the right time."

Paul was among those who sold their stock to Stouffer. He will be able to purchase 100 shares and add to his holdings later.

Stouffer says he is buying all stock, paying nearly $300 a share, and he intends to purchase all debentures at a cost of $2.5 million.

U.S. Has American Zone Net Finals Wrapped Up

By RICHARD H. SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — A pair of 6-foot-2 power hitters, Dennis Ralston and Clark Graebner, already had the Davis Cup Tennis American Zone championship wrapped up for the United States going into the last two singles matches today against Mexico.

In just 59 minutes between showers Sunday afternoon, the Ralston-Graebner partnership overpowered veteran Rafael Osuna and 5-foot-6, left-handed Joaquin Loyo-Mayo 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

The Mexicans needed a doubles triumph to stay alive for the final day because they lost both singles matches Saturday in the best-of-five-point championship.

But they couldn't cope with the hard-hitting U.S. pair, especially the big serve. Graebner yielded only three points in the six games of the match that he served, winning three of those at love.

Ralston served to open the match, and that first game was deuced three times before he won it. In the next five games he served, Ralston dropped only six points, and he aced Loyo-Mayo to end the 13-minute final set.

"We got to most of the shots, but we couldn't do anything when we got there," Osuna said.

The 27-year-old Mexican said the match was "one of the worst I ever played." His service was broken five times, including the first and fifth games of the last set. In volleying, usually his strongest weapon, Osuna erred on a number of easy shots.

"It's not all Rafe's fault," Ralston said of his former college roommate. "Loyo-Mayo isn't very big at the net — it's easy to lob over him. But Rafe was a little slower than he was yesterday."

The bespectacled, 22-year-old Graebner, a Northwestern University student from Beachwood, Ohio, won a five-set struggle with Loyo-Mayo on Saturday 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Each, somewhat nervously, was playing Davis Cup singles for the first time.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif. and the No. 1 U.S. amateur, defeated Osuna Saturday 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1.

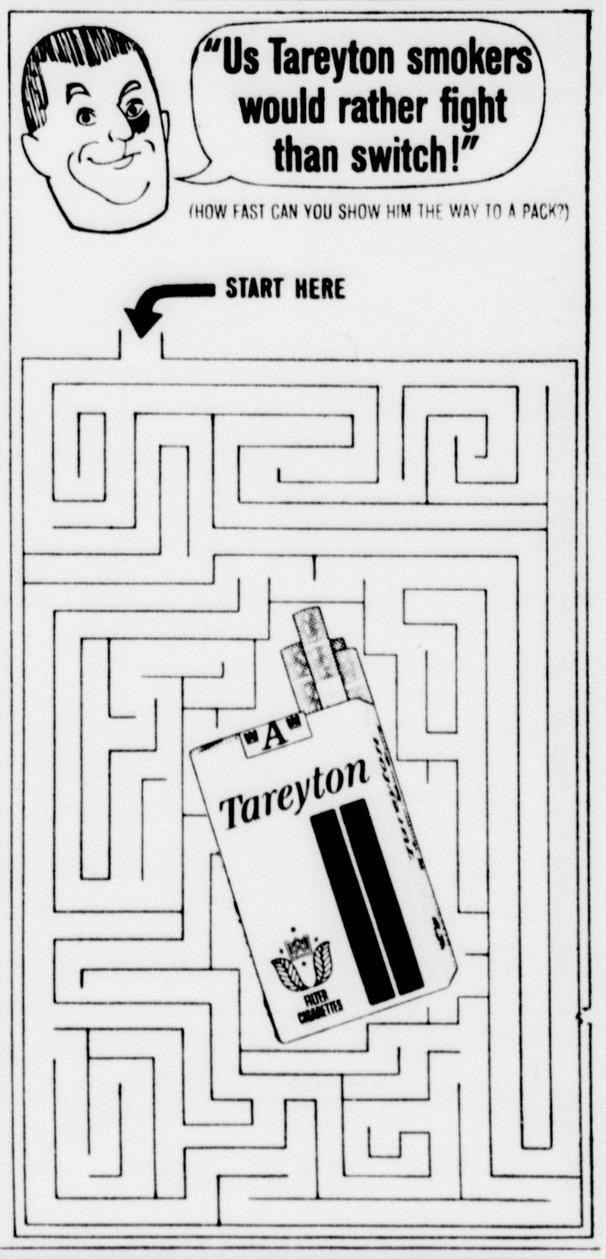

The U.S. team's next Davis Cup round is against Brazil in October. One more round of play remains for the winner of that one to get to Australia to challenge possession of the cup Dec. 26.

East Kentucky Nips West Virginia Stars

WILLIAMSON (AP) — The eastern Kentucky High School All Stars scored with less than two minutes remaining Saturday to beat the southern West Virginia all-stars, 6-0, in a charity football game here.

Belfry High School's Bob Burgett hit Franklin County's Bill Barrett with a pass for the only score in the 10th annual contest sponsored by the Williamson Kiwanians.

Some 4,000 saw the game, which was Kentucky's second win in the series.

Wins Cup Race

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Mira Slovak and the Tahoe Miss thundered to an easy victory Sunday in the ninth annual Diamond Cup unlimited hydroplane race on Lake Coeur d'Alene after wind and choppy water held up the start for three hours.

Injuries Run High For U.S. In Ski Event

PORTILLO, Chile (AP) — The French-dominated World Ski Championships are over, and the end didn't come a moment too soon for the hard luck U.S. team.

Jean Claude Killy led France's six-medal romp by capturing the men's combined Alpine title, stamping him as the top skier in the world. Another Frenchman, Leo Lacroix, finished second in the combined standings with West Germany's Ludwig Leitner third.

America's troubles started even before official competition got under way. One of the top U.S. hopes, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., broke his leg in two places during downhill training, touching off a series of injuries.

Even the lone U.S. medal winner, Penny McCoy of Bishop, Calif., couldn't escape the injury hex. Miss McCoy hit a rut while training for the giant slalom and sprained her ankle so severly that she had to withdraw from the event.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Writers In Watts

"I have sat and watched TV at a recreational hall in Watts with Negroes and found myself hoping they didn't know I was there. Everything offered on that TV screen shows a part of our well-being and underlines the contrast between our world of affluence and their world of deprivation," says novelist and screen writer Budd Schulberg, who has spent a good part of the past year teaching and encouraging young writers in Los Angeles' Negro ghetto of Watts.

Hal Humphrey

TUESDAY NIGHT Budd Schulberg, for an hour at least, can sit straight in his chair among his Negro acquaintances to watch an NBC special titled "The Angry Voices of Watts," a documentary account of the writing talents and untapped potential which Schulberg discovered in Watts.

"The Angry Voices of Watts" special will pre-empt "My Mother the Car" and "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," a couple of insipid creations which prove how necessary it is for Schulberg to be discovering new pools of writing talent.

When Schulberg first went to riot-torn Watts to set up his writing class in the "Watts Happening" coffee house, the reception was cool, to say the least. Even today Schulberg occasionally finds himself being challenged by a resentful Negro who wants to know what this white man is after.

TEACHER SCHULBERG also finds class absenteeism because of police arrest a time-consuming and often knotty problem. On the day one of his poets, an 18-year-old high school dropout, was to receive a class award he was arrested on suspicion of armed robbery.

"We found him and bailed him out two days later, and that afternoon at my home he wrote several poems," says Schulberg, "and told me the police actually had been very helpful to him because the inspiration for these poems came to him in jail.

"But two days later he was arrested again. This time I discovered several witnesses who placed him far from the scene of the crime, so I called the police lieutenant and told him.

"The lieutenant said he was very impressed with my boy's ability to get arrested, and I replied that I was more impressed with the lieutenant's talent for arresting him. It was a genuinely Kafka-like conversation," Schulberg recalls.

IT WAS the arrest of another of Schulberg's writing students that led to NBC's doing this program. Schulberg had testified in court for the boy, and NBC News executive Don Meaney saw the story in a New York newspaper.

He immediately called Stuart Schulberg, a brother of Budd's and an NBC producer-director posted in Washington, and chided Stuart for not suggesting a special on Budd's Watts story.

"It was funny," says Budd Schulberg, "because Stuart really had been biding his time and was nearly ready to suggest such a program to Meaney but a bit embarrassed for fear Meaney might object to the nepotism involved."

Stuart and his crew came to Watts a few weeks later to film "The Angry Voices of Watts," but now he never will know what might have happened if he had pitched the idea to Meaney before Meaney thought of it himself.

The nation's first underground school, the Abo School, was completed in April 1962 at Artesia, N.M.

Princess Becomes 16, 'Granny Look' Flayed

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, became 16 today and among her birthday presents was some advice on how to dress.

"It's not that she's expected to look like a Shrimp (model Jean Shrimpton) or a Bardot," wrote columnist Anne Edwards in the Sunday Express. "But she needn't look like a granny either."

"I know all the arguments in favor of royal dressing being dignified and restrained and I agree with them," Miss Edwards conceded.

"But I don't see why they have been applied to a jolly girl, who is 16, to the extent of making her wear clothes that would suit a woman of 40."

The age of 16 for a member of the royal family, who is fourth in line of succession to the throne, brings the first burdens of royal responsibility.

Another sign of approaching adulthood is that the princess has been given her own suite on the third floor of Buckingham Palace. It consists of bedroom, bathroom and study.

Already the match makers are getting busy.

A Stockholm newspaper said she was being considered as a future bride for Sweden's Prince Carl Gustav, 20. The Swedish royal palace quietly brushed it off.

Columnist Edwards said that judging by what the princess wears off duty — hipster slacks, eye-catching sweaters and sometimes a Beatles cap — she has the right idea of teen-age fashion.

But she added: "On formal occasions she wears stolid hats and motherly suits. The handbag she carries is more suited to a business woman of 50.

"My birthday wish for the princess is that whoever is advising her will let her have her head a little more. I wish they'd forget the matronly royal conventions."

Put away that old plastic shower curtain after it has been washed thoroughly. It might come in useful to substitute as a rubber sheet when company with very small children pay you a visit.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Writers In Watts

"I have sat and watched TV at a recreational hall in Watts with Negroes and found myself hoping they didn't know I was there. Everything offered on that TV screen shows a part of our well-being and underlines the contrast between our world of affluence and their world of deprivation," says novelist and screen writer Budd Schulberg, who has spent a good part of the past year teaching and encouraging young writers in Los Angeles' Negro ghetto of Watts.

TUESDAY NIGHT Budd Schulberg, for an hour at least, can sit straight in his chair among his Negro acquaintances to watch an NBC special titled "The Angry Voices of Watts," a documentary account of the writing talents and untapped potential which Schulberg discovered in Watts.

"The Angry Voices of Watts" special will pre-empt "My Mother the Car" and "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," a couple of insipid creations which prove how necessary it is for Schulberg to be discovering new pools of writing talent.

When Schulberg first went to riot-torn Watts to set up his writing class in the "Watts Happening" coffee house, the reception was cool, to say the least. Even today Schulberg occasionally finds himself being challenged by a resentful Negro who wants to know what this white man is after.

TEACHER SCHULBERG also finds class absenteeism because of police arrest a time-consuming and often knotty problem. On the day one of his poets, an 18-year-old high school dropout, was to receive a class award he was arrested on suspicion of armed robbery.

"We found him and bailed him out two days later, and that afternoon at my home he wrote several poems," says Schulberg, "and told me the police actually had been very helpful to him because the inspiration for these poems came to him in jail.

"But two days later he was arrested again. This time I discovered several witnesses who placed him far from the scene of the crime, so I called the police lieutenant and told him.

"The lieutenant said he was very impressed with my boy's ability to get arrested, and I replied that I was more impressed with the lieutenant's talent for arresting him. It was a genuinely Kafka-like conversation," Schulberg recalls.

IT WAS the arrest of another of Schulberg's writing students that led to NBC's doing this program. Schulberg had testified in court for the boy, and NBC News executive Don Meaney saw the story in a New York newspaper.

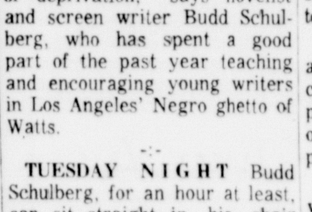

He immediately called Stuart Schulberg, a brother of Budd's and an NBC producer-director posted in Washington, and chided Stuart for not suggesting a special on Budd's Watts story.

"It was funny," says Budd Schulberg, "because Stuart really had been biding his time and was nearly ready to suggest such a program to Meaney but a bit embarrassed for fear Meaney might object to the nepotism involved."

Stuart and his crew came to Watts a few weeks later to film "The Angry Voices of Watts," but now he never will know what might have happened if he had pitched the idea to Meaney before Meaney thought of it himself.

The nation's first underground school, the Abo School, was completed in April 1962 at Artesia, N.M.

Princess Becomes 16, 'Granny Look' Flayed

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, became 16 today and among her birthday presents was some advice on how to dress.

"It's not that she's expected to look like a Shrimp (model Jean Shrimpton) or a Bardot," wrote columnist Anne Edwards in the Sunday Express. "But she needn't look like a granny either."

"I know all the arguments in favor of royal dressing being dignified and restrained and I agree with them," Miss Edwards conceded.

"But I don't see why they have been applied to a jolly girl, who is 16, to the extent of making her wear clothes that would suit a woman of 40."

The age of 16 for a member of the royal family, who is fourth in line of succession to the throne, brings the first burdens of royal responsibility.

The princess, who is in her third year at Benenden School in Kent, is anxiously awaiting results of her first major examinations.

Another sign of approaching adulthood is that the princess has been given her own suite on the third floor of Buckingham Palace. It consists of bedroom, bathroom and study.

Already the match makers are getting busy.

A Stockholm newspaper said she was being considered as a future bride for Sweden's Prince Carl Gustav, 20. The Swedish royal palace quietly brushed it off.

Columnist Edwards said that judging by what the princess wears off duty — hipster slacks, eye-catching sweaters and sometimes a Beatles cap — she has the right idea of teen-age fashion.

But she added: "On formal occasions she wears stolid hats and motherly suits. The handbag she carries is more suited to a business woman of 50.

"My birthday wish for the princess is that whoever is advising her will let her have her head a little more. I wish they'd forget the matronly royal conventions."

Put away that old plastic shower curtain after it has been washed thoroughly. It might come in useful to substitute as a rubber sheet when company with very small children pay you a visit.

A Junior Editors Quiz About FLYING SQUIRRELS

QUESTION: Can flying squirrels really fly?

ANSWER: When we speak of flying, we usually mean to move through the air either up, down or on the level and to be able to keep this up for a considerable time. By this definition, the flying squirrel does not fly. What he does is to glide, which means keep going downward from a higher spot to a lower one. A flying squirrel can suddenly and occasionally swoop upward as in the back of our picture, but in general he is tending down as he glides from tree to tree. As the picture shows, he does not have wings, but thin flaps of skin connecting hind limbs, with front ones and body. Flying squirrels live in trees, eating insects, nuts and fruit, and often nest in hollow trunks. We do not generally see them, because they are more active at night then during the day. They inhabit the eastern half of the U. S. as well as the northwest and western costal areas. Their gliding habits are very useful to them enabling them to shift feeding grounds and escape from various predators which might only be too glad to have flying squirrel for dinner.

FOR YOU TO DO: While walking near trees in the evening, keep your eyes open for flying squirrels. If you find a young one, try to raise it; it makes a wonderful pet.

FLYING SQUIRRELS

QUESTION: Can flying squirrels really fly?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: When we speak of flying, we usually mean to move through the air either up, down or on the level and to be able to keep this up for a considerable time. By this definition, the flying squirrel does not fly. What he does is to glide, which means keep going downward from a higher spot to a lower one. A flying squirrel can suddenly and occasionally swoop upward as in the back of our picture, but in general he is tending down as he glides from tree to tree. # New English Says What It Means

By The Associated Press

You haven't heard a lot thus far about the New English, but it's likely be as important in the long run, and possibly cause as much excitement, as the New Math.

There isn't much really new about either of these; they simply are new or revised methods of teaching basic subjects.

The New English is being developed at 20 universities across the land under the leadership of the Modern Language Association, of which Dr. John Hurt Fisher, New York University, is president.

At the curriculum development centers, teams of university scholars work with high school and elementary school teachers to prepare better teaching material. For one thing, they are trying to show students how to say and write what they mean, instead of using vague or inaccurate phrases.

"IT IS WELL to realize," says Dr. Fisher wryly, "that by today's usage St. Benedict might have been called a communist and George Washington an agitator."

Dr. Fisher goes on to explain how words have changed meanings in different eras and cultures.

What to Americans is a "college," in Britain is what Americans would call a technical school. If in Britain you refer to a student as being "in college," it usually means he failed to gain admission to a regular university.

The new program is also broad-minded when it comes to regional differences in grammar and dialect. Noting that there no longer is just one correct pronunciation and one correct grammar, Dr. Fisher states that "cultivated speakers from New England and the South speak an r-less dialect. Grammar and pronunciation that in Detroit and Chicago are considered the mark of an uneducated worker may be the accepted speech in Charleston or New Orleans."

LINGUISTICS, lexicology and semantics play a large part in drills and exercises for the students, so that in the new English, the term "language" means much more than the former parsing and diagramming of the former inflexible English.

When it comes to literature, the student spends 70 or 80 per cent of his classroom time in this area, rather than the 50 or 60 per cent previously spent.

To provide more challenging and more interesting written material for the student, the curriculum developers offer myths, legends, and good poetry to elementary school pupils. This line has been developed successfully at the University of Nebraska.

At the University of Oregon, the high school course presents a common body of literary knowledge, using works like the Iliad and the legends of King Arthur as a central focus around which to build.

Recognizing that literary masters hit at the very essence of living, developers at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh choose readings which emphasize such concerns as heroism, love, human frailties and the never-ending search for wisdom.

AWARE that in the past there has been very little practice in writing in the elementary and secondary school years, the new program requires a great deal of writing, growing out of the language and literature studies. The students turn to rhetorical writers and speakers such as Aristotle, Cicero and St. Augustine to see how classical rhetoric can be applied to English composition.

Dr. Fisher notes that the stimulus provided by grappling with vital issues raised in literature study gives students something to write about, where formerly they had nothing to say.

The word about the new English is spreading rapidly. A year ago, 4,800 teachers of English attended institutes sponsored by the National Defense Education Act. This summer, the number had swelled to 5,300. Samples of the new materials are used at these sessions.

Rushing The Season

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A group of summer session students at Richmond Professional Institute decided to do their Christmas celebrating a little early this year. Because most of the group would be leaving at summer's end for other schools or military duty, they had their Yuletide five months early, decorating a tree, exchanging gifts and eating a big Christmas dinner with all the trimmings.

Pastor Swings It

MATTITUCK, N. Y. (AP) — A presbyterian minister, Robert L. Sullivan, has decided to learn surfing to keep in close touch with his parishioners. He thinks his skill at guitar playing also will come in handy with the young people here.

Government Ups School Spending

By The Associated Press

The federal government is putting $10 billion this school year into U.S. education.

That's three times as much as six years ago.

Some of the programs, such as the Teacher Corps and Upward Bound, are brand new.

It does this by bringing 10th and 11th graders to college campuses for special summer programs of academic work, concerts, art exhibits, sports.

The students are brought back from time to time during the following school year. The hope is they will be motivated and helped to go on to college and escape poverty for the rest of their lives.

THE TEACHER Corps is designated to bring a mix of experienced teachers and college graduate teaching trainees into slum area schools, both rural and urban. They are brought in only on request of local school authorities. It means a personal sacrifice for most of the teacher volunteers, who are paid at the local salary scales.

This one is aimed at disadvantaged pre-schoolers, who often never see a book at home and who sometimes reach school not knowing how to hold or use a pencil.

In special summer classes they are started on the education road, and, encouragingly, the first year's experience shows their parents often get involved in school affairs for the first time.

This program takes hold in a field where nothing was being done before except for a few isolated local pre-school programs. President Johnson asked for it to be doubled this year, to make it available to 700,000 children.

A BIG JUMP in the government's involvement in education came with the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965.

One section of this law alone accounts for $1 billion of the administration's $10 billion total this year. The total of all federal aid to elementary and secondary schools is about $1.9 billion.

The act has three major parts:

Grants for building schools and buying educational materials for districts that have a heavy load of children from low-income families. The grants don't have to be matched by local funds.

Unmatched grants for textbooks and library books for public and non - profit private elementary and secondary schools.

Unmatched grants for local public agencies which qualify for developing supplemental educational centers and services.

Higher education also got attention from Congress in 1965.

That law provides for grants to strengthen college libraries, to help small developing institutions, for student scholarships and loans, and for buying equipments for undergraduate instruction.

This supplements a previous act providing loans at low interest for colleges and universities to build student dormitories.

NOW thoroughly established and popular in Congress is aid for schools in federally affected areas, called impacted areas. These are school districts near a federal military base or other installation where government personnel send their own children into local schools. The justification is that the federal property is tax exempt and so don't contribute to paying the cost of these schools.

Another older program is the National Defense Education Act, which helps public and private schools and community colleges strengthen their courses in key subjects like mathematics, science and foreign languages which are deemed important to the national security. This program requires a matching 50-50 amount from local funds.

The Elementary and Secondary Act also carries major programs to help teachers increase their knowledge and competence by graduate study, and for planning and educational research.

Universities that want to build new medical and nursing schools, or expand existing ones substantially, can qualify for up to two-thirds of the cost from the government, under another established program..

IN ADDITION the government has many less publicized programs to help schools for the blind and deaf, to operate school connected camps in national forests, and to help vocational education.

Certainly not least is the training provided by the Job Corps, adult education programs and manpower retraining, and the recently renewed GI Bill of Rights, which again will give veterans a chance for a college education.

Is all this federal involvement a good thing? Doubts and fears of federal domination persist, but many leading educators agree it is not only desirable but essential if the quality of education is to be not only maintained but improved.

President Johnson took up the theme of federal-local relations in education in a speech to school administrators last February.

"If education is to achieve its promise in America," he said, "it cannot and must not be done in Washington alone. Each state and each community must fashion its own design and shape its own institutions. But we will need a common vision to build schools to match our common hopes for the future."

'Capsule' Rooms Due For Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Capsule classrooms and dormitories will soon be tenanted by students at the University of Hawaii here, in a bold, new architectural program designed to meet housing needs on an overcrowded campus.

The capsules are pre-cast and pre-furnished, and like so many building blocks, can be switched around in different arrangements to meet changing situations.

Originator of the scheme is Prof. A. Bruce Etherington, who gave up a flourishing architectural practice in Toronto to come to Honolulu.

A hexagon capsule evolved from his work with Hugh Burgess, an art department instructor, and others, and small models were made of it.

The first full - scale capsule to be put into use will be an office because it is the smallest capsule, and needed the most. It will be built of reinforced concrete poured in a steel or plastic mold.

Footings, walks and canopies also are pre-cast so installation time will be cut to a minimum. The classroom capsules will be set in a circle around a portable electronic module housing movies and closed circuit television.

The dormitory capsules will house two students each, and will be hung from a central tower that contains all the necessary service facilities.

Shovels Outdated

Uncover Village

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — A museum curator's attempt to save artifacts before they are covered by waters of the Greenbelt Reservoir has led to the discovery of an Indian village several centuries old. Jack T. Hughes, curator of paleontology for the Panhandle Plains Historical Musuem, has been working in the Salt Fork River valley in Donley County.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I test bread dough to determine whether or not it has risen sufficiently for baking?

A. — Press your finger into the dough. If the impression disappears, the bread is ready for baking. If the impression remains, the bread must have more time for rising.

A. — Try ironing a piece of starched netting over the hole —which is usually a better and easier method of repair than stitching or darning over the hole.

Q. — How can I make a good job of cleaning my eyeglasses?

New English Says What It Means

By The Associated Press

You haven't heard a lot thus far about the New English, but it's likely be as important in the long run, and possibly cause as much excitement, as the New Math.

There isn't much really new about either of these; they simply are new or revised methods of teaching basic subjects.

The New English is being developed at 20 universities across the land under the leadership of the Modern Language Association, of which Dr. John Hurt Fisher, New York University, is president.

At the curriculum development centers, teams of university scholars work with high school and elementary school teachers to prepare better teaching material. For one thing, they are trying to show students how to say and write what they mean, instead of using vague or inaccurate phrases.

"IT IS WELL to realize," says Dr. Fisher wryly, "that by today's usage St. Benedict might have been called a communist and George Washington an agitator."

Dr. Fisher goes on to explain how words have changed meanings in different eras and cultures.

What to Americans is a "college," in Britain is what Americans would call a technical school. If in Britain you refer to a student as being "in college," it usually means he failed to gain admission to a regular university.

The new program is also broad-minded when it comes to regional differences in grammar and dialect. Noting that there no longer is just one correct pronunciation and one correct grammar, Dr. Fisher states that "cultivated speakers from New England and the South speak an r-less dialect. Grammar and pronunciation that in Detroit and Chicago are considered the mark of an uneducated worker may be the accepted speech in Charleston or New Orleans."

LINGUISTICS, lexicology and semantics play a large part in drills and exercises for the students, so that in the new English, the term "language" means much more than the former parsing and diagramming of the former inflexible English.

When it comes to literature, the student spends 70 or 80 per cent of his classroom time in this area, rather than the 50 or 60 per cent previously spent.

To provide more challenging and more interesting written material for the student, the curriculum developers offer myths, legends, and good poetry to elementary school pupils. This line has been developed successfully at the University of Nebraska.

At the University of Oregon, the high school course presents a common body of literary knowledge, using works like the Iliad and the legends of King Arthur as a central focus around which to build.

Recognizing that literary masters hit at the very essence of living, developers at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh choose readings which emphasize such concerns as heroism, love, human frailties and the never-ending search for wisdom.

AWARE that in the past there has been very little practice in writing in the elementary and secondary school years, the new program requires a great deal of writing, growing out of the language and literature studies. The students turn to rhetorical writers and speakers such as Aristotle, Cicero and St. Augustine to see how classical rhetoric can be applied to English composition.

Dr. Fisher notes that the stimulus provided by grappling with vital issues raised in literature study gives students something to write about, where formerly they had nothing to say.

The word about the new English is spreading rapidly. A year ago, 4,800 teachers of English attended institutes sponsored by the National Defense Education Act. This summer, the number had swelled to 5,300. Samples of the new materials are used at these sessions.

Rushing The Season

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A group of summer session students at Richmond Professional Institute decided to do their Christmas celebrating a little early this year. Because most of the group would be leaving at summer's end for other schools or military duty, they had their Yuletide five months early, decorating a tree, exchanging gifts and eating a big Christmas dinner with all the trimmings.

Pastor Swings It

MATTITUCK, N. Y. (AP) — A presbyterian minister, Robert L. Sullivan, has decided to learn surfing to keep in close touch with his parishioners. He thinks his skill at guitar playing also will come in handy with the young people here.

Government Ups School Spending

By The Associated Press

The federal government is putting $10 billion this school year into U.S. education.

That's three times as much as six years ago.

Some of the programs, such as the Teacher Corps and Upward Bound, are brand new.

It does this by bringing 10th and 11th graders to college campuses for special summer programs of academic work, concerts, art exhibits, sports.

The students are brought back from time to time during the following school year. The hope is they will be motivated and helped to go on to college and escape poverty for the rest of their lives.

THE TEACHER Corps is designated to bring a mix of experienced teachers and college graduate teaching trainees into slum area schools, both rural and urban. They are brought in only on request of local school authorities. It means a personal sacrifice for most of the teacher volunteers, who are paid at the local salary scales.

This one is aimed at disadvantaged pre-schoolers, who often never see a book at home and who sometimes reach school not knowing how to hold or use a pencil.

In special summer classes they are started on the education road, and, encouragingly, the first year's experience shows their parents often get involved in school affairs for the first time.

This program takes hold in a field where nothing was being done before except for a few isolated local pre-school programs. President Johnson asked for it to be doubled this year, to make it available to 700,000 children.

A BIG JUMP in the government's involvement in education came with the Elementary and Secondary Act of 1965.

One section of this law alone accounts for $1 billion of the administration's $10 billion total this year. The total of all federal aid to elementary and secondary schools is about $1.9 billion.

The act has three major parts:

Grants for building schools and buying educational materials for districts that have a heavy load of children from low-income families. The grants don't have to be matched by local funds.

Unmatched grants for textbooks and library books for public and non - profit private elementary and secondary schools.

Unmatched grants for local public agencies which qualify for developing supplemental educational centers and services.

Higher education also got attention from Congress in 1965.

That law provides for grants to strengthen college libraries, to help small developing institutions, for student scholarships and loans, and for buying equipments for undergraduate instruction.

NOW thoroughly established and popular in Congress is aid for schools in federally affected areas, called impacted areas. These are school districts near a federal military base or other installation where government personnel send their own children into local schools. The justification is that the federal property is tax exempt and so don't contribute to paying the cost of these schools.

Another older program is the National Defense Education Act, which helps public and private schools and community colleges strengthen their courses in key subjects like mathematics, science and foreign languages which are deemed important to the national security. This program requires a matching 50-50 amount from local funds.

The Elementary and Secondary Act also carries major programs to help teachers increase their knowledge and competence by graduate study, and for planning and educational research.

Universities that want to build new medical and nursing schools, or expand existing ones substantially, can qualify for up to two-thirds of the cost from the government, under another established program..

IN ADDITION the government has many less publicized programs to help schools for the blind and deaf, to operate school connected camps in national forests, and to help vocational education.

Certainly not least is the training provided by the Job Corps, adult education programs and manpower retraining, and the recently renewed GI Bill of Rights, which again will give veterans a chance for a college education.

Is all this federal involvement a good thing? Doubts and fears of federal domination persist, but many leading educators agree it is not only desirable but essential if the quality of education is to be not only maintained but improved.

President Johnson took up the theme of federal-local relations in education in a speech to school administrators last February.

"If education is to achieve its promise in America," he said, "it cannot and must not be done in Washington alone. Each state and each community must fashion its own design and shape its own institutions. But we will need a common vision to build schools to match our common hopes for the future."

'Capsule' Rooms Due For Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Capsule classrooms and dormitories will soon be tenanted by students at the University of Hawaii here, in a bold, new architectural program designed to meet housing needs on an overcrowded campus.

The capsules are pre-cast and pre-furnished, and like so many building blocks, can be switched around in different arrangements to meet changing situations.

Originator of the scheme is Prof. A. Bruce Etherington, who gave up a flourishing architectural practice in Toronto to come to Honolulu.

A hexagon capsule evolved from his work with Hugh Burgess, an art department instructor, and others, and small models were made of it.

The first full - scale capsule to be put into use will be an office because it is the smallest capsule, and needed the most. It will be built of reinforced concrete poured in a steel or plastic mold.

Footings, walks and canopies also are pre-cast so installation time will be cut to a minimum. The classroom capsules will be set in a circle around a portable electronic module housing movies and closed circuit television.

The dormitory capsules will house two students each, and will be hung from a central tower that contains all the necessary service facilities.

Shovels Outdated

Uncover Village

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — A museum curator's attempt to save artifacts before they are covered by waters of the Greenbelt Reservoir has led to the discovery of an Indian village several centuries old. Jack T. Hughes, curator of paleontology for the Panhandle Plains Historical Musuem, has been working in the Salt Fork River valley in Donley County.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I test bread dough to determine whether or not it has risen sufficiently for baking?

A. — Press your finger into the dough. If the impression disappears, the bread is ready for baking. If the impression remains, the bread must have more time for rising.

A. — Try ironing a piece of starched netting over the hole —which is usually a better and easier method of repair than stitching or darning over the hole.

Q. — How can I make a good job of cleaning my eyeglasses?

A. — Most opticians recommend an occasional soap-and-water bath for your glasses to remove the film of oil that gathers from the skin. Rinse, and polish with soft tissues.

Q. — How can I prepare "petite toast" for serving at breakfast?

A. — Slice hard rolls or French bread into rings ½ to ¾ inch thick. Dip into your favorite French - toast mixture and saute as usual. This is particularly good with whole-wheat rolls.

Because Of Short Skirts

Because of short, short skirts for girls from three to 30, legs are in the spotlight this fall.

Helping the appearance of even the most average looks, are the many types of hosiery available, from kooky to conventional, from knee socks to tights.

Tights particularly have come into their own. There are lace varieties for dress up, and velour and "poor boy" ribbed ones for tailored clothes.

Crocheted hosiery also is high on the popularity poll. This year's crochets, found in knee socks, over - the - knee stockings and tights, are woven in more open fashion giving a light, airy look.

Knee-high socks, last year the property of younger girls, will be favorites with teen - agers and college girls this fall. Cuffs add an extra touch to the socks. A plain rib cuff might decorate a cable sock, while a flat knit sock is adorned with a velour top.

Heather styles will be important in both knee high and over-the-knee hosiery. Other new designs include a thick and thin wave, a tapestry look with little flowers or diagonal patterns and an Irish style sweater stitch.

Color will be more subtle. Except for ski motifs, the trend is away from the sharp multi - color knits. Patterns are in the self-color of the stocking, making them easier to coordinate with clothes. Blending colors of the same family rather than matching identical hues is the important point.

Particularly popular shades will be sorrel green, currant, brick, plum, gold, sapphire and camel. White and off-white will head the fashion parade, with mauve and plum shades running second.

The Terns Return

ORIENT, N. Y. (AP) — Nesting terns have returned to Great Gull Island, at the northern tip of Long Island, after a lapse of more than half a century. They departed in 1897 when the federal government built a fort there. The island with its abandoned installation was bought by the American Museum of Natural History in 1949 and six years later the terns started to come back. Now there are 5000 of the birds on the island.

HERE IS A pretty young miss in a hand-smocked dress all ready for school. She is on top of the school-day fashion list.

You And The Law

Suppose the boy who delivers your newspaper misses the front porch one day and the rolled - up paper cracks your big picture window. Who is responsible for the damage: The newspaper or the delivery boy?

If the delivery boy operates like most newspaper boys, he is responsible. In most cases the boy buys the newspapers from the publishing company for resale to the customers on his route. He operates under the "little merchant" plan.

THE DELIVERY boy here is acting as an independent contractor, not as an employe of the newspaper, and is, technically, his own agent. The fact that he happened to throw a copy of the Daily Bugle through your window does not make the publisher of the paper responsible.

If the delivery boy is working for a grocery or drug-store or other firm, the story may be different.

Suppose the deliveryman in the store's truck is bringing a new stove into your house. At a corner, he catches an edge of the water meter and water begins pouring onto the floor.

HERE, THE deliveryman is not an independent contractor. The store would be responsible for the repair of damage. However, if the delivery was by an independent contractor, say the XYZ Transport Co., then they, not the store would be responsible for the action of their deliveryman.

Most companies carry special insurance to cover such damages. Newspaper boys, however, usually must sharpen up their pitching arm as "insurance."

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — On the ocasion of his 25th anniversary in the ministry, Dr. Orval Bear was presented $25 by his congregation at First Methodist church. The money, in quarters wrapped in tinfoil, was on a "money tree." With the remark "My wife takes care of my money," the minister turned the gift over to Mrs. Bear.

Cozy But Not Quiet

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A scissor-tailed flycatcher picked a construction crane as a likely site to construct its own nest, occupying the home even though the crane is at work every day and its cables pass within a few inches of the nest. The nest rests on an angle iron near the tip of the 85-foot boom on the huge crane.

Vocational School Plans 'Re-Tuned' To The Times

By The Associated Press

Faced with surprising statistics on the employment outlook for today's students, educators are rapidly re - doing vocational school programs to fill the needs of the '60s.

Recognizing that employers will be able to pick and choose the best from the huge labor force of the future—of the 13.5 million available, nearly half will be between the ages of 16 and 24—vocational experts are tooling up for reality.

In Memomonie, Wis., there is a 10-high-school program to teach students concepts of industrial management, production and service rather than concentrating on the narrower uses of saws and drills. It's supervised by Stout State University.

THE CURRICULUM also includes general - education elements so the students may understand economics, management, sales, distribution, personnel and other related segments of industry.

In two Richmond (Calif.) high schools, the program dovetails technical and academic subjects in a more natural relationship, uses a shop program to dramatize the relation between theory and practice, and applies new techniques to the whole, such as team teaching and programmed instruction.

The program consists of five major courses in the 11th and 12th grades — English, physics, chemistry, math through trigonometry, and technical laboratory, which is an integrated shop course. Students take these subjects as a group, but mix with other students in courses like history, social studies and physical education.

In the Newton, Mass., public schools, a Ford Foundation grant is helping revise the traditional vocational program. Instead of giving courses in specific fields in which the student may be frozen, the new program concentrates on clusters of skills.

Then these students are prepared for work as a dental technician or doctor's receptionist. Other students are trained in the same way for jobs in display arts, landscaping and engineering.

In several college-level institutions where the Ford Foundation has offered a helping hand, academic studies alternate with off-campus employment in the student's chosen field.

Northeastern University has the largest of these programs, in which all 8,000 of its students participate. Similar programs are being carried on at Hampton Institute, Va., and Golden Gate College, San Francisco.

Recently, he was asked to marry the granddaughter of the first couple, uniting Nancy Wesley in marriage to Lewis Williams.

Personal Dimensions Of Poverty

Schools Must Change To Meet Need

By HAROLD HOWE II
U.S. Commissioner Education

"What service can we ever render our country equal to promoting education?" Thomas Jefferson asked almost 200 years ago.

Today, as youngsters all across this great country head back into classrooms, I echo the question.

Imparting necessary basic knowledge to youngsters will always be one of our most important — and our most difficult — tasks.

It is even more important, and more difficult, for us to learn to help our disadvantaged children overcome the social handicaps they bring to school with them. The story of poverty is becoming increasingly familiar to us, but not so familiar is the relationship between poverty and receptivity to education.

BUT THE simple, harsh fact of the matter is that poor children, in addition to their economic handicap, have far less chance of a successful academic carere than the children of middle - class Americans.

They arrive at school hampered by a deprived home life and, despite a facility to learn equal to their materially better off contemporaries, all too often find themselves falling further and further behind through the elementary grades.

Some do not know the name of such common objects as chairs, tables and pencils. Some come with empty stomachs and with serious medical and dental problems. Despair is their patrimony; functional illiteracy may be their future.

There are some of the personal dimensions of poverty as they affect one out of every 10 children entering school this year. Typically, these children will be a year behind by third grade, three years behind by eighth grade — if they reach eighth grade. Many have dropped out before that.

DESPITE compulsory attendance laws, more than 100,000 youngsters dropped out of elementary school last year; more than a million left our schools without a high school diploma.

For a long time educators thought dropouts lacked self-discipline or intellectual ability. Today we know better. Many of them are "push-outs," baffled by an educatinoal system designed for middle - class youngsters from stable families.

Today we know that school performance and dropout rates are less related to a child's innate ability than to the interest and even the salary of his teachers, the per pupil expenditures of his district, and the number of books in his school library.

Poverty - area schools, with the biggest educational gap to jump, lag farthese behind in these resources, and thier students suffer accordingly. Their teachers are paid less.

The better teachers, those who have a choice, usually transfer to schools in more attractive neighborhoods. More than two thirds of our elementary schools have no libraries — provide no books at all for children from homes where comic books may be the only reading material.

Some disadvantaged youngsters drop out to get jobs. Some leave because they have little academic ability. But a great many — probably most who fail to finish school — leave the classroom because they find little there that seems real, vital, and necessary in their lives.

The school confronts them as a citadel that they must conquer with inadequate weapons and no particular encouragement. Discipline often displaces creativity in their classrooms.

DOLLARS alone won't solve these problems, nor will our increasing educational technology and research — though they help. What we really need is compassion, comprehension and concern as we work with these youngsters. They can't change; it is the shool that must change; it is to accommodate the needs of these students.

Changing our schools means broadening our whole educational horizon. This isn't easy. But we are trying and we have made a good beginning.

For example: thousands of hungry children now get breakfast with funds authorized under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. The Act, designed to meet the special needs of children in urban and rural poverty areas, finances remedial programs and tutorial services to help disadvantaged youngsters catch up with their contemporaries from the affluent suburbs. Through the schools, books, periodicals, and records are beginning to find their way into tenement living rooms.

Also under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, seminars to bring teachers abreast of new developments in their special subjects were held for the first time last summer; new graduate courses will begin this fall. An ESEA program called "Projects to Advance Creativity in Education" (PACE), designed to stimulate innovation in school services and teaching methods, is now underway.

The Elementary and Secondary Education Act answers other vital education needs. It strengthens state departments of education, provides funds for educational research and training, and authorizes special instruction in language, music and the arts, counseling and guidance.

OTHER NEW legislation seeks to tailor school programs to particular student needs. Under the Vocational Education Act, for example, local businessmen can cooperate in developing vocational courses that will train young people for jobs actually available in offices and industrial plants in their communities. Moreover, the Vocational Education Act makes it possible for schools to replace rickety, obsolete machinery and training equipment with modern tools.

Our new programs don't stop at high school. Guaranteed student loans, work-study opportunities and college grant funds are part of a financial package aimed at eliminating the financial barriers to college for all talented youngsters.

The Higher Education Act and the Economic Opportunity Act are the legislative tools we use in these programs.

Nor is educational aid limited to students; the Higher Education Act provides funds to help "needy" colleges, especially small developing institutions.

I have mentioned only a few highlights in our new national assault on inadequate education. It is too soon for us to know how successful these programs will be, or what new programs we may need in the future.

You know and I know that this business of offering an excellent education to all our 49 million school age youngsters is not something we can accomplish overnight.

It will require long and close cooperation between the federal government (the only government common to us all), and the newly - strengthened state education agencies, and the local school authorities in whose hands our schools ultimately rest.

It will require your effort and mine. It is surprising how much we can accomplish when we tug at our own bootstraps.

BROTHER AND SISTER can look alike in these elegant, but practical outfits. His shoes are leather oxfords with a stitched vamp, available in both walnut and black. Hers are baby gator print leather loafers. Available in black only. The young man's plaid jacket is in cotton, as is the young lady's dress.

Guide To Schools Aids In Choice Of Students

What colleges are hardest to get into?

What qualifications do you need to get into these schools?

How much do they cost?

These and many other questions are answered in the latest edition of "The New American Guide to Colleges," recently published by Columbia University Press.

Of special interest to many parents and students alike will be the "College Discovery Index" section of the book which summarizes admissions policies and tuition costs, based on a survey by author Gene R. Hawes.

The index lists 92 colleges as the country's most hotly sought after institutions. This is 34 more than there were four years ago, according to the book.

Most of the colleges which have joined the most wanted list are found on the east and west coasts.

The book includes individual entries on more than 3,600 colleges and graduate schools, with the Index listing them in order of accessibility.

After analyzing undergraduate admissions policies, Hawes concludes that in some areas "a desperate shortage of America's traditional colleges of open admission has developed."

For graduate schools, Hawes has found that 50 per cent are competitive or highly competitive in their admissions policies, sometimes even rejecting students with B or A averages.

Another 22.6 per cent have admissions policies ranging from competitive to acceptance of all B average or upper-half ranking students.

Nineteen per cent accept those with from C to B averages and the remainder accept those ranging from the lower strata of their classes of C averages.

CONNETQUOT, N. Y. (AP) — Alan Scott's fifth grade class at the Sycamore Avenue school is about to publish a novel — a space age thriller. It's called "Tide of Decision" and is almost entirely the product of the 28 pupils work. They carried on the project in groups responsible for a chapter each. The book runs to 150 pages, will be printed in the school district's printing department and sold in nearby bookstores and at the PTA book fair in December. Receipts will be put in a fund for future writing activities.

A New Learning Tool Helps Retarded Child

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —A box with a lever and four slots is "school" for a number of mentally - retarded children who have trouble learning by ordinary processes.

The psychology professor who invented the box hopes for the day when each youngster can have such a school in his own home, operated by his parents.

"There aren't that many teachers to go around for mentally retarded children," said Dr. M. Ray Denny of Michigan State University.

Basic idea of the "denny box" is to teach the youngsters by making it impossible for them to give a wrong answer.

Denny has made it a game for them, but the children like to call it "going to school," because that is what other children do.

Denny said retarded youngsters are lost when it comes to words such as prepositions—up, down, in, out, through, around and so on.

"The average boy will watch a ball enter a pipe and come out the other side," Dr. Denny said. "He will know what you mean when you say, 'The ball rolled through the pipe.' A retarded child may see the ball enter the pipe, but in the next instant he is looking at a tree or a bird or someone walking in the street. He will not see the ball come out of the pipe and will have no idea of what 'through' means."

With the "denny' box" the child is told to move the handle up, down, to the left or right, into the short slot or into the long slot. At first, three of the four slots are rigged with clear plastic barriers so that the handle can be moved in only the proper direction.

When the child seems to have learned the concepts, the barriers are removed. If the child then errs, the barriers are put back.

Denny first used the box for four months in 1961 in Wisconsin. Last year, he started using it with about 10 children at Howell State Hospital. Another seven children, receiving more traditional instruction, act as a control group for Denny to check results.

He said it will take "18 months to two years to evaluate" results, but thus far, more than half the children have retained what they learned and transferred it to real - life situations.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I deal with perfume stains on my dressing table?

A. — Apply cold cream as soon as the perfume is spilled, then wipe clean with facial tissues. My new paperback household manual deals with all kinds of stains like these.

Q. — Is there an "easy way" of opening fresh coconuts?

A. — Try putting them into a warm oven for about 20 minutes, then allowing to cool. They should then crack open of their own accord — but if they don't, a few light taps with a hammer will do the trick.

Parents Find School Tougher Too

By The Associated Press

Back in the so-called good old days, parents used to go to school only three times during their child's career — when Johnny first was dragged to kindergarten, when he got an "F" in behavior and when he (hopefully) graduated.

Today, chances are that parents will spend a great deal of time in school, particularly if the youngsters attend one which favors parent - teacher conferences.

Theoretically, these conferences are designed to give the parents an opportunity to learn about their children's progress and to give the teachers an opportunity to advise the parents on what they can do to help the youngsters.

Practically, the conferences are madhouses.

Father immediately announced he would not attend, maintaining that "a mother's place is in the school." By the time the great event actually rolled around, however, Father was temporarily placated.

Arriving at the school, the parents learned they would have three minutes — absolutely no more—with each teacher. They also would have to sign up to speak to a teacher.

Mother headed for English class, Father for math. There were six people already on the English list, so Mother signed her name, figured she had 18 minutes to spare and went in search of history. Father, meanwhile, was number three on the math list and decided to wait.

Mother finally got to meet the history teacher and discovered the how-do-you-dos took up about half of her allotted three minutes.

When she asked how Johnny was doing in history, she got standard answer A: "He shows commendable interest, although he is not working up to capacity." (Answer B is: "He is too withdrawn and does not participate enough in class.")

SINCE Johnny has been doing quite well in history, Mother begins to wonder if the teacher has the right child. Her suspicions are confirmed when the teacher advises that Johnny should get a haircut and avoid the Beatle-style. (Johnny has a crew cut.) Three minutes are up, however, so Mother leaves quietly.

Father, meanwhile, has been arguing with the math teacher.

"If plain algebra was good enough for me, why does Johnny need all this new - fangled math," he demands, while the teacher tries to explain that two and two really isn't always four.

After several more fruitless conferences and some hectic running from one room to another so as not to miss appointments, Mother and Father leave. They are little wiser, but they feel a good deal older.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Here's an idea for those who take frozen orange juice on an outing. Mix up the whole can according to directions and then freeze it.

By putting this in our cooler, it also serves as ice for hours and is already mixed when anyone of our family wants a drink of orange juice.

As it does not melt all at once, the piece of ice left keeps the juice cold. We always shake it after it partially thaws and before drinking.

Great for picnics or bonfire parties!

TEEN-AGER.

Bless you for writing it in. Many people take frozen concentrated juices and powdered mixes in the original forms. Your way saves space in the cooler, and also eliminates a hunt for water and something to mix the juice in.

I love you teensters.

YOUR HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: The hint about putting a tuck in dress hem (so they can be let down without re-hemming) is an old story to me.

I always did that with my daughter's dresses when she was a little girl; except that I made a two-inch tuck and stitched through the middle, making two one-inch tucks. By so doing I was able to let the hem down twice before having to take it out and re-hem the garment.

DEAR HELOISE: To remedy the problem of a plastic soap-saver not staying in the soap tray, I cut a think sheet sponge to fit tightly in the soap tray. I wet the sponge and press it in the tray; then press the plastic soap-saver into the sponge.

DEAR HELOISE: If your covered belt buckle becomes worn and ragged long before the dress does, try this:

Then paint the buckle to match the color of the dress. Most any kind of paint will do. Let it dry thoroughly, and the buckle will be as good as new.

LUCY BLOOMFIELD.

DEAR HELOISE: Recently, I started to apply my eye shadow and could not find the little brush I ordinarily use for this.

Being in a rush, and not having time to look for the brush, I tried a cotton tipped swab (the kind used in the nursery).

Parents Find School Tougher Too

By The Associated Press

Back in the so-called good old days, parents used to go to school only three times during their child's career — when Johnny first was dragged to kindergarten, when he got an "F" in behavior and when he (hopefully) graduated.

Today, chances are that parents will spend a great deal of time in school, particularly if the youngsters attend one which favors parent - teacher conferences.

Theoretically, these conferences are designed to give the parents an opportunity to learn about their children's progress and to give the teachers an opportunity to advise the parents on what they can do to help the youngsters.

Practically, the conferences are madhouses.

Father immediately announced he would not attend, maintaining that "a mother's place is in the school." By the time the great event actually rolled around, however, Father was temporarily placated.

Arriving at the school, the parents learned they would have three minutes — absolutely no more—with each teacher. They also would have to sign up to speak to a teacher.

Mother headed for English class, Father for math. There were six people already on the English list, so Mother signed her name, figured she had 18 minutes to spare and went in search of history. Father, meanwhile, was number three on the math list and decided to wait.

Mother finally got to meet the history teacher and discovered the how-do-you-dos took up about half of her allotted three minutes.

When she asked how Johnny was doing in history, she got standard answer A: "He shows commendable interest, although he is not working up to capacity." (Answer B is: "He is too withdrawn and does not participate enough in class.")

SINCE Johnny has been doing quite well in history, Mother begins to wonder if the teacher has the right child. Her suspicions are confirmed when the teacher advises that Johnny should get a haircut and avoid the Beatle-style. (Johnny has a crew cut.) Three minutes are up, however, so Mother leaves quietly.

Father, meanwhile, has been arguing with the math teacher.

"If plain algebra was good enough for me, why does Johnny need all this new - fangled math," he demands, while the teacher tries to explain that two and two really isn't always four.

After several more fruitless conferences and some hectic running from one room to another so as not to miss appointments, Mother and Father leave. They are little wiser, but they feel a good deal older.

They Help Teach 'Non-Learner'

By The Associated Press

The academically privileged—those students who learn easily, remember well and perform dazzlingly at exam time — can't possibly put themselves in the shoes of the non-learner.

Lots of adults have the same difficulty.

"Many children have vocabularies so limited that they are unable to speak in sentences. 'Huh?' "Out!' plus a number of curse words may be their entire repertoire.

"The experiences such children have had are so limited that stories in their primers will not make sense to them. The majority of these children—and their parents — have not been farther from their tenement homes than 25 blocks. They have not seen motion pictures, eaten in a restaurant, or ridden on a bus.

"Children may come to kindergarten without knowing their own names. 'Big Boy' or 'Brother' is the only name they have heard at home.

"Many children will fall asleep in the class because they find it difficult to sleep at night in the noisy room they share with three or four other children and adults."

SO HOW do you start giving these children the mere skeleton of an academic education?

In this particular Philadelphia district, the children had to be taught to speak in full sentences before they could read. Imaginative teachers used puppets, toy telephones and films to help.

Working with the classroom teacher on a school-community coordinating team are a counselor, a school nurse, the principal, reading specialists and others.

Tactics and techniques are flexible. Sometimes team teaching is used. Sometimes specialists take over while the classroom teacher watches the success of a new approach.

Tests disclosed that the children could understand spoken ideas which were completely baffling when read. So the teams redoubled their efforts to make the printed word mean something.

Practical classes in making curtains help brighten tenement homes—and also make a bridge between school and community.

To make the bridge even stronger, a non - professional coordinator is on a never-ending round of visits to parents, explaining, relating, encouraging, forever trying to break down such attitudes as: "What's the good of school? Johnny's never going to get to be anybody."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How can I improvise a padding under my carpets?

A. — With newspapers, several layers of them, laid flat under your rugs. These will do a good job of saving wear on your carpeting, makes the carpets look and feel better underfoot.

A. — In the first place, never put in water! Use a damp cloth (not wet) to wipe it off. Use a mild abrasive to take off stains or butter, but be gentle about it. The heating element cleans itself when you turn it on. A small paintbrush, kept exclusively on hand for the purpose, is handy for removing stubborn crumbs. And lastly, for safety's sake, be sure always to allow the toaster to become cool before storing it away.

A. — Toss pared or diced apple, pear, pineapple, or banana with lemon juice, sugar, and mayonnaise. Before serving, add thinly sliced celery, coarsely - chopped walnuts, more mayonnaise, and toss again. Serve on crisp lettuce, sprinkle with French dressing.

A. — One easy method is to sharpen a piece of ordinary chalk into a point, then press the point into the hole and cut it off. Next sandpaper the chalk flush with the wall and coat over it with shellac. You can then match the wall color with a little paint.

For Children And Parents

By The Associated Press

The Automotive Safety Foundation of Washington has set down 10 basic principles for school children and parents to observe, if the children are to walk safely to and from school. They are:

1.—Traffic safety education should be provided in the classroom.

2.—Every elementary school pupil should be taught to choose the safest route between his home and school, and to follow this same route every day.

3.—Parents are obligated to understand traffic regulations and to make sure their children understand them. Parents exert the most influence in developing their children as safe and self-reliant pedestrians.

4.—Uniformity is important in traffic control. Traffic signs, signals, pavement markings, and regulations should conform to nationally accepted standards.

5.—Signals and other traffic controls should be based upon engineering studies of the traffic flow at principal school crossings.

6.—Children should be protected at main crossings by school safety patrols and or adult guards in uniform, and possibly signal lights.

7.—School bus routes should make a maximum penetration into the residential areas they serve. Pick-up points should be located on minor streets, not on highways.

8.—Every city, town, and village should have a Central School Traffic Safety Committee. Each school should have a similar citizens' committee.

9.—Parent - teacher associations and other civic organizations should press for improved safety measures.

10.—Much of the potential hazard to pupils can be eliminated if pedestrian safety is considered when the school site is chosen.

Beefed-Up Road

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Interstate Highway 80 west of here was literally paved with beef for a time when a semi-trailer loaded with beef quarters careened into a ditch and scattered meat all over the area. The driver was not injured but his cargo was, and the 30,000 pounds of beef was condemned and destroyed.

10 Safety Steps

For Children And Parents

By The Associated Press

The Automotive Safety Foundation of Washington has set down 10 basic principles for school children and parents to observe, if the children are to walk safely to and from school. They are:

1.—Traffic safety education should be provided in the classroom.

2.—Every elementary school pupil should be taught to choose the safest route between his home and school, and to follow this same route every day.

3.—Parents are obligated to understand traffic regulations and to make sure their children understand them. Parents exert the most influence in developing their children as safe and self-reliant pedestrians.

4.—Uniformity is important in traffic control. Traffic signs, signals, pavement markings, and regulations should conform to nationally accepted standards.

5.—Signals and other traffic controls should be based upon engineering studies of the traffic flow at principal school crossings.

6.—Children should be protected at main crossings by school safety patrols and or adult guards in uniform, and possibly signal lights.

7.—School bus routes should make a maximum penetration into the residential areas they serve. Pick-up points should be located on minor streets, not on highways.

8.—Every city, town, and village should have a Central School Traffic Safety Committee. Each school should have a similar citizens' committee.

9.—Parent - teacher associations and other civic organizations should press for improved safety measures.

10.—Much of the potential hazard to pupils can be eliminated if pedestrian safety is considered when the school site is chosen.

Beefed-Up Road

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Interstate Highway 80 west of here was literally paved with beef for a time when a semi-trailer loaded with beef quarters careened into a ditch and scattered meat all over the area. The driver was not injured but his cargo was, and the 30,000 pounds of beef was condemned and destroyed.

Various Methods Pushed To Erase 'Grades By Age'

By GEOFFREY GOULD
AP Education Writer

Children are not peas in a pod.

Educators have been trying to cope with this basic fact of life for 100 years or more, and the pace of their efforts has quickened with the baby boom that began during World War II.

Schools are different, too, and they attack the problem of differing abilities in different ways. Some methods seem to work better than others. But all over the country the time-hallowed practice of freezing children into rigid grades on the basis of age is being questioned.

Dr. B. Frank Brown, principal of the Melbourne (Fla.) High School and a noted educational innovator, says "grouping by the length of the legs makes as much sense as does grouping by age."

HE ADDS, "there is nothing so unequal as the equal treatment of unequals."

The Council for Basic Education put it this way in a recent Bulletin:

"To put the fast and the slow, the extremely bright and the average, into the same 'democratic' mix is unfair to everyone concerned."

Almost every school is forced to adopt some kind of ability grouping. The question is what's the best way to do it. That is where the controversy and opposition come in.

In the past the classroom teacher did it herself by dividing slow readers and rapid learners into the "redbirds" and "bluebirds" or some such. Don't think the youngsters didn't know which was the "dumb kids" group and which was the "smart kids." The parents knew too, and sometimes objected.

Dr. Carl F. Hansen, superintendent of schools in Washington D. C., instituted a four-track system in the city's high schools in 1958. In his recent book about the experiment, "Four Track Curriculum for Today's High Schools," Hansen argues that ability grouping is inevitable.

"Often carelessly, sometimes cruelly, only occasionally in a planned way, ability grouping has occurred in one form or another throughout the history of secondary education — and in education at all levels and in every epoch," Hansen said.

HANSEN SET up these four tracks — basic, general, college preparatory and honors. He has tried to hang onto the idea of the comprehensive high school, in which all levels of achievement are represented, rather than setting up special honors schools.

But critics have said the track system is too inflexible, that teachers are tempted to use the lowest track as a dumping ground, and that once a child is assigned to the lowest track it is difficult to move up from it.

Hansen also has run afoul of the civil rights problem that plagues all big city school systems. Some Washington Negro leaders have opposed the track system because they believe it tends to discriminate against Negro pupils. They point out that almost all the students who land in the basic track are Negroes.

One of the most promising developments in the never-ending search for better ways of grouping is the non - graded school. This concept is being more and more widely used in elementary schools and is beginning to make a dent in high schools too.

Each student is encouraged to forge ahead at his or her own speed, in all subjects.

There is never a problem over whether to promote or fail students at the end of the school year. They simply pick up in the fall at the point they left off when school closed.

In the traditional graded school if a student is not promoted at the end of the year he must go back and repeat the same material for another year. This waste and frustration is done away with in non-graded schools.

For the less able students there is no stigma of failure. They learn at the rate they can and often find a subject in which they can excel and are permitted to. For there is a full range of differing abilities within each child as well as within a class.

At the same time an effort is made to free the teachers from the time consuming drudgery of grading papers, housekeeping chores or monitoring the cafeteria. This gives them more time for individual instruction. The flexibility of the system allows the teacher to work with smaller groups while other students are working independently.

The system requires careful counseling and monitoring of progress. If a student is good in English but deficient in mathematics, for instance, a program of remedial work in math is provided.

The non - graded system has its drawbacks and its critics and it requires a careful period of preparation, both of teachers and of parents.

In "Schools of Tommorow — Today," Arthur D. Morse had this to say of the Appleton, Wis., experience, where schools have been non - graded for several years:

"Does this mean that Appleton children are being coddled, that they are not being prepared for the realities of life?

"According to the standardized achievement tests they are outperforming their predecessors in graded classes and are exceeding national norms in all subjcets."

'Home Cooking' Will Prove A Hit

Fond parents are tempted to phone the first Saturday evening to see if their offspring is homesick. Or they write worried and sorrowful letters which will probably cause homesickness if it didn't already exist.

A more constructive approach to the communication problem is to bridge the gap with a surprise present of goodies. The college student doesn't exist who doesn't prefer Mother's cooking to dormitory fare.

But the gift requires some thought. A gourmet box from a specialty shop is good, but usually expensive. A handsome chocolate cake may bruise easily if it's in transit a long time.

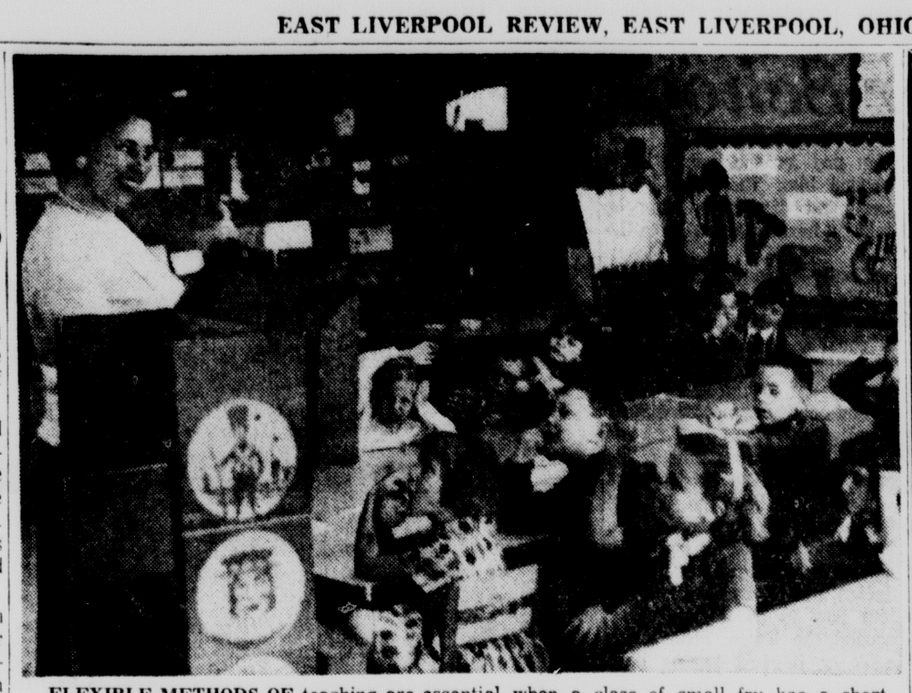

But there are ways out. You can ship the ingredients for a king - size feast if you concentrate on non-perishable and non-breakable items.

Triangular wedges of cheese in a cardboard box are suitable. (Forget the crackers. They'll be crushed.)

Soft brownies and date bars will survive the trip if packed in small units in aluminum foil, and placed in a box with crumpled newspaper around them for easy traveling. Candy bars usually make it without mishap, again with plenty of paper around them.

A loaf, rather than a layer, cake, preferably made from a brown sugar or molasses recipe, rides well, if wrapped in several sheets of foil.

A New Computer Assists In School

A computer center has recently been installed by the Christian Brothers, a Catholic teaching order at Lewis College, Lockport, Ill. The center will process and maintain all academic and financial accounting data on the more than 24,000 students attending the 45 Christian Brothers schools in the mid-West.

The machine also will analyze and compare student test data with local and national results, and re-allocate classroom facilities.

In Sacremento, Calif., a pilot data processing program is being used by the state department of education to process teachers' paperwork. It also provides a training device to give students first - hand experience with the machines so they can later find jobs in the field.

Help Prepare Children For School

By BEATRICE M. GUDRIDGE
National Education Association

But now with Head Start and other programs, the very young at other economic levels are getting some chance at preschool experiences.

And the day is coming, some predict, when the public school itself will be extended downward to take in all the children of all the people, perhaps as early as age 4.

BEHIND ALL this is the conviction that what happens to the child before formal schooling begins can make or mar his future performance in the classroom.

Of course the primary starter in every child's young life is still you, his parent. And with or without nursery school or community Head Start preparation, there is much you can do from his babyhood on to pave your child's way for a successful school career. Some examples:

Help him know he is somebody with a personality unique as his fingerprints. Call him by name, show him his reflection in a mirror, let him know that he looks just like himself, that you are proud of him and that you want him to be proud of himself.

Respect his ideas. Ideas grow on ideas and they are the start of learning, so answer his questions, listen to him (he may be telling you the biggest thing of his day), let him know he can talk to you about anything and that you really care what he is saying.

Help him grow out as well as up. Growing out comes from what he sees and where he goes and what he does — before he ever starts to school. Let him help you in your housework — the cooking, sweeping, washing, dusting. He'll be proud of the responsibility. Take him on errands with you — to buy a loaf of bread at the grocery, to have a pair of shoes fixed, to mail a letter. And on all the errands, answer his questions of "what's that?" and "why?". You're helping him know the world around him.

HELP HIM want to learn. School cannot make your child learn. . .it can only help him to. And he won't learn unless he wants to. Here is where you show him how much fun learning can be. Let him loose around the house cutting and pasting from old magazines, paper bags, and newspapers. Show him the different shapes of things around the house — tables, chairs, spoons, boxes. Use old calendars and playing cards to teach your child which numbers come after which. Or, with him you can count things — beads, macaroni pieces, popsicle sticks, bottle caps, buttons. All these games can help build skills on which the school will build still more.

Show him how to use his senses. If he's to be successful in school he needs to "tune in" all his senses — sight, sound, taste, smell, and touch — to the world outside. You can show him how to see, specially to "notice."

Trees will be just trees to him unless he notices that they are living things with leaves that change color and are of different shapes. Keep asking him what he sees wherever you are. Teach him how to hear by having him shut his eyes and asking: "Are there voices in the street?" A car going by?" "A bell?" There are many sounds in the world and your child grows when he learns about them.

Show him how to use his senses of taste and smell at mealtimes — What does he smell cooking? Which foods are sweet and which sour? Does something need salt? To get him to use his sense of touch, put a group of things together — a wool sweater, a piece of wood, an apple, a cooking pot. Ask him what they feel like—rough, smooth, cool, solid, round? When you continually ask your child questions about his senses, you help him stay alive to the differences in things around him.

TEACH HIM to get along with others. In school he will have to get along, so start teaching him not only to share what he has, but to want to share. Encourage him to think of others—you, a little brother or sister, animals, plants.

Let him know you expect him to keep his word, to say "please" and "thank you", to sit quietly by himself when necessary, and to trust you, his teacher, and all those who want the best for him. Knowing about these things and practicing them will build in your child an idea of what is right and good for him and for the people living around him. They also help his mind develop so that he takes a healthy approach to living.

Finally, give him something of his own — a place and a time that belong only to him. It could be a room of his own, or a tiny box to keep the things that matter to him. That is his — and nobody can enter without permission.

He already has a time of his own: his birthday. This is when you let him know he is king for a day. He also needs time to be alone. May be you have helped him learn a new game, drilled him on numbers, shown him how to do a small job around the house, gone for a walk or finished talking over something. . .all you could do in one day to help him grow.

Now it is his turn. He needs to be alone from time to time, so he can just think.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Readers: A woman who signed herself "Unforgiving in Klamath Falls" wanted to know if it was worth the pain and the humiliation to stick with a "two-timing skunk." She asked to hear from wives who have lived through it. I agreed to print the letters if the wives would write them.

Well — they wrote! I've never had such heavy response to a letter in all the years I've been writing this column. Here is a sampling of the mail:

From Buffalo, N.Y — I decided to stick with my husband even though I caught him with my best friend. I became so ill I had to be under a doctor's care but I was determined to keep my marriage together. And I succeeded. How? By giving him the second chance he begged for and vowing never to mention the affair again so long as I lived.

That nightmare was 28 years ago. We now have eight grandchildren and a truly good life together. Yes, it does pay to forgive.

BUTTE, Mont. — I'm a wife who forgave and forgot and I thank God I was able to do it. When I learned my husband was carrying on with his secretary it almost killed me but I decided to put my children's welfare ahead of my wounded pride. We now have a fine family, a respected place in the community and a happy home.

FORT LAUDERDALE: I stayed with a two-timing skunk and it didn't pay off. I kept telling myself I had to put on a good front so the children wouldn't find out. I learned years later that the children knew all along. They were putting on a good front so I wouldn't find out. I'm 53 years old now. My looks are gone and there is nothing but a wall of ice between us. I wish I had thrown the bum out 25 years ago.

LOS ANGELES: Two can play that cheating game. It's not for men only. My wife used to dream up the weirdest excuses for leaving me and the kids at night. Then I found a letter she had started to write. It said, "Dearest Darling: The minute the plane left for San Diego I missed you."

No man with self - respect can forgive and forget when his wife runs around with half the fleet. I just hope she takes good care of the kids. They are sweet and innocent. And mine, I think.

MORRISTOWN, N.J.: I'm a wife who nearly lost a wonderful man to an adenoidal, gum-chewing tramp. "Unforgiving" wrote that her husband asked for a divorce just before Christmas. I wonder what the tramp gave her husband for Christmas that his wife didn't.

My husband asked for a divorce on my 33rd birthday. I nearly went into shock. But for the first time in my life I took a good look at myself. I had to admit I wasn't much to come home to. I had gained 30 pounds in 10 years. I was so busy with my kids, my clubs, my garden and my mother that the house never looked right. The meals were lousy. I was too tired and too irritable to be even half a wife, let alone a decent companion.

Instead of calling him names I accepted my share of the blame and it was I who asked for another chance. We are a happy family now and it was a little tramp who taught me one of the most valuable lessons of my life.

OTTAWA: Since you know all the answers, Ann, please tell me how does a wife tell the difference between a reformed chaser and a worn-out old man? I'm sorry I stuck. Today I'm his nurse and housekeeper.

DEAR READERS: You've heard only half of it. Next, some teen-agers express their views about a cheating father. See you here.—ANN LANDERS.

He used borrowed equipment to smooth a rutted field into a level place for the children's ball games.

Student Station Proves Success

BUFFALO, Mo. (AP) — For 15 hours each day, radio station KBFL broadcasts the usual diet of local news and music. But KBFL is unique because its entire staff — on - the - air and technical — is comprised of high school students.

It's the only radio station in Missouri — and one of a handful in the country — that is run by a high school. The station accepts no advertising, but does get support from delighted townsfolk who have no other local station.

KBFL went on the air last September as part of the school system's vocational training program. Supervisors are Wayne Lemons, an electronics teacher, and Richard Hieronymus, 22, speech and drama instructor.

"The kids think it's the finest thing there ever was," says Lemons, 41. "Lots of them work extra time because they like it so much. They like to do creative things, different things like local interviews, broadcasts of school games and activities."

"We think the kids are getting into sort of a two-pronged affair with this," Lemons says. "It's very helpful for the speech and drama departments because they have a good outlet and the kids are motivated. As far as the electronics program is concerned — well some of our boys are right now installing some equipment they actually designed and built to our needs. They have adapted record changers to pay 45s and put in equipment to switch between different booths."

Only juniors and seniors are allowed to participate.

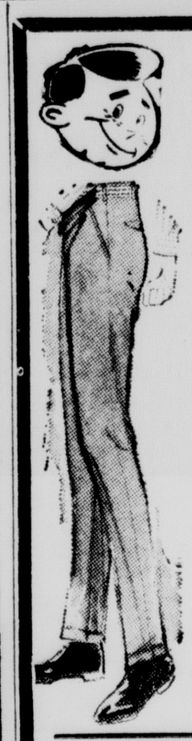

The original application to the Federal Communications Commission called for an expenditure of $8,000, not including the building. The latter brought the cost up another $6,000.

Acceptance of the station was so complete, that during the Christmas season more than 400 FM broadcast receivers were bought in Buffalo. The station can be heard in a radius of about 10 miles.

"We have lots of cooperation from town." Lemons says. "The people are always right here to help if we have a special program to push into the community. Since we have no commercial competition, we're the only immediate outlet."

Help Prepare Children For School

By BEATRICE M. GUDRIDGE
National Education Association

But now with Head Start and other programs, the very young at other economic levels are getting some chance at preschool experiences.

And the day is coming, some predict, when the public school itself will be extended downward to take in all the children of all the people, perhaps as early as age 4.

BEHIND ALL this is the conviction that what happens to the child before formal schooling begins can make or mar his future performance in the classroom.

Some educators go so far as to say that potential dropouts can be detected in the first grade.

Of course the primary starter in every child's young life is still you, his parent. And with or without nursery school or community Head Start preparation, there is much you can do from his babyhood on to pave your child's way for a successful school career. Some examples:

Help him know he is somebody with a personality unique as his fingerprints. Call him by name, show him his reflection in a mirror, let him know that he looks just like himself, that you are proud of him and that you want him to be proud of himself.

Respect his ideas. Ideas grow on ideas and they are the start of learning, so answer his questions, listen to him (he may be telling you the biggest thing of his day), let him know he can talk to you about anything and that you really care what he is saying.

Help him grow out as well as up. Growing out comes from what he sees and where he goes and what he does — before he ever starts to school. Let him help you in your housework — the cooking, sweeping, washing, dusting. He'll be proud of the responsibility. Take him on errands with you — to buy a loaf of bread at the grocery, to have a pair of shoes fixed, to mail a letter. And on all the errands, answer his questions of "what's that?" and "why?". You're helping him know the world around him.

HELP HIM want to learn. School cannot make your child learn. . it can only help him to. And he won't learn unless he wants to. Here is where you show him how much fun learning can be. Let him loose around the house cutting and pasting from old magazines, paper bags, and newspapers. Show him the different shapes of things around the house — tables, chairs, spoons, boxes. Use old calendars and playing cards to teach your child which numbers come after which. Or, with him you can count things — beads, macaroni pieces, popsicle sticks, bottle caps, buttons. All these games can help build skills on which the school will build still more.

Show him how to use his senses. If he's to be successful in school he needs to "tune in" all his senses — sight, sound, taste, smell, and touch — to the world outside. You can show him how to see, specially to "notice."

Trees will be just trees to him unless he notices that they are living things with leaves that change color and are of different shapes. Keep asking him what he sees wherever you are. Teach him how to hear by having him shut his eyes and asking: "Are there voices in the street?" A car going by?" "A bell?" There are many sounds in the world and your child grows when he learns about them.

Show him how to use his senses of taste and smell at mealtimes — What does he smell cooking? Which foods are sweet and which sour? Does something need salt? To get him to use his sense of touch, put a group of things together — a wool sweater, a piece of wood, an apple, a cooking pot. Ask him what they feel like—rough, smooth, cool, solid, round? When you continually ask your child questions about his senses, you help him stay alive to the differences in things around him.

TEACH HIM to get along with others. In school he will have to get along, so start teaching him not only to share what he has, but to want to share. Encourage him to think of others—you, a little brother or sister, animals, plants.

Let him know you expect him to keep his word, to say "please" and "thank you", to sit quietly by himself when necessary, and to trust you, his teacher, and all those who want the best for him.. Knowing about these things and practicing them will build in your child an idea of what is right and good for him and for the people living around him. They also help his mind develop so that he takes a healthy approach to living.

Finally, give him something of his own — a place and a time that belong only to him. It could be a room of his own, or a tiny box to keep the things that matter to him. That is his — and nobody can enter without permission.

He already has a time of his own: his birthday. This is when you let him know he is king for a day. He also needs time to be alone. May be you have helped him learn a new game, drilled him on numbers, shown him how to do a small job around the house, gone for a walk or finished talking over something. . .all you could do in one day to help him grow.

Now it is his turn. He needs to be alone from time to time, so he can just think.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Readers: A woman who signed herself "Unforgiving in Klamath Falls" wanted to know if it was worth the pain and the humiliation to stick with a "two-timing skunk." She asked to hear from wives who have lived through it. I agreed to print the letters if the wives would write them.

Well — they wrote! I've never had such heavy response to a letter in all the years I've been writing this column. Here is a sampling of the mail:

From Buffalo, N.Y — I decided to stick with my husband even though I caught him with my best friend. I became so ill I had to be under a doctor's care but I was determined to keep my marriage together. And I succeeded. How? By giving him the second chance he begged for and vowing never to mention the affair again so long as I lived.

That nightmare was 28 years ago. We now have eight grandchildren and a truly good life together. Yes, it does pay to forgive.

BUTTE, Mont. — I'm a wife who forgave and forgot and I thank God I was able to do it. When I learned my husband was carrying on with his secretary it almost killed me but I decided to put my children's welfare ahead of my wounded pride. We now have a fine family, a respected place in the community and a happy home.

FORT LAUDERDALE: I stayed with a two-timing skunk and it didn't pay off. I kept telling myself I had to put on a good front so the children wouldn't find out. I learned years later that the children knew all along. They were putting on a good front so I wouldn't find out. I'm 53 years old now. My looks are gone and there is nothing but a wall of ice between us. I wish I had thrown the bum out 25 years ago.

LOS ANGELES: Two can play that cheating game. It's not for men only. My wife used to dream up the weirdest excuses for leaving me and the kids at night. Then I found a letter she had started to write. It said, "Dearest Darling: The minute the plane left for San Diego I missed you."

No man with self - respect can forgive and forget when his wife runs around with half the fleet. I just hope she takes good care of the kids. They are sweet and innocent. And mine, I think.

MORRISTOWN, N.J.: I'm a wife who nearly lost a wonderful man to an adenoidal, gum-chewing tramp. "Unforgiving" wrote that her husband asked for a divorce just before Christmas. I wonder what the tramp gave her husband for Christmas that his wife didn't.

My husband asked for a divorce on my 33rd birthday. I nearly went into shock. But for the first time in my life I took a good look at myself. I had to admit I wasn't much to come home to. I had gained 30 pounds in 10 years. I was so busy with my kids, my clubs, my garden and my mother that the house never looked right. The meals were lousy. I was too tired and too irritable to be even half a wife, let alone a decent companion.

Instead of calling him names I accepted my share of the blame and it was I who asked for another chance. We are a happy family now and it was a little tramp who taught me one of the most valuable lessons of my life.

OTTAWA: Since you know all the answers, Ann, please tell me how does a wife tell the difference between a reformed chaser and a worn-out old man? I'm sorry I stuck. Today I'm his nurse and housekeeper.

DEAR READERS: You've heard only half of it. Next, some teen-agers express their views about a cheating father. See you here.—ANN LANDERS.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Educational Records Will Topple In Fall

By GEOFFREY GOULD
AP Education Writer

Americans always have been avid for education, and they are breaking all records again this fall.

Almost half the population will be going to school one way or another. Out of an estimated 196 million Americans, about 95.3 million are taking some kind of formal or informal instruction.

Elementary and Secondary schools — 49.4 million students.

Colleges and Universities — 5.9 million.

Adult education classes — 28 million.

College extension courses — 4.2 million.

—:—

Pre - school youngsters in the Head Start program — 600,000.

Others in government training programs such as the Job Corps, manpower training and so on — 724,000.

But the common denominator is a desire to improve oneself, either for personal satisfaction or to reach for a better job opportunity.

All this will cost an estimated $43.1 billion this year, with the federal government contributing a little more than $10 billion.

That spells big business, perhaps the biggest single business in the nation. Only defense expenditures are higher.

The government has tripled its investment in education in the past six years. Broad new federal programs are on the books and operating now.

Over the next eight years the whole educational establishment, from top to bottom, will expand tremendously, partly because of population increase and partly because more people are staying in school longer than ever before.

By 1974, a U.S. Office of Education projection shows, there will be a 74 per cent increase in students seeking degrees in colleges and universities.

THAT FIGURE will have tripled over the 20 - year period 1954 to 1974.

Where will we put them all?

State universities with dozens of campuses are adding more branches every year. Enrollments may reach more than 30,000 on some campuses.

There is wide recognition of the problem of alienated students, who feel they are going to an education factory and have trouble finding a personal identity among tens of thousands of fellow students.

There are about 800 of them now, and the goal of many states is to provide low - cost, comprehensive, community - oriented two year colleges within commuting distance of all their citizens.

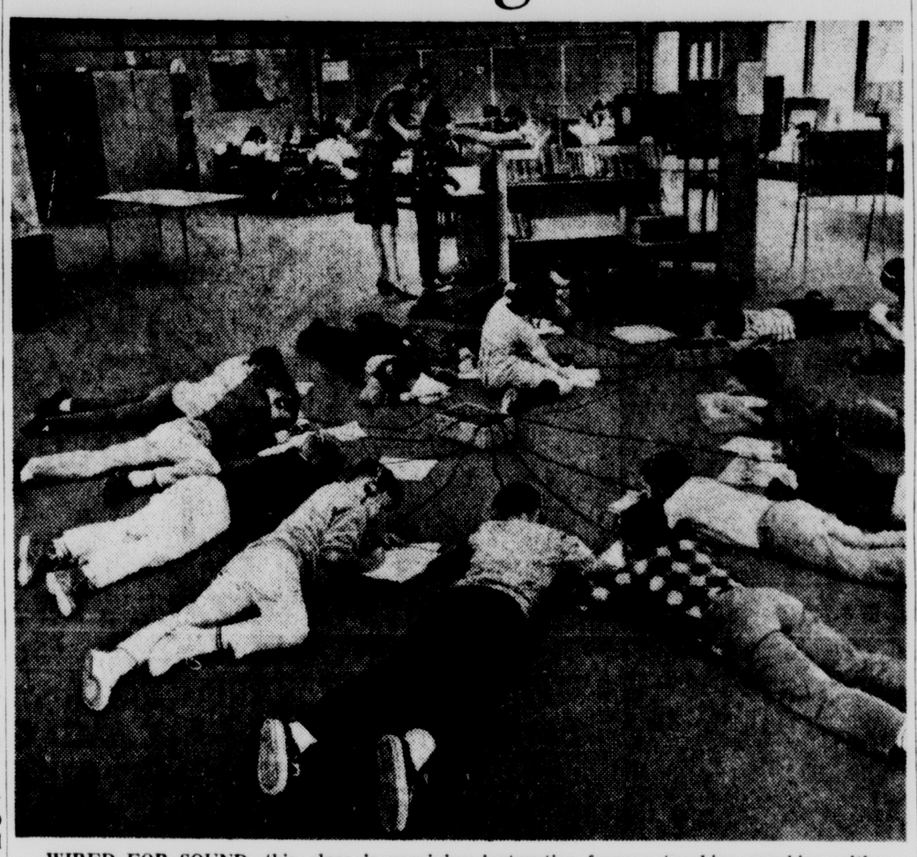

"We have no option," says Edmund J. Gleazer Jr., director of the American Association of Junior Colleges. "We've got to move, to do the best we can."

Gleazer estimates that the junior colleges alone will need 100,000 more teachers in the next 10 years.

The public elementary and secondary schools will need an estimated two million new teachers in the same period.

Computer Classrooms Looming On Horizon

The 'Teaching Machine'

By GEOFFREY GOULD
AP Education Writer

Whatever happened to the teaching machine?

The student sits at the keyboard and is fed information and questions on a selected subject by the computer, which analyzes the answers, tells the student whether he's right or wrong and leads him on to more.

There are many variations. Scores of commercial companies are working to develop these machines to the point of practical classroom use.

THE EDUCATION community is divided about them. Educators wonder if the machines will replace teachers. They speak of mechanical page turners and gadgetry.

John I. Goodlad, director of UCLA's University Elementary School, told a meeting of grade school principals this year that unless the new tools are used as a means of humanizing knowledge and encouraging inductive reasoning, "then we become merely gadgeteers."

The basic rationale of the teaching machine is that it will be able to present information to students more efficiently than a teacher can.

He sees completely computerized classrooms in 10 or 15 years, with each student at an individual console absorbing information prepared by the country's best teachers.

"The teacher should never be in the role of presenting information to the student," Bright said in an interview. "The machine can do it better and can do it on an individualized basis."

But he said "There are things the machine cannot do. It cannot teach what I call creative communications. It could never teach a student to speak confidently before other people, to express ideas lucidly, to handle the criticism of his peers and to apply knowledge to a new situation. These are best handled by the teacher in a discussion group."

The new role of the teacher, Bright said, would be to get students to talk rather than to talk herself.

The machine takes over the routine and leaves the teacher to develop creative abilities," he explains. "This is something we have never been able to afford before," he said.

But the computerized classroom, as Bright envisions it, is still a thing of the future. It is still to be developed even in the laboratory.

Behind the teaching machine is another concept—programmed instruction. It presents bits of information in "frames." The student must make a positive response before getting the next frame. If the answer is wrong he is sent back to review what went before. If he gets really stuck he is shunted to a remedial "loop" for more background Of course, the teacher or teachers are available for individual help.

'Less Talk, More Teaching' Called For By College Dean

Dr. Jacques Barzum provost and dean of Columbia University a gently - spoken scholar, confesses to some amazement when what he considers to be an expession of very simple educational truths hits the academic world with the force of a bombshell.

To him, a spade is a spade wherever you find it, and why call it anything else?

So in a calm, unhurried voice, he identifies some of these spades:

"We've bought our own cliches, and we've fooled ourselves by dignifying them. The simplest thing would be to call everything by its name. The teacher should be a teacher, not an educator.

"WE NEVER get around to teaching A, B, and C because we get bogged down at the beginning with our statement of objectives. Or we must have a study made before we can act. Then there are interim reports to file. And everything must be done as a team. We must square our ideas with that of the team. We haven't yet found the person - to - person relationship for quick action."

Bewildered by this educational haze, Dr. Barzum feels it is deepening, and extending its murky course in business and government.

"Why, huge business companies will write us generalized 30-page reports, and at the end, I can't discover what it really is they want of us," he comments.

The author and professor finds this lack of clarity in many fields: "I attended an informal discussion with editors and writers, and nothing much happened, so I made a small statement, and they suddenly all looked as though they were liberated. But why couldn't they liberate themselves? They had been tied up in knots over the most unimaginable difficulties."

Rather than being enthusiastic over "educational revolutions," Dr. Barzum comments: "There hasn't been a new thing in education in 125 years. Our current kind of education is less clearly conceived that it was in the 19th century. We've clogged the wheels. And our excuse is that we are swamped with numbers.

"We've known for 3,000 years how to teach, how to awaken the powers of perception in a student. But are we using this information?

—:—

"WE KNOW, like poets, there will always be a limited number of born teachers. We can't make them like cars. And no courses ever devised can make more than a certain number of non-teachers into teachers."

The educator had some specifics on ways to "get out of all this oil we're swimming in.

"We need, but I don't think we'll get, steady concentration on nothing but the three R's from the beginning through junior high school. I'd have the students read continually, read real books, and think about what they are reading. I'd have them write all the way along. I'd have them memorize poetry. There'd be discussion, too, to break down their inarticulateness. The teacher must have the grip on the discussion so it will be demanding. Perhaps with all this we can produce students as inquisitive today as they were when they were young."

More than 5 per cent of all private pension funds are invested in housing mortgages.

Campus Coats Mild Or Wild

Campus coats of dash and distinction should be eye-catchers across the nation this fall. No longer will the college-bound student be satisfied with a sturdy mousy - brown number.

For that reason, the prospective shopper would do well to take a careful closet inventory before choosing a coat lest pop art clash with op art for some unintentionally dizzying effects.

For a middle - of - the - road solution, choose a slim coat silhouette with a fullness toward the hemline and a back half-belt for an up-to-the-minute look.

The designers have thought of convenience too, and offer detachable hoods on coats so that a head scarf is no longer necessary. Many three - piece outfits add flexibility to the wardrobe, with coats having matching skirts and poor boy sweaters.

Avoid the kooky look when you're making a long - term investment in a coat, and express your personality instead in a faddy jacket. Pea jackets with brass buttons are stronger than ever this fall and the navy look, with Jack Tar collars and epaulets has even crept into full-length coats.

Hem - line attention is created by two or three - inch contrasting bands of color, and in the seven - eighth length coats which have very low bucket belts.

Educator Warns Against Training Nonstop Talkers

An educational consultant with a penchant for nailing a fallacy to the wall recently spent a lunchtime pointing up some widely accepted mistruths.

"There's a theory that as long as the teacher keeps on talking, the child is learning," said Dr. Stanton Leggett. "So we develop non-stop talkers. The poor child doesn't have a chance."

"How do people learn? Psychologists have discovered there is no one set way. Mainly, I feel it is getting a kid involved in something useful to himself and to his school."

Describing a program at the Exeter School in Exeter, N. H., Dr. Leggett said that certain students were released from all formal classes for two months, and turned loose to create what they wished.

"Some doubters thought the students might do nothing, but they worked harder than in class," he said. "One wrote a play which was good enough to be produced at the school.

"There are all kinds of ways of imparting learning. In Richmond, Va., science teachers have built a 'froggery,' an absorbing kind of aquarium for students to watch.

"In Scarsdale, N. Y., 84 students are studying computer technology, but working with real, not synthetic problems—the agricultural situation in Sierra Leone, for example."

Drives At All Times

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When the Guido Alexander family travel, they do it by bus. The bus was purchased for $12,000 and converted into a private cruiser for an additional $30,000. It is equipped with a kitchen, TV, and facilities to sleep 12. A restaurateur, Alexander travels with his wife and seven children. The family leaves the driving to "him." He's a regular bus driver for Greyhound.

THE CAMPUS look for all is invoked here in a corduroy suit, poor boy sweater, simply-patterned textured stockings, and the new, low-heeled shoes with a narrow strap.

SMALL FRY look trim in this type of worsted twill coat, good for parties and other dress-up times. The silhouette is A-line, with a half-belt in the back, a Peter Pan Collar, and set-in sleeves.

Enough Is Enough

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Mrs. Elizabeth Van Horn some months ago mailed a letter to a relative in Viet Nam, pasting on two 5-cent stamps and marking it air mail. The letter came back a few days later marked 15 cents postage due. She attached three more stamps and mailed the missive again. Once more it came back, bearing a Saigon postmark and with it a note saying it had not been delivered because another 15 cents was due. Mrs. Van Horn tossed the much-traveled letter in a drawer.

California's influx of new residents, formerly 1,000 a day, is now down to 850.

Educational Records Will Topple In Fall

By GEOFFREY GOULD
AP Education Writer

Americans always have been avid for education, and they are breaking all records again this fall.

Almost half the population will be going to school one way or another. Out of an estimated 196 million Americans, about 95.3 million are taking some kind of formal or informal instruction.

Elementary and Secondary schools — 49.4 million students.

Colleges and Universities — 5.9 million.

Adult education classes — 28 million.

Correspondence courses — 4.5 million.

College extension courses — 4.2 million.

—:—

Pre - school youngsters in the Head Start program — 600,000.

Others in government training programs such as the Job Corps, manpower training and so on — 724,000.

But the common denominator is a desire to improve oneself, either for personal satisfaction or to reach for a better job opportunity.

All this will cost an estimated $43.1 billion this year, with the federal government contributing a little more than $10 billion.

That spells big business, perhaps the biggest single business in the nation. Only defense expenditures are higher.

There have been some marked changes in the pattern of the education business.

The government has tripled its investment in education in the past six years. Broad new federal programs are on the books and operating now.

Over the next eight years the whole educational establishment, from top to bottom, will expand tremendously, partly because of population increase and partly because more people are staying in school longer than ever before.

By 1974, a U.S. Office of Education projection shows, there will be a 74 per cent increase in students seeking degrees in colleges and universities.

THAT FIGURE will have tripled over the 20 - year period 1954 to 1974.

Where will we put them all?

State universities with dozens of campuses are adding more branches every year. Enrollments may reach more than 30,000 on some campuses.

These universities — California is a good example — are beginning to be called multiversities, and their very bigness creates problems.

There is wide recognition of the problem of alienated students, who feel they are going to an education factory and have trouble finding a personal identity among tens of thousands of fellow students.

There are about 800 of them now, and the goal of many states is to provide low - cost, comprehensive, community - oriented two year colleges within commuting distance of all their citizens.

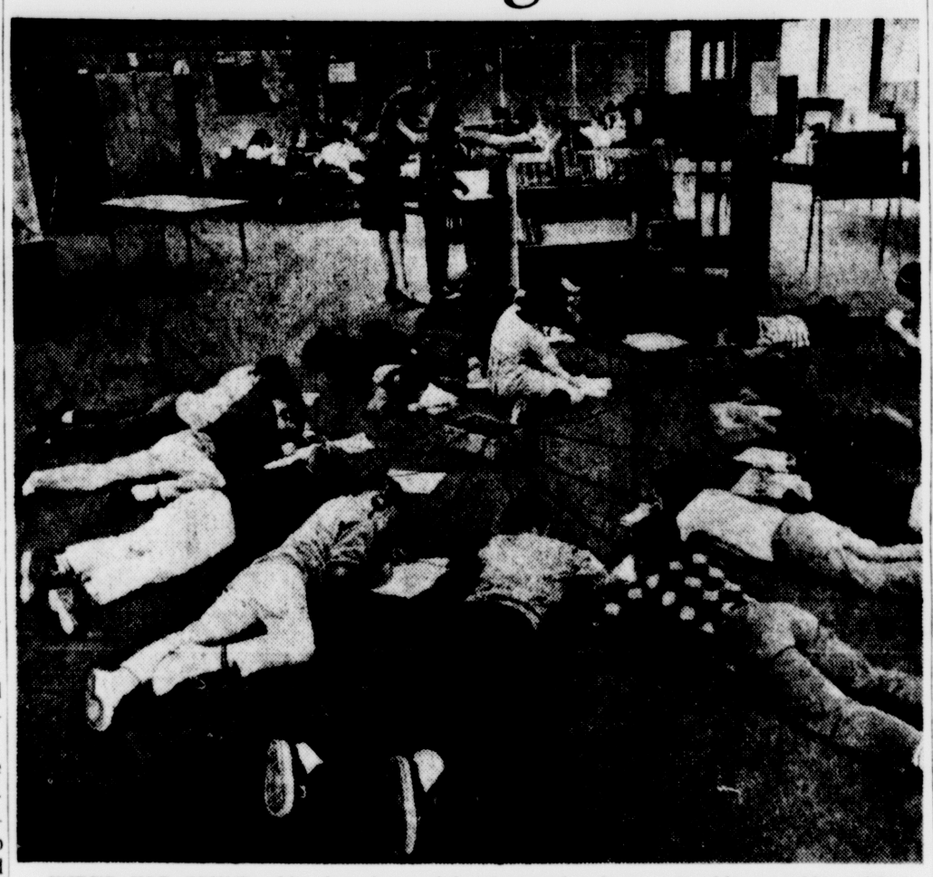

"We have no option," says Edmund J. Gleazer Jr., director of the American Association of Junior Colleges. "We've got to move, to do the best we can."

Gleazer estimates that the junior colleges alone will need 100,000 more teachers in the next 10 years.

The public elementary and secondary schools will need an estimated two million new teachers in the same period.

Computer Classrooms Looming On Horizon

The 'Teaching Machine'

By GEOFFREY GOULD
AP Education Writer

Whatever happened to the teaching machine?

The answer seems to be it's still on the educational horizon but hasn't really arrived yet.

The student sits at the keyboard and is fed information and questions on a selected subject by the computer, which analyzes the answers, tells the student whether he's right or wrong and leads him on to more.

There are many variations. Scores of commercial companies are working to develop these machines to the point of practical classroom use.

THE EDUCATION community is divided about them. Educators wonder if the machines will replace teachers. They speak of mechanical page turners and gadgetry.

John I. Goodlad, director of UCLA's University Elementary School, told a meeting of grade school principals this year that unless the new tools are used as a means of humanizing knowledge and encouraging inductive reasoning, "then we become merely gadgeteers."

The basic rationale of the teaching machine is that it will be able to present information to students more efficiently than a teacher can.

He sees completely computerized classrooms in 10 or 15 years, with each student at an individual console absorbing information prepared by the country's best teachers.

"The teacher should never be in the role of presenting information to the student," Bright said in an interview. "The machine can do it better and can do it on an individualized basis."

But he said "There are things the machine cannot do. It cannot teach what I call creative communications. It could never teach a student to speak confidently before other people, to express ideas lucidly, to handle the criticism of his peers and to apply knowledge to a new situation. These are best handled by the teacher in a discussion group."

The new role of the teacher, Bright said, would be to get students to talk rather than to talk herself.

The machine takes over the routine and leaves the teacher to develop creative abilities," he explains. "This is something we have never been able to afford before," he said.

But the computerized classroom, as Bright envisions it, is still a thing of the future. It is still to be developed even in the laboratory.

Behind the teaching machine is another concept—programmed instruction. It presents bits of information in "frames." The student must make a positive response before getting the next frame. If the answer is wrong he is sent back to review what went before. If he gets really stuck he is shunted to a remedial "loop" for more background Of course, the teacher or teachers are available for individual help.

'Less Talk, More Teaching' Called For By College Dean

Dr. Jacques Barzum provost and dean of Columbia University a gently - spoken scholar, confesses to some amazement when what he considers to be an expession of very simple educational truths hits the academic world with the force of a bombshell.

To him, a spade is a spade wherever you find it, and why call it anything else?

So in a calm, unhurried voice, he identifies some of these spades:

"We've bought our own cliches, and we've fooled ourselves by dignifying them. The simplest thing would be to call everything by its name. The teacher should be a teacher, not an educator.

"WE NEVER get around to teaching A, B, and C because we get bogged down at the beginning with our statement of objectives. Or we must have a study made before we can act. Then there are interim reports to file. And everything must be done as a team. We must square our ideas with that of the team. We haven't yet found the person - to - person relationship for quick action."

Bewildered by this educational haze, Dr. Barzum feels it is deepening, and extending its murky course in business and government.

"Why, huge business companies will write us generalized 30-page reports, and at the end, I can't discover what it really is they want of us," he comments.

The author and professor finds this lack of clarity in many fields: "I attended an informal discussion with editors and writers, and nothing much happened, so I made a small statement, and they suddenly all looked as though they were liberated. But why couldn't they liberate themselves? They had been tied up in knots over the most unimaginable difficulties."

Rather than being enthusiastic over "educational revolutions," Dr. Barzum comments: "There hasn't been a new thing in education in 125 years. Our current kind of education is less clearly conceived that it was in the 19th century. We've clogged the wheels. And our excuse is that we are swamped with numbers.

"We've known for 3,000 years how to teach, how to awaken the powers of perception in a student. But are we using this information?

"WE KNOW, like poets, there will always be a limited number of born teachers. We can't make them like cars. And no courses ever devised can make more than a certain number of non-teachers into teachers."

The educator had some specifics on ways to "get out of all this oil we're swimming in.

"We need, but I don't think we'll get, steady concentration on nothing but the three R's from the beginning through junior high school. I'd have the students read continually, read real books, and think about what they are reading. I'd have them write all the way along. I'd have them memorize poetry. There'd be discussion, too, to break down their inarticulateness. The teacher must have the grip on the discussion so it will be demanding. Perhaps with all this we can produce students as inquisitive today as they were when they were young."

More than 5 per cent of all private pension funds are invested in housing mortgages.
